Marshall Didn't Think Japanese Would Risk Pearl Harbor Assault

Retired Chief of Staff Blames "Non-Alertness" in Hawaii for Success of Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall testified today that the Japanese, in assaulting Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, took so tremendous a gamble that he didn't think they would try it.

The retired chief of staff told the joint committee investigating the disaster that there were forces at the Pacific base sufficient to have disrupted the enemy thrust. Such a result, he said, would have ruined the whole Japanese campaign of aggression.

"Non-alertness" in Hawaii, he said, was the reason for both the attack and its success. He testified that the prowling enemy fleet could have been recalled before the attack if the Japanese learned the defenses were ready.

Marshall said the risks of the attack were so big that he did not actually visualize it at that time, though his testimony recounted that for eighteen months beforehand he had been concerned over the possibility of a surprise raid and had been taking precautions against it.

Questions had just gotten down to the happenings in Washington on December 6-7 when the committee recessed until tomorrow.

Marshall To Resume Testimony

Marshall will return to the witness chair Friday.

The general's testimony accompanied introduction of documents from the late President Roosevelt's secret files, including a memorandum from Marshall saying "Britain is reaching limit of usable manpower. We must supplement her forces."

That memorandum bore no date but Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, said it apparently was written in the summer of 1941, before we were in the war.

The chief of staff proposed to prepare task forces for bases in the British Isles and to "secure, when opportunity offers," additional bases encircling Germany.

"Germany cannot be defeated by supply of munitions to friendly powers and air and naval operations alone," Marshall wrote, "large ground forces will be required."

He also suggested speeding the increase of air power in the Philippines and "small increases" in ground army forces and equipment to "restrain Japan from advance into Malaysia or Eastern Siberia."

Argued against Arms Move

Marshall argued against reducing the supply of America's own forces to send more arms to the British and Russians. He contended such a move would convince the Germans they need not fear "an eventual onslaught of ground forces."

Another document from the Roosevelt files covered the Hawaiian defense situation. It mentioned the island on Oahu as "believed to be the strongest fortress in the world." Written across it, however, in what Gesell said was the handwriting of the late Maj. Gen. E. M. Watson, Mr. Roosevelt's military aide, was this notation:

"Modern planes have completely changed situation as to the defensibility."

That document, its source unshown, was marked as having been filed May 3, 1941.

It detailed a program for bringing any enemy under attack from four-engine bombers 750 miles away, with the full fury of air defense to be applied when an attack got within 200 miles.

That apparently was the sort of defense envisoned by Marshall in today's testimony in which he said the Pearl Harbor force was not strong enough actually to have stopped the Japanese completely

German Admiral Planned Norway Invasion in 1939

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, Dec. 6 (AP)—Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, seeking U-boat bases, planned the invasion of Norway from the moment the war started in 1939, and with Dr. Alfred Rosenberg easily sold Adolf Hitler the idea, the Nazis' own official records disclosed today.

A story of cold-blooded treachery against the Norwegian government, which was lulled by German assurances of good will, was unfolded before the international military tribunal by the British prosecutors.

Earlier the British introduced a statement of Hermann Goering in which the reichsmarshal said that the British pledge to aid Poland in the event of hostilities delayed the start of the war for seven days, while Hitler sought to keep the British neutral.

Peace Pleas Are Submitted

Texts of pleas for peace or negotiations from President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, French Premier Edouard Daladier and Pope Pius XII, which the fuehrer rejected in the three weeks before launching his attack on Poland, were submitted.

The British also introduced the minutes of the August 12, 1939, meeting, between Hitler and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, in which Mussolini's son-in-law indicated almost childlike surprise at Hitler's announcement that he planned to strike at Poland.

Ciano claimed his country was unprepared for the general European war that would result. Other documents disclosed that Mussolini had pleaded with Hitler for an armistice twenty-four hours after the Germans drove into Poland but the plea met with a cold reception.

A Wehrmacht directive dated April 3, 1939, showed the German army had been ordered to be ready for the Polish invasion "at any time from September 1, 1939, onwards."

For the first time in the trial Raeder and Rosenberg heard themselves portrayed as the evil geniuses

Administration Agrees To Grant $4,400,000,000 Loan to Britain

Battle Lines Form in Congress, Which Must Approve Credit; London To Make Trade Reforms

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Truman administration agreed today to grant Britain a $4,400,000,000 credit in return for British steps to promote world trade—and battle lines immediately formed in Congress.

The British promised to carry out a broad program of commercial and financial reforms if Congress approved the credits.

The "if" may be a big one. Even before the official announcement was released at 5:30 p.m. Some congressmen were on their feet in both chambers with objections.

In the House, Rep. Celler (D-NY) shouted that the loan "will promote too damned much socialism at home and too damned much imperialism abroad."

In the Senate, Sen. Moore (R-Okla) demanded that the balance of a $390,000,000 RFC loan made in 1941 be liquidated by the British before new credits are given.

But Sen. Hill (D-Ala), majority whip, told reporters:

"The loan should be made. In making it we are promoting the interests of the United States as well as the stability and peace of the world."

Other Nations Seek Loans

Administration officials were ready with comment, too. Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, of the federal reserve board, released a statement saying that the decision on making the loan "will largely determine whether we will revert to a world of economic blocs, which make for political blocs and hence for war." Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton told a news conference in advance that the agreements would "open up the markets of the world to our goods."

The exact form in which Congress will be asked to approve has not been decided, officials said. But efforts are being made to reach a decision within the next few days.

As soon as the British loan is out of the way the administration is expected to go to work on requests from other countries. Russia once informally suggested a $6,000,000,000 loan.

The agreements were completed at a brief ceremony in Secretary of State Byrnes's office. Secretary of the Treasury Vinson signed for the United States and Ambassador Halifax for Britain. Both also initialed agreements for organizing world trade on a free trade basis at an international conference to be held next spring or summer.

Repayments Begin in 1951

The United States agreed to lend Britain $3,750,000,000 as soon as it can be put through Congress to finance Britain's reconversion to peace. The British will repay neither principal nor interest for five years. In 1951 they would begin repayments at two per cent interest over a fifty-year period.

On the same terms they would have about $650,000,000 with which to pay the United States for goods they received under lend-lease before and after V-J day which have not already been wiped off the books. The United States furnished Britain approximately $29,000,000,000 of lend-lease, most of which has been written off, and received from the British $4,000,000,000 by reverse lend-lease.

The principal and interest payments on the $650,000,000 are to be on the same terms as on the $3,750,000,000 so that in effect the British are obtaining a credit of $4,400,000,000. The money actually remains in the United States for them to draw upon as they want it. The terms mean that they must repay it by the year 2001, returning to the United States in cash approximately $7,000,000,000.

Reparations Chief Urges That Japan Be Stripped Of Much of Its Industry

By HAMILTON W. FARON

TOKYO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, United States reparations commissioner, recommended today that Japan be stripped of all assets abroad, virtually all chemical, steel and shipbuilding capacity and half her electric power and machine tool industries.

Pauley said in a formal statement that he was recommending this course to President Truman to destroy any possibility of Japan ever waging war again and to reimburse the countries she victimized.

"Equipment built up in Japan during the past generation consisted of plants for the purpose of waging wars of aggression," Pauley said, and "despite all wartime destruction," there still is more than twice as much in usable condition as when Japan started her aggressive course in Manchuria fourteen years ago.

"That surplus must be taken out," he declared.

These industrial facilities would be shipped to other countries, along with all Japanese capacity for producing many specified light metals, while all the nation's gold and precious metals would be sent to the San Francisco mint to be held pending decision on its disposal.

Equipment used solely for making arms and ammunition "will be destroyed," Pauley stated flatly.

Previously Pauley had indicated that while Japan's industrial equipment would not be desirable in the United States it would be welcome in China and the Philippines.

His formal recommendations today were made, he noted, on the fourth anniversary of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor.

Demilitarization of Japan by removal of her surplus production potential, Pauley explained, "will not mean complete industrialization."

On the contrary, he asserted, its removal, especially to other Asiatic countries, "will help to raise their living standards without depressing the standards of Japan—since only excess capacities are in question. I want to be emphatic on that point.

"Lowered standards in Japan are primarily a question of political and administrative disorganization naturally resulting from a thoroughly-deserved military defeat. It is up to the Japanese to elect themselves a government which will clean up that part of the mess."

30 Persons Are Reported Killed In Iran Attacks

By LEOPOLD HERMAN

TEHRAN, Dec. 6. (AP)—Rebels have killed thirty persons in new attacks in Azerbaijan province, official reports from Tabriz announced tonight, and Premier Ibrajim Hakimi demanded freedom of movement into the Soviet-occupied area for the Iranian government to "redress the grievances of the people."

Insurrectionist Democrat party members attacked troop billets at Sarab, killing twenty-one gendarmes and two officers, the reports relayed by the Tabriz radio said.

Six other persons were reported killed near Marand, between Tabriz and the Russian frontier, and the police chief at Tabriz was killed in another clash, the radio said.

The local police chief and president of the local tribunal were slain in the Marand fighting, Tabriz reported.

In Tabriz itself, capital of troubled Azerbaijan province, insurrectionists tried to occupy the military garage, but were prevented by Governor Bayat, who just recently took the governorship at Tabriz, the broadcast said.

Additional advices received in the capital said the insurrectionists had captured the Caspian port of Bandar Shah 130 miles northeast of Tehran, and had occupied government buildings.

A foreign ministry spokesman said there was an "urgent need" for the Iranian government to ask the United Nations assembly in January to send a Russian-British-American

UAW Again Turns Down GM's Offer Of Ten Per Cent Wage Increase

Strike Status Remains Unchanged, Reuther Says; Another Meeting Will Be Held Today

DETROIT, Dec. 6 (AP)—The United Auto Workers (CIO) tonight rejected a General Motors offer to "reinstate" its offer of a ten per cent wage rate increase which the union turned down prior to the start of the GM strike sixteen days ago.

Walter Reuther, UAW vice president, told a press conference after the meeting between GM and UAW officials adjourned, "The strike continues with no change in status."

Both GM and UAW spokesmen said, however, that another negotiating session would be held Friday.

Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, said in a prepared statement "The offer to the auto workers was made on a ten per cent basis subject to a final adjustment after detailed analysis."

Holding Out for 30 Per Cent

Reuther, commenting on the company offer, declared, "The corporation still refuses to discuss arithmetic and the fact that ability to pay should be a factor in wage discussions.

"We still maintain that an adequate wage to settle this strike is a thirty per cent increase without increase in prices."

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW, added, "I told the corporation that it was my opinion that the proffered wage increase was inadequate. And the strike will continue until such time as an agreement has been made on satisfactory terms."

Reuther told newsmen that during the conference a GM spokesman declared, "We don't say we can't pay thirty per cent; we won't discuss it."

Thomas interjected that he asked directly if GM could afford to pay the thirty per cent, but that GM spokesmen refused to answer.

No Price Increase Is Desired

Reuther reiterated the union stand that it does not want to "take a wage increase if it means increased prices." He said "Ninety per cent of today's conference was spent in trying to get the company to discuss economics."

The union officials disclosed that there was no discussion at today's session on the company's charges that the UAW had engaged in "illegal picketing."

"We will try tomorrow to get these people to accept some very sound practices in collective bargaining involving arithmetic. We are going to keep trying and trying," Reuther concluded.

Today's meeting marked the first time GM and UAW officials had conferred since the walkout hit 213,000 GM workers in twenty states.

The fact that the two came together was taken as a hopeful sign although neither the union nor the corporation, bitter antagonists heretofore, would commit itself as to whether a settlement could soon be achieved.

One report today said the strike might end within ten days with a compromise, but this lacked backing from any official of either General Motors or the UAW-CIO.

Pullman Service Sale Is Opposed

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Department of Justice, in a federal court, today opposed sale of the sleeping car service now operated by the Pullman Company to forty-three railroads for $75,000,000.

In a seven-page brief, which the court said Holmes Baldridge, special assistant to Attorney General Thomas Clark, filed, the government said the railroads could not comply fully with the court's decree for a complete separation of the servicing business from the manufacturing end because of the railroad's affiliations with banks, insurance companies and Pullman, Inc.

The brief says that if the railroads acquire the property their representatives would have to sit on the board of directors of the sleeping car company and, in doing so, would not be complying with the court order there be no relationship between manufacturing and servicing.

Commenting on a bid by Otis and Company, Cleveland banking firm, the brief states the Otis proposal has several "striking advantages," including its plan to spend more than $500,000,000 in the purchase of streamlined equipment to replace Pullman's present fleet of 7,000 heavyweight cars and the retention of the car pool.

Philippines Hero Issues Victory Loan Statement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — A Victory loan statement by Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of the Philippines:

"The Victory loan will raise funds to care for the men who fought, for the dependents of those who have given their all for the defense of the nation, for troops occupying hostile countries to keep the forces of evil suppressed, and to keep our country so prepared that there may never again be another Pearl Harbor, never again a Bataan, never again a Corregidor."

Gen. Yamashita Is Found Guilty

SENTENCED TO DIE

LT. GEN. TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA, above, commander of Japanese troops in the Philippines, has been sentenced to die for condoning atrocities by his troops during Nipponese occupation of the islands.

Japanese Commander in Philippines Is Sentenced to Death by Military Commission

MANILA, Friday, Dec. 7—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japanese commander in the Philippines, today was convicted of condoning atrocities by his troops and sentenced to death by hanging.

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, president of the five-general military court which tried Yamashita, read the verdict.

Nearly 200 prosecution witnesses in three weeks of testimony related story after story of mass horrors—rape, cremation alive by flaming gasoline and other atrocities—committed by Yamashita's troops.

Yamashita never once was accused of personally having harmed anyone, nor of having witnessed any of the uncounted brutalities charged to troops of his command.

He was accused, however, by witnesses who were close to him, of never once having lifted a finger to prevent atrocities.

Denied Knowing of Atrocities

In his own behalf, Yamashita denied that he even knew of such atrocities as he heard described daily in the courtroom. His defense was that he was too busy trying futilely to defend the Philippines to know what was going on in prisoner of war or internee camps, or in Manila itself as that city became a battleground.

He also contended that he was only indirectly responsible as commander, for he was subject to orders from Tokyo and from Count Terauchi, commander of the southern regions, which included Manila.

An epic of wholesale horror—the blood-chilling, monstrous story of Japanese lust and cruelty in the Philippines — was written into the records during the month-long war crimes trial of Yamashita.

It was a story fantastic in the volume and variety of mass murder, rape and fiendish cruelty depicted. Yet not one of the long procession of prosecution witnesses pictured the defendant personally so much as twisting the arm of a Filipino or speaking harshly to a prisoner of war.

It was a precedent-breaking trial; for the prosecution at the outset announced it would not try to prove Yamashita himself had committed any atrocity, but that he had failed to prevent the brutal excesses of his troops.

New Path in International Law

It was blazing a new path in international law, for in previous wars top military leaders have not been held responsible for the crimes of individuals under their command.

The prosecution did call two witnesses who testified they had heard —or heard someone else who had heard — Yamashita confirming issuance of an order to "kill all Filipinos."

The defense attacked the credibility of both these witnesses on the ground that they themselves were awaiting trial and hoped to get immunity by accusing Yamashita.

Chief Prosecutor Maj. Robert M. Kerr based his demand for a guilty verdict on the contention that Yamashita failed to prevent atrocities because he "did not care" what his subordinates did.

Hurley Declares Acheson Defeated U.S. Policy in Iran

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley asserted today that American foreign policy had been "defeated," and charged it was an "inside job."

The former ambassador to China also told the Senate Foreign Relations commitee that Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson had played "a leading part" in what Hurley termed destruction of this country's policy in Iran.

Hurley, who resigned his diplomatic post last week, did not go into particulars. He said simply that his accusations would be borne out by documents he had asked the State department to produce.

There was no indication whether the documents will be introduced when Secretary of State Byrnes testifies tomorrow.

Hurley clashed with Chairman Connally (D-Tex) and other members of the committee several times in the course of today's hearing on his complaints that State department career officials were sabotaging United States foreign policy.

At one time the white-haired soldier-diplomat demanded to know whether he was on trial.

"If you are," Connally replied, "you put yourself there."

Another time, Hurley objected that Sen. Tunnell (D-Del) was asking questions he had answered in yesterday's testimony.

"I am very tired, I am doing my best," Hurley said, "but I will go over the testimony if the committee requests it."

Hurley's reference to an inside job was in a statement he read to the committee just before it adjourned. He said:

"The fact is, Mr. Chairman, that the defeat of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, the defeat of the principles of the Iran declaration, the use of America's power to uphold predatory ideologies contrary to the announced policies of the government is an inside job.

"This is true whether the propaganda comes from career men or others."

Hurley said in the statement that he had been asked to name the men "guilty of leaks from the State department, which leads are de-

Great Air-Sea Search Is Launched For Six Navy Planes Carrying 27

By ROGER GREENE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Mysteriously swallowed up in the swift dusk of the tropics, five navy torpedo bombers with fourteen men aboard and a sixth navy rescue plane with thirteen crew members were the object of a great air-sea hunt covering thousands of square miles off the Florida east coast tonight.

Dwindling hopes marked the search, described as one of the greatest in peacetime history, but navy officials said the planes had a high degree of buoyancy and that in similar emergencies the crews had been able to launch their life rafts "without even getting their feet wet."

Reinforced by a baby flattop, the United States escort carrier Solomons, hundreds of army, navy and coast guard planes and scores of surface craft searched the waters on a 400-mile front from Jacksonville in Northern Florida to Miami in the south.

The front extended 150 miles out into the Atlantic to the Bahamas, where the Royal Air Force pressed every available plane into the quest.

A last, flickering message of distress, sent by radio from the flight of five Avenger torpedo bombers on a training mission, puzzled officials as the hunt intensified.

"Have gas for seventy-five minutes more . . . can't tell whether over Atlantic or Gulf of Mexico," the message is reported to have said, in effect, indicating they had been caught in a blinding storm.

However, the navy in Miami said the flight's last message, flashed at 5:25 p.m. (E.S.T.) Wednesday, gave its bearings as seventy-five miles northeast of the Banana river naval station 200 miles north of Miami.

The United States Weather Bureau in Miami said freak winds, attended by gusts of forty miles per hour or higher, as well as showers and thunderstorms, prevailed over the area off the Banana river station at the time when the last signal was received.

The sixth plane, a huge Martin Mariner bomber with thirteen aboard, set out to the rescue last night and was also believed down at sea.

Lipstick on Nickels Is Bus Drivers' New Worry

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 6 (AP) — Bus drivers today urged feminine passengers to keep nickels away from their lips and to cap lipsticks carried with change in their purses. The drivers complained that when nickels smeared with lipstick are dropped into fare boxes, the "susceptible" gong mechanism "goes crazy" and keeps ringing up rides.

House Approves Funds for UNRRA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — The House today approved another $1,350,000,000 for UNRRA with a provision that President Truman try to get American newsmen admitted freely to countries receiving aid.

The vote was 327 to 39.

Rep. Herter (R-Mass) said he sponsored the amendment because White Russia and the Ukraine soon would be receiving aid from UNRRA and whether American reporters will be permitted there presents a "serious problem."

Supporting the proposal, Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) said it does "not offend."

"It does not carry an implied threat," Wadsworth said, "but lets the world know how we feel about freedom of the press."

The House earlier turned down an amendment by Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) which would have restricted United States aid to countries which permitted United States newsmen to report UNRRA activities there.

The House wrote such a stipulation into an earlier UNRRA bill but the Senate rejected it.

Herter, who recently served as an American representative on the UNRRA council in Europe, emphasized that his amendment took the form of a request and was not mandatory.

It was accepted by Chairman Bloom (D-NY), of the Foreign Affairs committee, who had strongly opposed Brown's proposal.

Pearl Harbor Explosions Four Years Ago Today Foretold Dictators' Fall

[By The Associated Press]

This is the great uncommemorated anniversary of American history.

This is Pearl Harbor day—the date on which, four yars ago, on a bright Sunday morning, a surprise Japanese attack smashed the United States Pacific fleet at its confined Hawaiian moorings.

Not even those shots that the embattled farmers fired at Lexington and Concord were "heard 'round the world" with greater clarity than the Pearl Harbor explosions.

Those explosions foretold the violent ruin of Hitler's German empire, the collapse of woebegone Italy, and finally, three months ago, the abject surrender of famished, fireblackened, "faceless" Japan.

Four years ago tin-pan alley contributed a tinny refrain, "Remember Pearl Harbor," and President Roosevelt proclaimed December 7 as a day that would live in infamy.

Yet today, on this first peacetime anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the public remembrances of Pearl Harbor consisted chiefly of an aciduous and protracted congressional investigation into the original debacle and a statement by the present commander of the fleet on how much worse things might have been.

Gen. Marshall told the investigators only yesterday that forces at Pearl Harbor were sufficient to have disrupted the onslaught and thus to have ruined the whole Japanese campaign of aggression, but acknowledged that he himself had not actually visualized the possibility of the attack because its risks were so great for the enemy.

Adm. R. A. Spruance, new commander of the Pacific fleet, pointed out in a statement at Pearl Harbor that the dockyards, shops and other facilities were scarcely damaged at all by the sneak attack, so that "the Japs have lost forever the opportunity to score a knockout blow."

Aside from these postmortem items, this was a day of preoccupation with the changeover from war to peace, much as that first Pearl Harbor day was one of preoccupation with conversion from peace to war.

Nor was there evidence that the Japanese remembered Pearl Harbor, though its results lay all around them in ashes.

Their conquests are vanished, their navy destroyed, their armies dissolved, their chief plotters either dead, languishing in prison or awaiting the knock of the arresting officer, come to charge them with the crime of aggressive war.

The Americans they roused to anger four years ago today now rule the shrunken land of Japan.

Steps Are Taken To Make Certain Japan Never Can Make Atom Bomb

TOKYO, Friday, Dec. 7, (AP)—Gen MacArthur today took steps to make certain that Japan — the country that shuddered under two atomic bombs—never can develop an atomic bomb of its own.

The action came only a few hours after MacArthur had ordered the arrest of two of Emperor Hirohito's most trusted advisers — Prince Fumimaro Konoye and Marquis Koichi Kido — and seven other top criminal suspects.

MacArthur's headquarters announced in its newest order that every mineral resource which might permit creation of an atom bomb will be taken from Japan, even if it means shipping such minerals out of the country. Wherever possible, mining of such minerals will be banned absolutely.

Minerals Are Studied

Under direction of Lt. Col. H. G. Schenck, director of MacArthur's natural resources section, every potential war mineral is being studied for a place on the ban list. All mining will be limited to peacetime needs and research for war will be outlawed. A staff of civilian scientists already is undertaking an exhaustive study.

More than 5,000,000 soldiers and sailors have been demobilized, and just to make certain they never make more trouble, occupation officials are making certain they do not get key jobs where they might build up militarism.

Ordered arrested with Konoye and Kido were seven other top military and civilian war mongers.

Konoye, three times premier, member of the royal family and vice premier of the surrender cabinet, had been writing a new Japanese constitution and preening himself for a re-entry into politics.

Former Keeper of Privy Seal

Kido maker of premiers such as Hideki Tojo, confidant of the emperor throughout the war, was keeper of the privy seal until that position recently was abolished.

The other seven ordered arrested were:

Marshall Didn't Think Japanese Would Risk Pearl Harbor Assault

Retired Chief of Staff Blames "Non-Alertness" in Hawaii for Success of Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall testified today that the Japuanese, in assaulting Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, took so tremendous a gamble that he didn't think they would try it.

The retired chief of staff told the joint committee investigating the disaster that there were forces at the Pacific base sufficient to have disrupted the enemy thrust. Such a result, he said, would have ruined the whole Japanese campaign of aggression.

"Non-alertness" in Hawaii, he said, was the reason for both the attack and its success. He testified that the prowling enemy fleet could have been recalled before the attack if the Japanese learned the defenses were ready.

Marshall said the risks of the attack were so big that he did not actually visualize it at that time, though his testimony recounted that for eighteen months beforehand he had been concerned over the possibility of a surprise raid and had been taking precautions against it.

Questions had just gotten down to the happenings in Washington on December 6-7 when the committee recessed until tomorrow.

Marshall To Resume Testimony

Marshall will return to the witness chair Friday.

The general's testimony accompanied introduction of documents from the late President Roosevelt's secret files, including a memorandum from Marshall saying "Britain is reaching limit of usable manpower. We must supplement her forces."

That memorandum bore no date but Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, said it apparently was written in the summer of 1941, before we were in the war.

The chief of staff proposed to prepare task forces for bases in the British Isles and to "secure, when opportunity offers," additional bases encircling Germany.

"Germany cannot be defeated by supply of munitions to friendly powers and air and naval operations alone," Marshall wrote, "large ground forces will be required."

He also suggested speeding the increase of air power in the Philippines and "small increases" in ground army forces and equipment to "restrain Japan from advance into Malaysia or Eastern Siberia."

Argued against Arms Move

Marshall argued against reducing the supply of America's own forces to send more arms to the British and Russians. He contended such a move would convince the Germans they need not fear "an eventual onslaught of ground forces."

Another document from the Roosevelt files covered the Hawaiian defense situation. It mentioned the island on Oahu as "believed to be the strongest fortress in the world." Written across it, however, in what Gesell said was the handwriting of the late Maj. Gen. E. M. Watson, Mr. Roosevelt's military aide, was this notation:

"Modern planes have completely changed situation as to the defensibility."

That document, its source unshown, was marked as having been filed May 3, 1941.

It detailed a program for bringing any enemy under attack from four-engine bombers 750 miles away, with the full fury of air defense to be applied when an attack got within 200 miles.

That apparently was the sort of defense envisoned by Marshall in today's testimony in which he said the Pearl Harbor force was not strong enough actually to have stopped the Japanese completely

German Admiral Planned Norway Invasion in 1939

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, Dec. 6 (AP)—Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, seeking U-boat bases, planned the invasion of Norway from the moment the war started in 1939, and with Dr. Alfred Rosenberg easily sold Adolf Hitler the idea, the Nazis' own official records disclosed today.

A story of cold-blooded treachery against the Norwegian government, which was lulled by German assurances of good will, was unfolded before the international military tribunal by the British prosecutors.

Earlier the British introduced a statement of Hermann Goering in which the reichsmarshal said that the British pledge to aid Poland in the event of hostilities delayed the start of the war for seven days, while Hitler sought to keep the British neutral.

Peace Pleas Are Submitted

Texts of pleas for peace or negotiations from President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, French Premier Edouard Daladier and Pope Pius XII, which the fuehrer rejected in the three weeks before launching his attack on Poland, were submitted.

The British also introduced the minutes of the August 12, 1939, meeting, between Hitler and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, in which Mussolini's son-in-law indicated almost childlike surprise at Hitler's announcement that he planned to strike at Poland.

Ciano claimed his country was unprepared for the general European war that would result. Other documents disclosed that Mussolini had pleaded with Hitler for an armistice twenty-four hours after the Germans drove into Poland but the plea met with a cold reception.

A Wehrmacht directive dated April 3, 1939, showed the German army had been ordered to be ready for the Polish invasion "at any time from September 1, 1939, onwards."

For the first time in the trial Raeder and Rosenberg heard themselves portrayed as the evil geniuses

Great Air-Sea Search Is Launched For Six Navy Planes Carrying 27

By ROGER GREENE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Mysteriously swallowed up in the swift dusk of the tropics, five navy torpedo bombers with fourteen men aboard and a sixth navy rescue plane with thirteen crew members were the object of a great air-sea hunt covering thousands of square miles off the Florida east coast tonight.

Dwindling hopes marked the search, described as one of the greatest in peacetime history, but navy officials said the planes had a high degree of buoyancy and that in similar emergencies the crews had been able to launch their life rafts "without even getting their feet wet."

Reinforced by a baby flattop, the United States escort carrier Solomons, hundreds of army, navy and coast guard planes and scores of surface craft searched the waters on a 400-mile front from Jacksonville in Northern Florida to Miami in the south.

The front extended 150 miles out into the Atlantic to the Bahamas, where the Royal Air Force pressed every available plane into the quest.

A last, flickering message of distress, sent by radio from the flight of five Avenger torpedo bombers on a training mission, puzzled officials as the hunt intensified.

"Have gas for seventy-five minutes more . . . can't tell whether over Atlantic or Gulf of Mexico," the message is reported to have said. In effect, indicating they had been caught in a blinding storm.

However, the navy in Miami said the flight's last message, flashed at 5:25 p. m. (E.S.T.) Wednesday, gave its bearings as seventy-five miles northeast of the Banana river naval station 200 miles north of Miami.

The United States Weather Bureau in Miami said freak winds, attended by gusts of forty miles per hour or higher, as well as showers and thunderstorms, prevailed over the area off the Banana river station at the time when the last signal was received.

The sixth plane, a huge Martin Mariner bomber with thirteen aboard, set out to the rescue last night and was also believed down at sea.

Lipstick on Nickels Is Bus Drivers' New Worry

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 6 (AP) — Bus drivers today urged feminine passengers to keep nickels away from their lips and to cap lipsticks carried with change in their purses. The drivers complained that when nickels smeared with lipstick are dropped into fare boxes, the "susceptible" gong mechanism "goes crazy" and keeps ringing up rides.

Administration Agrees To Grant $4,400,000,000 Loan to Britain

Battle Lines Form in Congress, Which Must Approve Credit; London To Make Trade Reforms

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Truman administration agreed today to grant Britain a $4,400,000,000 credit in return for British steps to promote world trade—and battle lines immediately formed in Congress.

The British promised to carry out a broad program of commercial and financial reforms if Congress approved the credits.

The "if" may be a big one. Even before the official announcement was released at 5:30 p.m. Some congressmen were on their feet in both chambers with objections.

In the House, Rep. Celler (D-NY) shouted that the loan "will promote too damned much socialism at home and too damned much imperialism abroad."

In the Senate, Sen. Moore (R-Okla) demanded that the balance of a $390,000,000 RFC loan made in 1941 be liquidated by the British before new credits are given.

But Sen. Hill (D-Ala), majority whip, told reporters:

"The loan should be made. In making it we are promoting the interests of the United States as well as the stability and peace of the world."

Other Nations Seek Loans

Administration officials were ready with comment, too. Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, of the federal reserve board, released a statement saying that the decision on making the loan "will largely determine whether we will revert to a world of economic blocs, which make for political blocs and hence for war." Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton told a news conference in advance that the agreements would "open up the markets of the world to our goods."

The exact form in which Congress will be asked to approve has not been decided, officials said. But efforts are being made to reach a decision within the next few days.

As soon as the British loan is out of the way the administration is expected to go to work on requests from other countries. Russia once informally suggested a $6,000,000,000 loan.

The agreements were completed at a brief ceremony in Secretary of State Byrnes's office. Secretary of the Treasury Vinson signed for the United States and Ambassador Halifax for Britain. Both also initialed agreements for organizing world trade on a free trade basis at an international conference to be held next spring or summer.

Repayments Begin in 1951

The United States agreed to lend Britain $3,750,000,000 as soon as it can be put through Congress to finance Britain's reconversion to peace. The British will repay neither principal nor interest for five years. In 1951 they would begin repayments at two per cent interest over a fifty-year period.

On the same terms they would have about $650,000,000 with which to pay the United States for goods they received under lend-lease before and after V-J day which have not already been wiped off the books. The United States furnished Britain approximately $29,000,000,000 of lend-lease, most of which has been written off, and received from the British $4,000,000,000 by reverse lend-lease.

The principal and interest payments on the $650,000,000 are to be on the same terms as on the $3,750,000,000 so that in effect the British are obtaining a credit of $4,400,000,000. The money actually remains in the United States for them to draw upon as they want it. The terms mean that they must repay it by the year 2001, returning to the United States in cash approximately $7,000,000,000.

House Approves Funds for UNRRA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — The House today approved another $1,350,000,000 for UNRRA with a provision that President Truman try to get American newsmen admitted freely to countries receiving aid.

The vote was 327 to 39.

Rep. Herter (R-Mass) said he sponsored the amendment because White Russia and the Ukraine soon would be receiving aid from UNRRA and whether American reporters will be permitted there presents a "serious problem."

Supporting the proposal, Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) said it does "not offend."

"It does not carry an implied threat," Wadsworth said, "but lets the world know how we feel about freedom of the press."

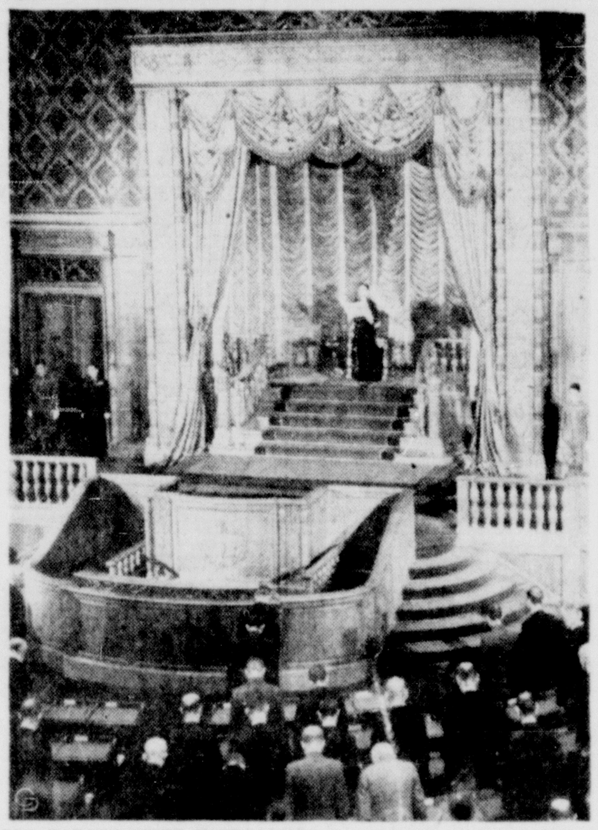

The House earlier turned down an amendment by Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) which would have restricted United States aid to countries which permitted United States newsmen to report UNRRA activities there.

The House wrote such a stipulation into an earlier UNRRA bill but the Senate rejected it.

Herter, who recently served as an American representative on the UNRRA council in Europe, emphasized that his amendment took the form of a request and was not mandatory.

It was accepted by Chairman Bloom (D-NY), of the Foreign Affairs committee, who had strongly opposed Brown's proposal.

Reparations Chief Urges That Japan Be Stripped Of Much of Its Industry

By HAMILTON W. FARON

TOKYO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, United States reparations commissioner, recommended today that Japan be stripped of all assets abroad, virtually all chemical, steel and shipbuilding capacity and half her electric power and machine tool industries.

Pauley said in a formal statement that he was recommending this course to President Truman to destroy any possibility of Japan ever waging war again and to reimburse the countries she victimized.

"Equipment built up in Japan during the past generation consisted of plants for the purpose of waging wars of aggression," Pauley said, and "despite all wartime destruction," there still is more than twice as much in usable condition as when Japan started her aggressive course in Manchuria fourteen years ago.

"That surplus must be taken out," he declared.

These industrial facilities would be shipped to other countries, along with all Japanese capacity for producing many specified light metals, while all the nation's gold and precious metals would be sent to the San Francisco mint to be held pending decision on its disposal.

Equipment used solely for making arms and ammunition "will be destroyed," Pauley stated flatly.

Previously Pauley had indicated that while Japan's industrial equipment would not be desirable in the United States it would be welcome in China and the Philippines.

His formal recommendations today were made, he noted, on the fourth anniversary of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor.

Demilitarization of Japan by removal of her surplus production potential, Pauley explained, "will not mean complete industrialization."

On the contrary, he asserted, its removal, especially to other Asiatic countries, "will help to raise their living standards without depressing the standards of Japan—since only excess capacities are in question. I want to be emphatic on that point.

"Lowered standards in Japan are primarily a question of political and administrative disorganization naturally resulting from a thoroughly-deserved military defeat. It is up to the Japanese to elect themselves a government which will clean up that part of the mess."

30 Persons Are Reported Killed In Iran Attacks

By LEOPOLD HERMAN

TEHRAN, Dec. 6, (AP) — Rebels have killed thirty persons in new attacks in Azerbaijan province, official reports from Tabriz announced tonight, and Premier Ibrajim Hakimi demanded freedom of movement into the Soviet-occupied area for the Iranian government to "redress the grievances of the people."

Insurrectionist Democrat party members attacked troop billets at Sarab, killing twenty-one gendarmes and two officers, the reports relayed by the Tabriz radio said.

Six other persons were reported killed near Marand, between Tabriz and the Russian frontier, and the police chief at Tabriz was killed in another clash, the radio said.

The local police chief and president of the local tribunal were slain in the Marand fighting, Tabriz reported.

In Tabriz itself, capital of troubled Azerbaijan province, insurrectionists tried to occupy the military garage, but were prevented by Governor Bayat, who just recently took the governorship at Tabriz, the broadcast said.

Additional advices received in the capital said the insurrectionists had captured the Caspian port of Bandar Shah 130 miles northeast of Tehran, and had occupied government buildings.

A foreign ministry spokesman said there was an "urgent need" for the Iranian government to ask the United Nations assembly in January to send a Russian-British-American

Pearl Harbor Explosions Four Years Ago Today Foretold Dictators' Fall

[By The Associated Press]

This is the great uncommemorated anniversary of American history.

This is Pearl Harbor day—the date on which, four years ago, on a bright Sunday morning, a surprise Japanese attack smashed the United States Pacific fleet at its confined Hawaiian moorings.

Not even those shots that the embattled farmers fired at Lexington and Concord were "heard 'round the world" with greater clarity than the Pearl Harbor explosions.

Those explosions foretold the violent ruin of Hitler's German empire, the collapse of woebegone Italy, and finally, three months ago, the abject surrender of famished, fireblackened, "faceless" Japan.

Four years ago tin-pan alley contributed a tinny refrain, "Remember Pearl Harbor," and President Roosevelt proclaimed December 7 as a day that would live in infamy.

Yet today, on this first peacetime anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the public remembrances of Pearl Harbor consisted chiefly of an acidulous and protracted congressional investigation into the original debacle and a statement by the present commander of the fleet on how much worse things might have been.

Gen. Marshall told the investigators only yesterday that forces at Pearl Harbor were sufficient to have disrupted the onslaught and thus to have ruined the whole Japanese campaign of aggression, but acknowledged that he himself had not actually visualized the possibility of the attack because its risks were so great for the enemy.

Adm. R. A. Spruance, new commander of the Pacific fleet, pointed out in a statement at Pearl Harbor that the dockyards, shops and other facilities were scarcely damaged at all by the sneak attack, so that "the Japs have lost forever the opportunity to score a knockout blow."

Aside from these postmortem items, this was a day of preoccupation with the changeover from war to peace, much as that first Pearl Harbor day was one of preoccupation with conversion from peace to war.

Nor was there evidence that the Japanese remembered Pearl Harbor, though its results lay all around them in ashes.

Their conquests are vanished, their navy destroyed, their armies dissolved, their chief plotters either dead, languishing in prison or awaiting the knock of the arresting officer, come to charge them with the crime of aggressive war.

The Americans they roused to anger four years ago today now rule the shrunken land of Japan.

Strike Status Remains Unchanged, Reuther Says; Another Meeting Will Be Held Today

DETROIT, Dec. 6 (AP)—The United Auto Workers (CIO) tonight rejected a General Motors offer to "reinstate" its offer of a ten per cent wage rate increase which the union turned down prior to the start of the GM strike sixteen days ago.

Walter Reuther, UAW vice president, told a press conference after the meeting between GM and UAW officials adjourned, "The strike continues with no change in status."

Both GM and UAW spokesmen said, however, that another negotiating session would be held Friday.

Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president, said in a prepared statement "The offer to the auto workers was made on a ten per cent basis subject to a final adjustment after detailed analysis."

Holding Out for 30 Per Cent

Reuther, commenting on the company offer, declared, "The corporation still refuses to discuss arithmetic and the fact that ability to pay should be a factor in wage discussions.

"We still maintain that an adequate wage to settle this strike is a thirty per cent increase without increase in prices."

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW, added, "I told the corporation that it was my opinion that the proffered wage increase was inadequate. And the strike will continue until such time as an agreement has been made on satisfactory terms."

Reuther told newsmen that during the conference a GM spokesman declared, "We don't say we can't pay thirty per cent; we won't discuss it."

Thomas interjected that he asked directly if GM could afford to pay the thirty per cent, but that GM spokesmen refused to answer.

No Price Increase Is Desired

Reuther reiterated the union stand that it does not want to "take a wage increase if it means increased prices." He said "Ninety per cent of today's conference was spent in trying to get the company to discuss economics."

The union officials disclosed that there was no discussion at today's session on the company's charges that the UAW had engaged in "illegal picketing."

"We will try tomorrow to get these people to accept some very sound practices in collective bargaining involving arithmetic. We are going to keep trying and trying," Reuther concluded.

Today's meeting marked the first time GM and UAW officials had conferred since the walkout hit 213,000 GM workers in twenty states.

The fact that the two came together was taken as a hopeful sign although neither the union nor the corporation, bitter antagonists heretofore, would commit itself as to whether a settlement could soon be achieved.

One report today said the strike might end within ten days with a compromise, but this lacked backing from any official of either General Motors or the UAW-CIO.

Pullman Service Sale Is Opposed

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Department of Justice, in a federal court, today opposed sale of the sleeping car service now operated by the Pullman Company to forty-three railroads for $75,000,000.

In a seven-page brief, which the court said Holmes Baldridge, special assistant to Attorney General Thomas Clark, filed, the government said the railroads could not comply fully with the court's decree for a complete separation of the servicing business from the manufacturing end because of the railroad's affiliations with banks, insurance companies and Pullman, Inc.

The brief says that if the railroads acquire the property their representatives would have to sit on the board of directors of the sleeping car company and, in doing so, would not be complying with the court order there be no relationship between manufacturing and servicing.

Commenting on a bid by Otis and Company, Cleveland banking firm, the brief states the Otis proposal has several "striking advantages," including its plan to spend more than $500,000,000 in the purchase of streamlined equipment to replace Pullman's present fleet of 7,000 heavyweight cars and the retention of the car pool.

Philippines Hero Issues Victory Loan Statement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — A Victory loan statement by Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of the Philippines:

"The Victory loan will raise funds to care for the men who fought, for the dependents of those who have given their all for the defense of the nation, for troops occupying hostile countries to keep the forces of evil suppressed, and to keep our country so prepared that there may never again be another Pearl Harbor, never again a Bataan, never again a Corregidor."

Gen. Yamashita Is Found Guilty

SENTENCED TO DIE

LT. GEN. TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA, above, commander of Japanese troops in the Philippines, has been sentenced to die for condoning atrocities by his troops during Nipponese occupation of the islands.

Japanese Commander in Philippines Is Sentenced to Death by Military Commission

MANILA, Friday, Dec. 7—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japanese commander in the Philippines, today was convicted of condoning atrocities by his troops and sentenced to death by hanging.

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, president of the five-general military court which tried Yamashita, read the verdict.

Nearly 200 prosecution witnesses in three weeks of testimony related story after story of mass horrors—rape, cremation alive by flaming gasoline and other atrocities—committed by Yamashita's troops.

Yamashita never once was accused of personally having harmed anyone, nor of having witnessed any of the uncounted brutalities charged to troops of his command.

He was accused, however, by witnesses who were close to him, of never once having lifted a finger to prevent atrocities.

Denied Knowing of Atrocities

In his own behalf, Yamashita denied that he even knew of such atrocities as he heard described daily in the courtroom. His defense was that he was too busy trying futilely to defend the Philippines to know what was going on in prisoner of war or internee camps, or in Manila itself as that city became a battleground.

He also contended that he was only indirectly responsible as commander, for he was subject to orders from Tokyo and from Count Terauchi, commander of the southern regions, which included Manila.

An epic of wholesale horror—the blood-chilling, monstrous story of Japanese lust and cruelty in the Philippines — was written into the records during the month-long war crimes trial of Yamashita.

It was a story fantastic in the volume and variety of mass murder, rape and fiendish cruelty depicted. Yet not one of the long procession of prosecution witnesses pictured the defendant personally so much as twisting the arm of a Filipino or speaking harshly to a prisoner of war.

It was a precedent-breaking trial; for the prosecution at the outset announced it would not try to prove Yamashita himself had committed any atrocity, but that he had failed to prevent the brutal excesses of his troops.

New Path in International Law

It was blazing a new path in international law, for in previous wars top military leaders have not been held responsible for the crimes of individuals under their command.

The prosecution did call two witnesses who testified they had heard —or heard someone else who had heard — Yamashita confirming issuance of an order to "kill all Filipinos."

The defense attacked the credibility of both these witnesses on the ground that they themselves were awaiting trial and hoped to get immunity by accusing Yamashita.

Chief Prosecutor Maj. Robert M. Kerr based his demand for a guilty verdict on the contention that Yamashita failed to prevent atrocities because he "did not care" what his subordinates did.

Hurley Declares Acheson Defeated U.S. Policy in Iran

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley asserted today that American foreign policy had been "defeated," and charged it was an "inside job."

The former ambassador to China also told the Senate Foreign Relations commitee that Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson had played "a leading part" in what Hurley termed destruction of this country's policy in Iran.

Hurley, who resigned his diplomatic post last week, did not go into particulars. He said simply that his accusations would be borne out by documents he had asked the State department to produce.

There was no indication whether the documents will be introduced when Secretary of State Byrnes testifies tomorrow.

Hurley clashed with Chairman Connally (D-Tex) and other members of the committee several times in the course of today's hearing on his complaints that State department career officials were sabotaging United States foreign policy.

At one time the white-haired soldier-diplomat demanded to know whether he was on trial.

"If you are," Connally replied, "you put yourself there."

Another time, Hurley objected that Sen. Tunnell (D-Del) was asking questions he had answered in yesterday's testimony.

"I am very tired. I am doing my best," Hurley said, "but I will go over the testimony if the committee requests it."

Hurley's reference to an inside job was in a statement he read to the committee just before it adjourned. He said:

"The fact is, Mr. Chairman, that the defeat of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, the defeat of the principles of the Iran declaration, the use of America's power to uphold predatory ideologies contrary to the announced policies of the government is an inside job.

"This is true whether the propaganda comes from career men or others."

Hurley said in the statement that he had been asked to name the men "guilty of leaks from the State department, which leads are de-

Steps Are Taken To Make Certain Japan Never Can Make Atom Bomb

TOKYO, Friday, Dec. 7, (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today took steps to make certain that Japan — the country that shuddered under two atomic bombs—never can develop an atomic bomb of its own.

The action came only a few hours after MacArthur had ordered the arrest of two of Emperor Hirohito's most trusted advisers — Prince Fumimaro Konoye and Marquis Koichi Kido — and seven other top criminal suspects.

MacArthur's headquarters announced in its newest order that every mineral resource which might permit creation of an atom bomb will be taken from Japan, even if it means shipping such minerals out of the country. Wherever possible, mining of such minerals will be banned absolutely.

Minerals Are Studied

Under direction of Lt. Col. H. G. Schenck, director of MacArthur's natural resources section, every potential war mineral is being studied for a place on the ban list. All mining will be limited to peacetime needs and research for war will be outlawed. A staff of civilian scientists already is undertaking an exhaustive study.

More than 5,000,000 soldiers and sailors have been demobilized, and just to make certain they never make more trouble, occupation officials are making certain they do not get key jobs where they might build up militarism.

Ordered arrested with Konoye and Kido were seven other top military and civilian war mongers.

Konoye, three times premier, member of the royal family and vice premier of the surrender cabinet, had been writing a new Japanese constitution and preening himself for a re-entry into politics.

Former Keeper of Privy Seal

Kido maker of premiers such as Hideki Tojo, confidant of the emperor throughout the war, was keeper of the privy seal until that position recently was abolished.

The other seven ordered arrested were:

Vice Adm. Takuo Godo, former cabinet member and unofficial envoy to Germany; Taketora Ogata, prominent Japanese journalist sec-

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 6 (AP) — Blonde 32-year-old Tonya Jones, who boldly sailed for the United States in an old thirty-foot sloop last month, was picked up at sea by a navy LST 390 miles northeast of Honolulu today.

The skipper of the LST radioed Pearl Harbor "Have picked up Tonya Jones, lone occupant of sloop Audacious of Honolulu. Sloop still adrift.

The message said nothing of the woman's condition. She had been at sea thirty days.

Longer Beds Proposed By St. Louis Man

H. T. FOSTER, of Saint Louis, seems to be a man of unusual understanding. Whether he acquired it from experience is not revealed in news stories which do not disclose his height, but evidently he feels a deep sympathy for his fellows who happen to be taller than the average.

Mr. Foster, in Chicago to attend a meeting of the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers, spoke out boldly in his capacity as chairman of the organization's metal bed and bedspring committee. He recommended that the association begin a campaign to get the cooperation of the wooden bed, sheet, blanket and comforter industries to set up a new bed length at least four inches longer than the present standard.

"American beds," said he in arguing for a standard mattress of six feet, six inches, "have always been too short for people who are six feet tall or more, and there are quite a few of them. Besides, people get longer when they lie down."

There is profound truth in that last observation, as all long-geared individuals know to their cost. Any six-footer who tries to stretch out in a standard bed finds that he touches at one end or the other. This is bad enough in summer, but in winter, when the covers press down on toes that will stick up, it is unbearable. The only solution is to double up like a jack-knife, which may or may not give him the rest he needs for his health and happiness.

There may be opposition to Mr. Foster's proposal on the ground that longer beds will cost more. But he can count on the good wishes of a host of Americans who have never enjoyed equal rights in the matter of comfort in bed. To them he is a champion indeed in a cause well worth the winning.

Mail by Rocket Is Possibility

BRITISH SCIENTISTS now say that it would be a "practical possibility" to establish a 5,000-mile-per-hour "rocket post" between England and the United States. After all that has been done with rockets since the first V-2 fell on London, who will say that they are wrong?

The possibilities are dazzling for the trans-Atlantic correspondent. In something less than an hour letters could be whisked across the ocean by this means.

But some mild doubts are being expressed about this rocket mail affair. For those really in a hurry, a cable or a telephone call will take a message across the Atlantic even faster, with no doubt as to where it will arrive. A rocket's flight, as it is recalled, is a shade on the erratic side. Many Americans might not care to have the British firing rockets at them, even though they were only filled with mail, and no doubt the British would be still more nervous over the possibility.

Of course, the scientists may come up with rockets which can cross the Atlantic and land safely and precisely on the spot at which they are aimed. But there is another objection which may be raised. One of the charms of a trans-Atlantic correspondence now, for a languid letter writer, is the knowledge that there will be a comfortable lull between notes.

How will anyone get caught up with the mail if replies come rocketing back the same day letters go out?

Atomic Possibilities Are Outlined

THE MOST VIVID IMAGINATION struggles in vain to comprehend the meaning of some of the testimony now going into the record that is being compiled by the special Senate committee investigating atomic energy. No one, for example, can actually visualize the United States fighting an atomic war that might wipe out 40,000,000 American lives.

Yet it is possible for the human mind to think in these terms, as Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who directed the atomic bomb project, demonstrated before the committee the other day. General Groves said that a future atomic war might cost this country the extinction of 40,000,000 citizens. Then he went on to say that the surviving Americans would retaliate and could win the war.

He did not offer this possibility as a prediction, but presented it in answer to a question as to what conceivably could lie ahead in the atomic era. His reply, nevertheless, proves that it is not beyond human intelligence to conceive of horror on a scale transcending all experience in the past.

A struggle that would erase a quarter of the population of the United States, and with it the cities in which these people live and the factories where they work, could only be a catastrophe to victor and vanquished alike. Nor is there any excuse for accepting the defeatist philosophy that mankind cannot find the means for assuring his survival. The way will be found because it must be found.

Rising Oil Costs Now Indicated

ASSURANCES CONTINUED TO BE ISSUED that Americans will not be afflicted with a shortage of petroleum products in the near future, but indications are that gasoline, etc., will be distributed at constantly rising prices. Oil is becoming harder and more expensive to find.

In 1937 the average cost of drilling a well down to the oil was $26,183. By 1940 this had increased only to $27,182. But by 1944 the figure had shot up to $37,000. Some wells are sunk to 13,000 feet and cost $150,000 to $200,000. Some shallow wells cost much less than the average figure. In the most recent oil boom—that of Rangeley, Colorado—costs of drilling are reported to be tremendous. Because of adverse living conditions, wages are higher than ever before paid in the oil industry. But production has reached 12,000 barrels a day and 800 additional wells are to be drilled.

Higher drilling costs are offset to some extent by the circumstance that in earlier days seventy to eighty per cent of the oil was lost but today, as a result of research and improved practices, recovery from pools leaves not more than thirty to forty per cent of the oil in the ground after the wells have been pumped. No doubt recovery will gain still further in efficiency.

More efficient methods of extracting gasoline from crude oil also have tended to keep prices to the consumer down. But with drilling costs climbing sharply, no conceivable economies will avert higher costs of the finished product.

Experts Are Worrying About Rubber Surplus

JUST NOW while American motorists are still afflicted with flats and contradictory forecasts about new tires, world experts are worrying about a big rubber surplus and are talking about production control.

Whereas maximum requirements of the next few years are estimated at 1,500,000 tons annually, the world's synthetic capacity alone is 1,400,000 tons a year. Natural rubber output in the Far East next year may reach 600,000 tons, with the prospect of a later increase to 1,500,000.

With the perfection and established production of synthetic rubber in the Untied States, the British, Dutch and French are concerned about the future of their tree monopolies. Manufacturing costs for synthetic have been greatly reduced and the trend is still downward. Of course, there are still uses for which natural rubber is better adapted, and price subsidies may keep it in export competition.

Meanwhile, the average citizen of this country who rides on rubber is impatiently awaiting the day when some of the international surplus can be affixed to the rim of his wheels.

Anticipating the Big Moments

EVERYBODY knows of course, that there are sixty minutes in every hour. A writer points out, however, that there are sixty psychological moments in every hour.

That is to say, each moment offers opportunity for doing certain things—rest, action, meditation, study, refreshment and so on. The continuing series of opportunities should each be grasped and one should make the most of each. Big personages have done that. Theodore Roosevelt was an outstanding example. Whatever he did he strove to do to the best of his ability.

The reason for this is found in the ancient adage that practice makes perfect. By applying oneself to the little moments and making the best of them, the mind and the body are eventually so well trained in this general efficiency that when the really big moments arrive one can easily make the most of them.

If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible. Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. You will lose. You may think not, but you will lose as sure as you live. The seed of success is not in you.

Those lucky persons who occasionally receive sudden and unexpected legacies of large sums probably declare their purpose of continuing at their usual vocations because of an appreciation of the usual delay in coming in contact with the actual cash.

Some folks are all right so long as they stay in the rut, but when they try to get out of it they skid.

THE POWER OF PATIENCE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Many of us take a long time to learn the simplest of lessons—Patience, for example. Middle life, and even old age, often arrive before this very essential lesson of Patience has been learned. And yet how important it is, and how it balances a life!

Helen Keller was born blind, deaf, and dumb—but there was a woman who saw the possibility of teaching her. It took years and endless patience, but Helen Keller learned to read, write, and speak. And she graduated from college with high honors, and has been for years one of the noblest and most useful women in all the world. Her example alone is a supreme one of Patience, courage, and ambition to serve.

One of the most outstanding qualities of the character of Abraham Lincoln was his Patience. He puzzled and astounded even his enemies by this trait. He trusted people. He trusted his advisers—but he allowed none to push him into rash decisions.

I have always admired, and been inspired by, the Patience of shutins, and those incapable of entering into the activity of other people. You can note the look of nobility in their faces. They rarely complain. It's we, who have so much, and lack so little, who complain.

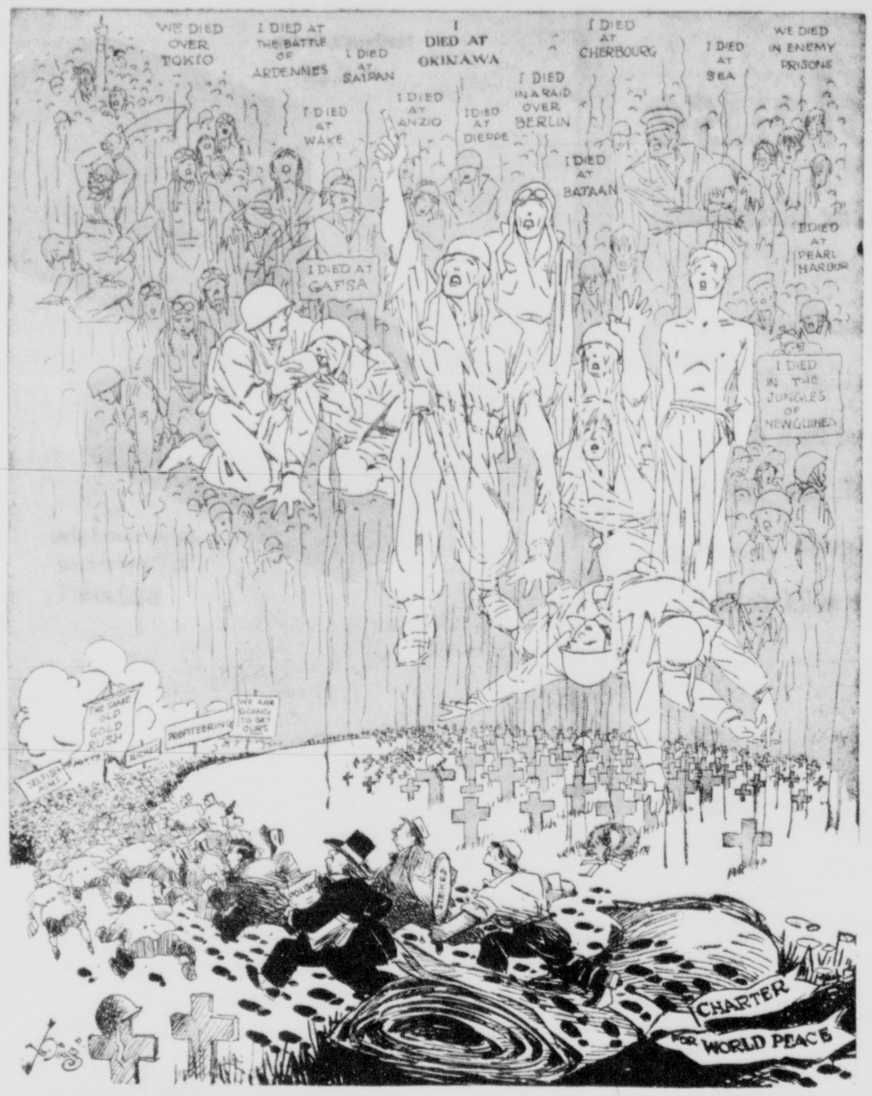

In this machine age, the young man, starting out in life, grows anxious and impatient. He wants to skip rounds, cut corners, and over-ride essential details. But it is the painstaking, Patient, and plodding chap who travels the triumphant route. Patience is a virtue.

There is too much hurrying in the world. People do not take time to live, and to become enriched with the finer things of life. If you are impatiently giving the major part of your time to the accumulating of mere money, bear in mind that you cannot take it with you, and it can only bless you as you give it away. And if it is fame you are after, it is all too soon wiped away.

By being Patient, however, and concentrating on the higher objectives, each day can be one of joy and satisfaction — a day of growth and triumph.

MUST WE SO SOON FORGET?

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Republicans, Getting Ready for 1946, Are Overlooking No Bets, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—The Republican National Committee isn't overlooking any bets for 1946. The Ex-Sen. John Danaher, of Connecticut, who became GOP congressional liaison officer after his defeat by Brien McMahon, outlined Republican plans at a secret meeting of the 78-79 Club last week. This is a group of seventy-eighth and seventy-ninth Congress Republicans, who meet weekly in closed door sessions.

Danaher made two major points. First, he advised the congressmen to go out and challenge federal jobholders and the beneficiaries of New Deal spending programs, instead of sitting quietly and bemoaning the fact that millions of people receive funds from the federal government.

"The thing to do is to go out and put them on the spot," Danaher exhorted his Republican listeners. "Ask them, 'Are you a thinking man or are you a follower?' Make them squirm. Ask them, 'Are you bought or are you a citizen?'"

Danaher's second tip to the congress was that they should stop sounding off about democracy.

"We all believe in democracy and the democratic form of government," Danaher said, "but the truth is that too many people tie up the word 'democracy' with the Democratic party. You'd be amazed to learn how many people think the Democrats stand for democracy and the Republicans for something entirely different.

"Article Four of the Constitution says we have a republican form of government, and the more we can stress the word 'republican' in that connection, the better off we are. We are simply playing into the hands of the Democrats when we constantly stress the word 'democracy. Hereafter let's use your own word—'republican', with a small 'r'. It's just as good a word, and for our purposes much better."

Another Missourian

If President Truman calls Chester Davis, of St. Louis, back into the government as is now rumored, it will be the most resounding rebuff to FDR that Truman has administered thus far. For Chester Davis was about the only man Roosevelt ever got sore at publicly when they broke relations.

Davis was then war food administrator, had been rowing with Economic Stabilizer Vinson over the price of farm products and was threatening to resign. Finally Justice Byrnes, Judge Vinson, and several other Roosevelt advisors had a long session with Davis in his hotel. They thought they had him sold on teamwork and co-operation.

But at the end of the conference, Davis, without telling anyone, went out of the hotel, got in his car, drove around to the White House and handed in a curt letter of resignation. Roosevelt then issued one of the most caustic letters of his career.

Talk at the White House now is that Davis, head of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, will be brought in to replace John Snyder, of St. Louis. Wisecracks outside the White House are that Davis has one qualification for the job. Like both Truman and Snyder, he is from Missouri.

Congressman "Stalin" Cox

The Rules Committee of the House of Representatives is supposed to be the toughest in Congress—and usually deserves that reputation. But the other day when a group of ladies called on Chairman Adolf Sabath, of Illinois to urge passage of the UNRRA appropriation bill he courteously ushered them into his Rules committee.

And while such labor-baiters as Howard Smith of Virginia, and Eugene Cox, of Georgia, listened attentively, Mrs. Dana Bachus, vice-chairman of the Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace, argued that we were reneging on our pledged word if Congress did not pass the UNRRA appropriation immediately.

Later, one of the group, Mrs. Edgar Ansel Mowrer, wife of the well-known news commentator, sought out Congressman Cox in the privacy of his office. Cox is considered one of the toughest and most reactionary members of the Rules committee, but to Mrs. Mowrer he was the height of southern cordiality.

"My dear, come right in at once," said the gentleman from Georgia.

Cox listened carefully, but told Mrs. Mowrer that he was suspicious of Russia. The UNRRA relief bill, he feared, was playing right into Russian hands.

"But," said Mrs. Mowrer, "are we going to let the Russians say that the capitalist nations make a lot of promises and then turn around and don't carry them out?"

Then she tried a new tack.

"You know, Congressman," said Mrs. Mowrer, who has travelled all over the world, "you remind me very much of Stalin as I once saw him working in the Kremlin. He's a tough cookie, and you are too."

The congressman from Georgia seemed to like this comparison, but he didn't budge regarding the UNRRA Appropriation.

Why Hurley Boiled

What really made ex-cowboy Ambassador Pat Hurley boil over against the career diplomats was an incident that occurred when he was in Washington on leave shortly after V-J Day.

During Hurley's visit in Washington, George Atcheson, an old "China hand," remained in acting charge of the United States embassy in Chungking. In that capacity he sent a telegram to the State Department which said:

"I and the undersigned members of the embassy staff wish to disclaim any responsibility" for reports sent the State department on the size and strength of the armies of Red China, and for the "detrimental effects of United States policy here" as directed by Hurley.

Atcheson also complained that all communications between embassy officials and Washington were censored by Hurley, without exception.

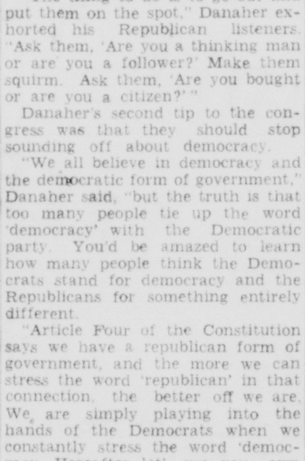

Hurley immediately flew into a rage. He claimed Atcheson had sent this cable behind his back. Many diplomats point out, however, that since Atcheson was in charge, it was his duty to report the facts as he saw them to the State department.

Atcheson has spent about thirty years in China, Hurley less than two years. Immediately after serving as a second lieutenant in the last war, Atcheson entered the Far Eastern branch of the diplomatic service and has worked in almost every part of China. And although State department officials have been of indifferent caliber in Europe, they have made a remarkable record in the Far East.

Hurley was so sore at the Atcheson telegram that the State department was afraid there would be physical violence if the two men met in Chungking. So Atcheson was transferred to be adviser to Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo before Hurley's return.

TO NAVY AIR POST

DEPUTY COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of the Patific Fleet, Vice Admiral D. C. Ramsey (above) will replace Admiral Frederick C. Horne as Vice Chief of Naval Operations, according to an announcement made by Navy Secretary James Forrestal. The appointment was made under a new plan of organization which will give qualified naval aviators three top positions under the Chief of Naval Operations.

Full Employment Bill Gets New "Tag" From Pettengill

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

One of the pluggers for the full employment bill, a western senator, had a different idea a while back. Then he was going to tax machinery to discourage us from buying typewriters, washing machines, manure spreaders, etc., and so force us to write longhand letters, use scrub-boards, and spread manure by hand. According to the senator we would be happily employed ever after.

His new gadget would tax progress with a different English, but the result would be the same.

When we solve at least one problem without going deeper into debt, or taxing something, or printing greenbacks, I'll endorse the notes!

The life expectancy of an American baby before he has his first bath is the highest it has been since Adam had 'em. This is due to free enterprise in medical research and care. As the life chance of babies goes up, and their death risk goes down, you'd expect to buy life insurance cheaper. But, no. Our wet nurse economists have fixed things so you pay more. They have forced down the earnings of insurance companies faster than medical science has prolonged life. So the companies have to charge us higher premiums to make up for their shrinking income.

This side of "guaranteed" security is worth looking at. You pay more dough for the guaranty and get less security.

The rapidly-shrinking violets of government security blossom everywhere. All annuities, social security, veterans' pensions, savings deposits, industrial group insurance, government pensions, savings deposits, industrial group insurance, government bonds, and what have you, hidden in the mattress are getting to be worth less and less. Charge it to deficit spending.

The rapidly-shrinking violets of government security blossom everywhere. All annuities, social security, veterans' pensions, savings deposits, industrial group insurance, government bonds, and what have you, hidden in the mattress are getting to be worth less and less. Charge it to deficit spending.

The British government has now reduced the number of its loyal supporters who make over $25,000 a year after taxes, to eighty. Just as soon as those eighty are liquidated, all its problems will be solved and Attlee will usher in the century of the common man! (Note: This is not a plug for titled parasites and feudal landlords.)

One wonders, however, if British transport, textiles, mills, and mines will carry more passengers, weave more cloth or dig more coal at less cost when the politicians get their hands on them, than now. Remember Tugwell?

When Attlee socializes British transport, the Canadian-Pacific and the American railroads will be the only privately owned systems left on this pretty planet. The rest are run by politicians who take you for a ride!

And when the government owns them, can it tax them? If not, who will make up the lost taxes? Why, the eighty gentlemen referred to above!

On this side of the smiling sea, Phil Murray wants our government to take over war plants to provide jobs. Why doesn't Phil take over a war plant? He can buy one cheap and keep all the profits—not some of them.

It is old fashioned stuff these days to remind you of Jefferson and his fellow fossils, but one wonders sometimes if the best thing government could do for job hunters wouldn't be to get off the back of the job makers. The U.S.A. issued 182,170 orders to its wards in 1941-1945. If you are a little businessman and can't afford a staff of lawyers and soothsayers, you toss in the sponge.

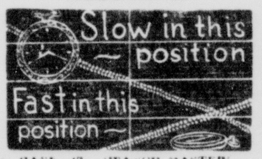

Old-Man-of-the-Sea Bowles is still after us. In a little New England town, one of his bright gentlemen found a young lady running a tiny dress shop. He decided she was asking nineteen cents too much for a dress and fined her $100! I never thought the man lived who could tell within nineteen cents how much a woman's dress was worth. But Bowles knows. He knows everything.

Bowles just has to rescue us from spending our own dough as he thinks we shouldn't. He reminds me of what Herbert Spencer said: "The ultimate effect of shielding men from the results of their folly is to fill the world with fools."

The world will then need a fool employment bill.

—The major industry with the highest accidental death toll in 1944 was farming.

Babson Discusses New Developments In Science Fields

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—I am in New York calling on some of my optimistic friends who are hopeful of very good times just ahead of us. In addition to the usual arguments as to the tremendous backlog of orders, the billions of cash awaiting an opportunity to buy merchandise and the possibilities of atomic energy, they throw at me various other things upon which they have been working. Some of them—by no means all—I submit below:

New Ideas for Builders

Builders may soon be discussing the merits of new "lumber." This will be made from pulp and perhaps from a mixture of excelsior and portland cement. Also, a new cement is being developed for use in concrete flooring which will be as strong but much lighter in weight. It should reduce the amount of steel in buildings. There also is a possibility of concrete which will bend but not break.

Textiles will soon be treated with a wax emulsion which, when added to rinse water, makes clothing water-resistant. Also there is a new process which makes cotton fabrics proof against rot, fungus and mildew without changing their appearance. A new asphalt or oil treatment of sole leather, adaptable to cemented shoes, may greatly increase wear.

Good News for Housewives

The packaging of frozen foods, which have become a "must" for many housewives, is due for a speeding up. Fishing vessels and slaughter houses will be equipped for the immediate processing and freezing of fish, meats and poultry. A new can, the sides of which are fiberboard and the ends tinplate, may revolutionize the frozen food industry.

Cargo and express will be dropped by a parachute shaped like half a baseball cover. So we may expect to have shipments delivered in an improved condition. An appliance manufacturer tells of an electric washing machine which, in addition to washing clothes, has attachments by which dishes may be washed, potatoes peeled, ice cream frozen and even butter churned!

Improved Transportation

A bus company operating here through my community has applied for a helicopter franchise. Helicopters will have air-cooled motors, counterrotating blades and three road wheels. A PV-3 helicopter, with a long fuselage with a motor on each end, is now being tested by the coast guard and navy. It carries twelve passengers. Regular planes are now being made to travel over 500 miles per hour at an altitude of 10 miles.

Printing is about to enter into a new field. One of the most recent uses for the process of printing is to print electrical circuits on heavy paper with lines of metallic, conductive ink, as a substitute for wires in low-priced radio sets. Television, too, will soon become a part of daily living. One New York department store has announced that it is ready to install three television studios in its store.

Further Developments

Britain has developed and used a method by which airfields are cleared of fog through the burning of many gasoline jets. The process is known as "FIDO" which means "Fog Investigation Dispersal Operation." Germany has hit upon a process for extracting ethyl alcohol from wood waste. Furthermore, we hope to preserve aquatic life through the use of a new method of disposing of paper-pulp-mill waste which will make these substances harmless.

Shortly after the first of next year, I will make a much more complete summary of new developments which have gone forward during 1945. Returning veterans and others interested in getting into new fields of endeavor should watch for this review.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

—Most of you folks who see a couple of movies a week have probably never heard of a "prop man" and if you have, it's likely you think he's the guy around the set who keeps us victory-model juveniles on our feet. But for my money, just about the most valuable man around the studio are those always-present, never-in-the-way characters—the "prop men."

Briefly, "prop" is short for properties", and in this business "properties" is a word covering everything from 2,000 bubbles for the leading lady's bath to a green elephant with a candy-striped tail. The prop man is the guy who merely has to deliver such things. And, if he's good, he has to possess the diplomacy of an ambassador, the grim determination of a "from-hunger Shakespearean actor about to get hit in the kisser with a pie," plus a large hunk of "Mandrake, the Magician," thrown in.

I imagine Joe Thompson, who's working on a picture with me now, is just about typical. Joe started in the picture business back in the silent days and he remembers making an early thriller featuring some lions. Joe had to put the lions through their paces, so the director hired a lion expert to protect Joe. The lions kept getting more and more ferocious and on the fifth day Joe discovered why . . . . they were starving. The "lion expert" had been under the impression that lions were fed twice a year.

I did a shaving scene the other day and they couldn't keep me lathered long enough to make the shot. Joe hopped over to the commissary, returned in about five minutes and started smearing whipped cream on my face. It worked, too. Of course, the studio trainer stood on the other side of me to see that I didn't lick it off.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Longer Beds Proposed By St. Louis Man

H. T. FOSTER, of Saint Louis, seems to be a man of unusual understanding. Whether he acquired it from experience is not revealed in news stories which do not disclose his height, but evidently he feels a deep sympathy for his fellows who happen to be taller than the average.

Mr. Foster, in Chicago to attend a meeting of the National Association of Bedding Manufacturers, spoke out boldly in his capacity as chairman of the organization's metal bed and bedspring committee. He recommended that the association begin a campaign to get the cooperation of the wooden bed, sheet, blanket and comforter industries to set up a new bed length at least four inches longer than the present standard.

"American beds," said he in arguing for a standard mattress of six feet, six inches, "have always been too short for people who are six feet tall or more, and there are quite a few of them. Besides, people get longer when they lie down."

There is profound kruth in that last observation, as all long-geared individuals know to their cost. Any six-footer who tries to stretch out in a standard bed finds that he touches at one end or the other. This is bad enough in summer, but in winter, when the covers press down on toes that will stick up, it is unbearable. The only solution is to double-up like a jack-knife, which may or may not give him the rest he needs for his health and happiness.

There may be opposition to Mr. Foster's proposal on the ground that longer beds will cost more. But he can count on the good wishes of a host of Americans who have never enjoyed equal rights in the matter of comfort in bed. To them he is a champion indeed in a cause well worth the winning.

Mail by Rocket Is Possibility

BRITISH SCIENTISTS now say that it would be a "practical possibility" to establish a 5,000-mile-per-hour "rocket post" between England and the United States. After all that has been done with rockets since the first V-2 fell on London, who will say that they are wrong?

The possibilities are dazzling for the trans-Atlantic correspondent. In something less than an hour letters could be whisked across the ocean by this means.

But some mild doubts are being expressed about this rocket mail affair. For those really in a hurry, a cable or a telephone call will take a message across the Atlantic even faster, with no doubt as to where it will arrive. A rocket's flight, as it is recalled, is a shade on the erratic side. Many Americans might not care to have the British firing rockets at them, even though they were only filled with mail, and no doubt the British would be still more nervous over the possibility.

Of course, the scientists may come up with rockets which can cross the Atlantic and land safely and precisely on the spot at which they are aimed. But there is another objection which may be raised. One of the charms of a trans-Atlantic correspondence now, for a languid letter writer, is the knowledge that there will be a comfortable lull between notes.

How will anyone get caught up with the mail if replies come rocketing back the same day letters go out?

Atomic Possibilities Are Outlined

THE MOST VIVID IMAGINATION struggles in vain to comprehend the meaning of some of the testimony now going into the record that is being compiled by the special Senate committee investigating atomic energy. No one, for example, can actually visualize the United States fighting an atomic war that might wipe out 40,000,000 American lives.

Yet it is possible for the human mind to "think in these terms, as Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who directed the atomic bomb project, demonstrated before the committee the other day. General Groves said that a future atomic war might cost this country the extinction of 40,000,000 citizens. Then he went on to say that the surviving Americans would retaliate and could win the war.

He did not offer this possibility as a prediction, but presented it in answer to a question as to what conceivably could lie ahead in the atomic era. His reply, nevertheless, proves that it is not beyond human intelligence to conceive of horror on a scale transcending all experience in the past.

A struggle that would erase a quarter of the population of the United States, and with it the cities in which these people live and the factories where they work, could only be a catastrophe to victor and vanquished alike. Nor is there any excuse for accepting the defeatist philosophy that mankind cannot find the means for assuring his survival. The way will be found because it must be found.

Rising Oil Costs Now Indicated

ASSURANCES CONTINUED TO BE ISSUED that Americans will not be afflicted with a shortage of petroleum products in the near future, but indications are that gasoline, etc., will be distributed at constantly rising prices. Oil is becoming harder and more expensive to find.

In 1937 the average cost of drilling a well down to the oil was $26,183. By 1940 this had increased only to $27,182. But by 1944 the figure had shot up to $37,000. Some wells are sunk to 13,000 feet and cost $150,000 to $200,000. Some shallow wells cost much less than the average figure. In the most recent oil boom—that of Rangeley, Colorado—costs of drilling are reported to be tremendous. Because of adverse living conditions, wages are higher than ever before paid in the oil industry. But production has reached 12,000 barrels a day and 800 additional wells are to be drilled.

Higher drilling costs are offset to some extent by the circumstance that in earlier days seventy to eighty per cent of the oil was lost but today, as a result of research and improved practices, recovery from pools leaves not more than thirty to forty per cent of the oil in the ground after the wells have been pumped. No doubt recovery will gain still further in efficiency.

More efficient methods of extracting gasoline from crude oil also have tended to keep prices to the consumer down. But with drilling costs climbing sharply, no conceivable economies will avert higher costs of the finished product.

Experts Are Worrying About Rubber Surplus

JUST NOW while American motorists are still afflicted with flats and contradictory forecasts about new tires, world experts are worrying about a big rubber surplus and are talking about production control.

Whereas maximum requirements of the next few years are estimated at 1,500,000 tons annually, the world's synthetic capacity alone is 1,400,000 tons a year. Natural rubber output in the Far East next year may reach 600,000 tons, with the prospect of a later increase to 1,500,000.

With the perfection and established production of synthetic rubber in the Untied States, the British, Dutch and French are concerned about the future of their tree monopolies. Manufacturing costs for synthetic have been greatly reduced and the trend is still downward. Of course, there are still uses for which natural rubber is better adapted, and price subsidies may keep it in export competition.

Meanwhile, the average citizen of this country who rides on rubber is impatiently awaiting the day when some of the international surplus can be affixed to the rim of his wheels.

Anticipating the Big Moments

EVERYBODY knows, of course, that there are sixty minutes in every hour. A writer points out, however, that there are sixty psychological moments in every hour.

That is to say, each moment offers opportunity for doing certain things—rest, action, meditation, study, refreshment and so on. The continuing series of opportunities should each be grasped and one should make the most of each. Big personages have done that. Theodore Roosevelt was an outstanding example. Whatever he did he strove to do to the best of his ability.

The reason for this is found in the ancient adage that practice makes perfect. By applying oneself to the little moments and making the best of them, the mind and the body are eventually so well trained in this general efficiency that when the really big moments arrive one can easily make the most of them.

If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible. Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. You will lose. You may think not, but you will lose as sure as you live. The seed of success is not in you.

Those lucky persons who occasionally receive sudden and unexpected legacies of large sums probably declare their purpose of continuing at their usual vocations because of an appreciation of the usual delay in coming in contact with the actual cash.

Some folks are all right so long as they stay in the rut, but when they try to get out of it they skid.

Some of the statesmen who think they are instruments of destiny are merely wind instruments.

THE POWER OF PATIENCE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Many of us take a long time to learn the simplest of lessons—Patience, for example. Middle life and even old age often arrive before this very essential lesson of Patience has been learned. And yet how important it is, and how it balances a life!

Helen Keller was born blind, deaf and dumb—but there was a woman who saw the possibility of teaching her. It took years and endless patience, but Helen Keller learned to read, write, and speak. And she graduated from college with high honors, and has been for years one of the noblest and most useful women in all the world. Her example alone is a supreme one of Patience, courage, and ambition to serve.

One of the most outstanding qualities of the character of Abraham Lincoln was his Patience. He puzzled and astounded even his enemies by this trait. He trusted people. He trusted his advisers—but he allowed none to push him into rash decisions.

I have always admired, and been inspired by, the Patience of shutins, and those incapable of entering into the activity of other people. You can note the look of nobility in their faces. They rarely complain. It's we, who have so much, and lack so little, who complain.

In this machine age, the young man, starting out in life, grows anxious and impatient. He wants to skip rounds, cut corners, and over-ride essential details. But it is the painstaking, Patient, and plodding chap who travels the triumphant route. Patience is a virtue.

There is too much hurrying in the world. People do not take time to live, and to become enriched with the finer things of life. If you are impatiently giving the major part of your time to the accumulating of mere money, bear in mind that you cannot take it with you, and it can only bless you as you give it away. And if it is fame you are after, it is all too soon wiped away.

By being Patient, however, and concentrating on the higher objectives, each day can be one of joy and satisfaction — a day of growth and triumph.

MUST WE SO SOON FORGET?

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Republicans, Getting Ready for 1946, Are Overlooking No Bets, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—The Republican National Committee isn't overlooking any bets for 1946. The Ex-Sen. John Danaher, of Connecticut, who became GOP congressional liaison officer after his defeat by Brien McMahon, outlined Republican plans at a secret meeting of the 78-79 Club last week. This is a group of seventy-eighth and seventy-ninth Congress Republicans, who meet weekly a long session with Davis in his hotel. They thought they had him sold on teamwork and co-operation.

But at the end of the conference, Davis, without telling anyone, went out of the hotel, got in his car, drove around to the White House and handed in a curt letter of resignation. Roosevelt then issued one of the most caustic letters of his career.

Danaher made two major points. First, he advised the congressmen to go out and challenge federal jobholders and the beneficiaries of New Deal spending programs, instead of sitting quietly and bemoaning the fact that millions of people receive funds from the federal government.

"The thing to do is to go out and put them on the spot," Danaher exhorted his Republican listeners. 'Ask them, 'Are you a thinking man or are you a follower?' Make them squirm. Ask them, 'Are you bought or are you a citizen?'"

Danaher's second tip to the congress was that they should stop sounding off about democracy.

"We all believe in democracy and the democratic form of government," Danaher said, "but the truth is that too many people tie up the word 'democracy' with the Democratic party. You'd be amazed to learn how many people think the Democrats stand for democracy and the Republicans for something entirely different.

"Article Four of the Constitution says we have a republican form of government, and the more we can stress the word 'republican' in that connection the better off we are. We are simply playing into the hands of the Democrats when we constantly stress the word 'democracy.' Hereafter let's use your own word—'republican', with a small 'r'. It's just as good a word, and for our purposes much better."

Another Missourian

If President Truman calls Chester Davis, of St. Louis, back into the government as is now rumored, it will be the most resounding rebuff to FDR that Truman has administered thus far. For Chester Davis was about the only man Roosevelt ever got sore at publicly when they broke relations.

Davis was then war food administrator, had been rowing with Economic Stabilizer Vinson over the price of farm products and was threatening to resign. Finally Justice Byrnes, Judge Vinson, and several other Roosevelt advisors had

Talk at the White House now is that Davis, head of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, will be brought in to replace John Snyder, of St. Louis. Wisecracks outside the White House are that Davis has one qualification for the job. Like both Truman and Snyder, he is from Missouri.

Congressman "Stalin" Cox

The Rules Committee of the House of Representatives is supposed to be the toughest in Congress—and usually deserves that reputation. But the other day when a group of ladies called on Chairman Adolf Sabath of Illinois to urge passage of the UNRRA appropriation bill he courteously ushered them into his Rules committee.

And while such labor-baiters as Howard Smith of Virginia, and Eugene Cox, of Georgia, listened attentively, Mrs. Dana Bachus, vice-chairman of the Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace, argued that we were reneging on our pledged word if Congress did not pass the UNRRA appropriation immediately.

Later, one of the group, Mrs. Edgar Ansel Mowrer, wife of the well-known news commentator, sought out Congressman Cox in the privacy of his office. Cox is considered one of the toughest and most reactionary members of the Rules committee, but to Mrs. Mowrer he was the height of southern cordiality.

"My dear, come right in at once," said the gentleman from Georgia.

Cox listened carefully, but told Mrs. Mowrer that he was suspicious of Russia. The UNRRA relief bill, he feared, was playing right into Russian hands.

"But," said Mrs. Mowrer, "are we going to let the Russians say that the capitalist nations make a lot of promises and then turn around and don't carry them out?"

Then she tried a new tack.

"You know, Congressman," said Mrs. Mowrer, who has travelled all over the world, "you remind me very much of Stalin as I once saw him working in the Kremlin. He's a tough cookie, and you are too."

The congressman from Georgia seemed to like this comparison, but he didn't budge regarding the UNRRA Appropriation.

Why Hurley Boiled

What really made ex-cowboy Ambassador Pat Hurley boil over against the career diplomats was an incident that occurred when he was in Washington on leave shortly after V-J Day.

During Hurley's visit in Washington, George Atcheson, an old "China hand," remained in acting charge of the United States embassy in Chungking. In that capacity he sent a telegram to the State Department which said:

"I and the undersigned members of the embassy staff wish to disclaim any responsibility" for reports sent the State department on the size and strength of the armies of Red China, and for the "detrimental effects of United States policy here" as directed by Hurley.

Atcheson also complained that all communications between embassy officials and Washington were censored by Hurley, without exception.

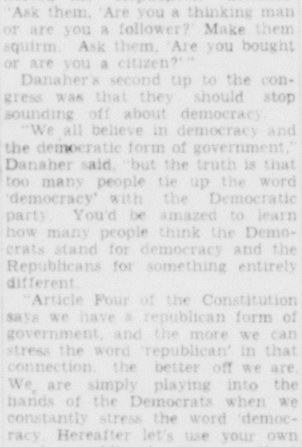

Hurley immediately flew into a rage. He claimed Atcheson had sent this cable behind his back. Many diplomats point out, however, that since Atcheson was in charge, it was his duty to report the facts as he saw them to the State department.

Atcheson has spent about thirty years in China. Hurley less than two years. Immediately after serving as a second lieutenant in the last war, Atcheson entered the Far Eastern branch of the diplomatic service and has worked in almost every part of China. And although State department officials have been of indifferent caliber in Europe, they have made a remarkable record in the Far East.

Hurley was so sore at the Atcheson telegram that the State department was afraid there would be physical violence if the two men met in Chungking. So Atcheson was transferred to be adviser to Gen. MacArthur in Tokyo before Hurley's return.

TO NAVY AIR POST

DEPUTY COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of the Patific Fleet, Vice Admiral D. C. Ramsey (above) will replace Admiral Frederick C. Horne as Vice Chief of Naval Operations, according to an announcement made by Navy Secretary James Forrestal. The appointment was made under a new plan of organization which will give qualified naval aviators three top positions under the Chief of Naval Operations.

Full Employment Bill Gets New "Tag" From Pettengill

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

One of the pluggers for the full employment bill, a western senator, had a different idea a while back. Then he was going to tax machinery to discourage us from buying typewriters, washing machines, manure spreaders, etc., and so force us to write longhand letters, use scrub-boards, and spread manure by hand. According to the senator we would be happily employed ever after.

His new gadget would tax progress with a different English, but the result would be the same.

When we solve at least one problem without going deeper into debt, or taxing something, or printing greenbacks, I'll endorse the notes!

The life expectancy of an American baby before he has his first bath is the highest it has been since Adam had 'em. This is due to free enterprise in medical research and care. As the life chance of babies goes up, and their death risk goes down, you'd expect to buy life insurance cheaper. But, no. Our wet nurse economists have fixed things so you pay more. They have forced down the earnings of insurance companies faster than medical science has prolonged life. So the companies have to charge us higher premiums to make up for their shrinking income.

This side of "guaranteed" security is worth looking at. You pay more dough for the guaranty and get less security.

The rapidly-shrinking violets of government security blossom everywhere. All annuities, social security, veterans' pensions, savings deposits, industrial group insurance, government pensions, savings deposits, industrial group insurance, government bonds, and what have you, hidden in the mattress are getting to be worth less and less. Charge it to deficit spending.

The rapidly-shrinking violets of government security blossom everywhere. All annuities, social security, veterans' pensions, savings deposits, industrial group insurance, government bonds, and what have you, hidden in the mattress are getting to be worth less and less. Charge it to deficit spending.

The British government has now reduced the number of its loyal supporters who make over $25,000 a year after taxes, to eighty. Just as soon as those eighty are liquidated, all its problems will be solved and Attlee will usher in the century of the common man! (Note: This is not a plug for titled parasites and feudal landlords.)

One wonders, however, if British transport, textiles, mills, and mines will carry more passengers, weave more cloth or dig more coal at less cost when the politicians get their hands on them, than now. Remember Tugwell?

When Attlee socializes British transport, the Canadian-Pacific and the American railroads will be the only privately owned systems left on this pretty planet. The rest are run by politicians who take you for a ride!

And when the government owns them, can it tax them? If not, who will make up the lost taxes? Why, the eighty gentlemen referred to above!

On this side of the smiling sea, Phil Murray wants our government to take over war plants to provide jobs. Why doesn't Phil take over a war plant? He can buy one cheap and keep all the profits—not some of them.

It is old fashioned stuff these days to remind you of Jefferson and his fellow fossils, but one wonders sometimes if the best thing government could do for job hunters wouldn't be to get off the back of the job makers. The U.S.A. issued 182,170 orders to its wards in 1941-1945. If you are a little businessman and can't afford a staff of lawyers and soothsayers, you toss in the sponge.

Old-Man-of-the-Sea Bowles is still after us. In a little New England town, one of his bright gentlemen found a young lady running a tiny dress shop. He decided she was asking nineteen cents too much for a dress and fined her $100! I never thought the man lived who could tell within nineteen cents how much a woman's dress was worth. But Bowles knows. He knows everything.

Bowles just has to rescue us from spending our own dough as he thinks we shouldn't. He reminds me of what Herbert Spencer said: "The ultimate effect of shielding men from the results of their folly is to fill the world with fools."

The world will then need a fool employment bill.

—The major industry with the highest accidental death toll in 1944 was farming.

Babson Discusses New Developments In Science Fields

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—I am in New York calling on some of my optimistic friends who are hopeful of very good times just ahead of us. In addition to the usual arguments as to the tremendous backlog of orders, the billions of cash awaiting an opportunity to buy merchandise and the possibilities of atomic energy, they throw at me various other things upon which they have been working. Some of them—by no means all—I submit below:

New Ideas for Builders

Builders may soon be discussing the merits of new "lumber." This will be made from pulp and perhaps from a mixture of excelsior and portland cement. Also, a new cement is being developed for use in concrete flooring which will be as strong but much lighter in weight. It should reduce the amount of steel in buildings. There also is a possibility of concrete which will bend but not break.

Textiles will soon be treated with a wax emulsion which, when added to rinse water, makes clothing water-resistant. Also there is a new process which makes cotton fabrics proof against rot, fungus and mildew without changing their appearance. A new asphalt or oil treatment of sole leather, adaptable to cemented shoes, may greatly increase wear.

Good News for Housewives

The packaging of frozen foods, which have become a "must" for many housewives, is due for a speeding up. Fishing vessels and slaughter houses will be equipped for the immediate processing and freezing of fish, meats and poultry. A new can, the sides of which are fiberboard and the ends tinplate, may revolutionize the frozen food industry.

Cargo and express will be dropped by a parachute shaped like half a baseball cover. So we may expect to have shipments delivered in an improved condition. An appliance manufacturer tells of an electric washing machine which, in addition to washing clothes, has attachments by which dishes may be washed, potatoes peeled, ice cream frozen and even butter churned!

Improved Transportation

A bus company operating here through my community has applied for a helicopter franchise. Helicopters will have air-cooled motors, counterrotating blades and three road wheels. A PV-3 helicopter, with a long fuselage with a motor on each end, is now being tested by the coast guard and navy. It carries twelve passengers. Regular planes are now being made to travel over 500 miles per hour at an altitude of 10 miles.

Printing is about to enter into a new field. One of the most recent uses for the process of printing is to print electrical circuits on heavy paper with lines of metallic, conductive ink, as a substitute for wires in low-priced radio sets. Television, too, will soon become a part of daily living. One New York department store has announced that it is ready to install three television studios in its store.

Further Developments

Britain has developed and used a method by which airfields are cleared of fog through the burning of many gasoline jets. The process is known as "FIDO" which means "Fog Investigation Dispersal Operation." Germany has hit upon a process for extracting ethyl alcohol from wood waste. Furthermore, we hope to preserve aquatic life through the use of a new method of disposing of paper-pulp-mill waste which will make these substances harmless.

Shortly after the first of next year, I will make a much more complete summary of new developments which have gone forward during 1945. Returning veterans and others interested in getting into new fields of endeavor should watch for this review.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Georgia Soldier, Mary Crawford Marry in Oakland

Double-ring Ceremony Is Used in Church Wedding

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 6 — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crawford, Davis, announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary, to Sgt. James Robert Magness, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Magness, Gainesville, Ga.

The double-ring ceremony was read in the St. Paul Methodist church, Oakland, November 1, with Dr. Denver C. Pickens, pastor, officiating.

The bride wore a light blue, street-length suit of wool gabardine with black accessories and a lapel corsage of red rosebuds and babysbreath.

The bride, a graduate of Davis high school, was employed by the Snavely-Windle drug store, Davis, for some years. Later she went as a clerk to the National bank, Davis, a position she held at the time of her marriage.

Sgt. Magness, who was formerly stationed at Davis with the Two Hundred Seventy-seventh combat engineers battalion in the West Virginia maneuver area, recently returned from overseas duty. He holds the Pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, the Good Conduct Medal, American Defense ribbon, and the ETO ribbon with battle stars for the campaigns of Central Europe, Rhineland, Ardennes, Central Germany and Belgium.

Following the wedding, the couple left for a honeymoon at the home of Sgt. Magness's parents. He will report for a new assignment in the states. His wife will join him at his new post.

Parsons Man Promoted

Howard Dudley, Parsons, who formerly was vocational rehabilitation officer for the Veteran's Administration, has been promoted to chief of the contact division with headquarters in Huntington.

Dudley was a guest speaker at the meeting of the army mothers in Huntington this week and explained to them the bill of rights. A veteran of World War I, he was with the unemployment office in Elkins prior to joining with the veteran's administration.

His mother, Mrs. Anna Few, and his wife and two daughters reside in Parsons.

Marriage Noted

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Williams, daughter of Hansford Williams and the late Mrs. Williams, Grafton, to Warren Knicely, son of Mrs. Flora Knicely, Parsons.

The single-ring ceremony was read in the parsonage of the Methodist church, Cumberland, November 28, with the Rev. C. H. Wakeman officiating.

Knicely is a veteran of World War II, having entered the service in November, 1942. He was discharged in November, 1945. They will reside in Parsons at present.

Class Plans Reunion

The class of 1926 of Parsons high school will hold their nineteenth reunion dinner in the Main street restaurant, Parsons, Wednesday evening, Decemer 26. The committee is composed of Mrs. Gladys Hehle, Mrs. Turner Shrout, Mrs. Nelle Mcvicker, Miss Edith Stemple and Kermitt Collett.

The guest speaker will be Harold Hebb, president of the graduating class.

Other officers were Mrs. Ara Smith Wolf, vice president; and Harold Fisher, secretary-treasurer. One member of the class, Argyle Warner, who was a teacher in Charleston high school, was killed in action in 1944.

Parsons Briefs

Cecil M. Stalnaker, instructor of vocational agriculture of Parsons high school, announced that the opening date for the night classes in the farm repair shop has been set for Friday evening, December 7. Afterwards time the farmer's will set the date for the school which will meet each week.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Martin, Parsons, announce the birth of a son, weighing eight pounds, at their home December 4. This is their third child and son and has been given the name of Gary Lee. The mother is the former Flossie Strawderman and the father is employed by the Dorman Mills, Inc., Parsons. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Sarah Martin, Parsons.

Mrs. Marguerite Lawrence Zizunas has received word of the promotion of her husband, George Zizunas, to the rank of staff sergeant. He is now with the Fourteenth air force in Shanghai.

Chief of City Police C. E. Long, Parsons, stated today that nine arrests were made in November and that $50 and costs were received for those arrests.

Reardon Cuppett, county superintendent of schools, stated that the board of education set the holiday season at their meeting Wednesday evening in Parsons. The Christmas holidays will start with the close of school, Friday, December 21, and will reopen Wednesday, January 2.

Make It a Sweet Christmas

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

It's always good to have a few snackish sweets around for the Christmas holidays. For one reason, children love sweets. For another, it's a time when all the potables you offer go well with cakes and cookies.

Here's a particularly Christmasy tidbit which requires no sugar—a great asset at Christmas, 1945!

Almond Christmas Logs

- 3 cups enriched flour
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup butter or vitaminized margarine
- ½ cup finely chopped almonds or other nuts
- 1 cup soured cream
- 2 teaspoons water
- 1 egg
- ½ cup honey (may substitute sugar)
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon powdered sugar
- Cherries and other garnishes

Sift, measure flour and resift with baking powder and salt. Cut in margarine until coarse crumbs are formed. Stir in half the chopped nuts, sour cream and mix lightly until dough begins to form—mixture will be crumbly. Turn out on a floured cloth and press into mound with hands and roll lightly with flour-covered rolling pin to an eighth of an inch thick. Cut in three inch squares. Brush with egg yolk diluted with water and sprinkle or spread with honey mixed with cinnamon. Roll up each square like a little jelly roll. Brush top with egg white and sift powdered sugar over. Sprinkle with rest of nuts and garnish as desired. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) twenty-five to thirty minutes. This makes two dozen two and one-half inch logs.

The following recipe takes a little sugar, but we hope you've surely saved a little for special Christmas treats, and perhaps you'll like to make this particular one:

Hermits

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon mace
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ¼ cup milk
- ½ cup shortening
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ cup broken nut meats

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, spices and granulated sugar, and sift together three times. Mix brown sugar and milk. Cream shortening; add sifted dry ingredients, brown sugar mixture, and eggs and stir until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously one minute. Add raisins and nut meats and mix well. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) fifteen minutes, or until done. Makes about four dozen.

ALMOND CHRISTMAS LOGS . . . . Small-fry Yule treat.

The club was organized last December, following Mrs. Kilroy's suggestion at the department meeting. Wednesday's meeting marked the completion of the first year of the organization. Mrs. Myrtle Carlton, Washington, retiring president, presided.

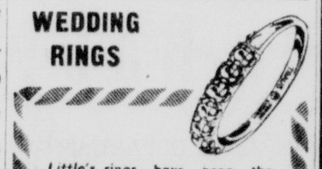

Officers for the coming year are Mrs. Alice Chleiou, Baltimore, president; Mrs. Mina Fisher, Tacoma Park, vice president; Mrs. Mary Hopps, Baltimore was appointed secretary; and Mrs. Catherine Leary, Baltimore, treasurer. She is also Ways and Means chairman.

Besides Mrs. Kilroy other members of the executive committee are Mrs. Grace McCreary, Perry Point; and Mrs. Ethel Christopher, Baltimore.

Plans were formulated for the club to entertain with either a breakfast or dinner at the convention to be held in June.

AAUW Study Group Names Miss Green Program Chairman

Miss Winifred Green was appointed chairman of the Program committee for the International Relations Club of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, for the coming year, at the meeting of the club Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Sara Wright and Miss Anne Tennant, Greene street.

In keeping with the theme, "One World," the topic for the February 13 meeting will be, "China in Crisis," and Miss Janet Anderson, Miss Loretto McGeady, and Miss Mildred Willison will assist Miss Green in planning the course of discussion.

Wednesday evening the "Humanitarian Responsibility of the United States in the Postwar Plan," was presented by Miss Anderson, Miss Margaret Baker and Mrs. T. M. Andrews.

The need for such help and the various problems of administration and distribution were brought out as well as the work of the various organizations and agencies, such as the UNRRA. Miss Anderson showed effective film slides of the medical attention being given; the destruction of Europe; children showing malnutrition; disease and filth as results of the distruction in the cities; the African camp for misplaced persons of Europe; and bringing in UNRRA equipment by plane.

A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served.

Community Christmas Party To Be Held Dec. 8

The Twiggtown Community Christmas party will be held, Saturday evening, Dec. 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson Willison, Williams road.

The party is the annual event sponsored by the Twiggtown Homemakers Club. A program of music and group singing is being planned by the 4-H Girls and Boys from the Flintstone high school.

All families of the community are invited to attend.

B and O Bolt-Forge Group To Honor Three Members

Dinner and Program Will Be Held in Central YMCA Dec. 11

The International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers, Local 32, Bolt and Forge Shop of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will entertain with a dinner in honor of retired members of their craft, on December 11. It will be served at 7 o'clock at Central YMCA.

Honor guests will be George W. Pansler, John Barker and George H. Kreitzburg. Mr. Pansler has given twenty-three years service; Mr. Barker, thirty-five years and Mr. Kreitzburg, twenty-one years.

Recognition will also be paid to Franklin T. Van and Harry Troutman, retired members who have previously been honored; Thomas Lyons, who is too ill to attend the party; and the memory of the late Estel F. Dowden.

Following the dinner a short entertainment program will be presented. It will include several addresses and brief remarks and vocal and instrumental selections.

Woodrow W. Grimes is general chairman of arrangements.

Omicron Chanter Plans Christmas Activities

Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi donated $10 to fill Red Cross Christmas stockings for Newton D. Baker hospital and formulated plans for a Christmas party at the meeting Wednesday evening at the little house, with Miss Sara McFarland presiding.

Mrs. Harry Bowman was appointed chairman for the party to be held at 7 o'clock December 18 at the Potomac Edison home office. Miss Genevieve McCoy, home agent, will give a demonstration on dessert making.

A cultural program on "The Art of Conversation," was conducted by Mrs. Virgil Eckles. Mrs. Bowman will also be chairman for a rummage sale on December 14 at Centre street Methodist church hall.

Bedford Road Club Has Christmas Program

The Bedford Road Homemakers Club held its Christmas party and program Tuesday evening at the Bedford Road firemen's hall, following a dinner.

The program consisted of readings, songs, monologue and a poem. Those taking part were Mrs. F. W. Growden, Mrs. O. C. Judy, Mrs. W. C. Straw, William Straw, Thelma Growden, and Miss Mary Boyle. Besides jingle gifts to each member, gifts were also presented to Mrs. Straw, in appreciation of her service as president and to Mrs. C. W. McDermott marking her birthday. Secret sisters were revealed and new ones selected.

Wright Describes Hospital Set-up

Memorial hospital compares favorably with any other hospital in the state, Benjamin W. Wright, superintendent of the hospital, said in an address delivered Wednesday evening at the regular dinner meeting of the Cumberland Exchange Club at Central YMCA.

Wright stated that of the $335,000 paid out by the hospital in operating expenses last year, fifty per cent was spent in Cumberland for payrolls, food and other items.

He praised the board of governors of the hospital for their efficient management of the institution, pointing out that the hospital has been solvent for several years and that it is suppored chiefly by taxpayers.

Describing general methods of handling hospitals throughout the country, Wright said that seventy-five per cent of Americans enter hospitals under the Blue Cross plan or other forms of hospital insurance.

He praised the Hill-Burton bill now pending in Congress, stating that if it is passed, dispensaries can be located in isolated communities which cannot support hospitals.

The club will hold a ladies' night Christmas party December 26 at the All Ghan Shrine Country Club, with a dinner at 6:30 p. m., followed by an entertainment program. Clyde Love, chairman of the committee in charge, will be assisted by William Newberry, Carl Daum and Daniel D'Amicol.

but could have broken up his onslaught.

If that had happened, the general testified, the Japanese would have been forced to abandon their drive into Malaysia, they would not have broken the Burma road, and their whole campaign of conquest would have been thrown out of gear.

Marshall said he had no recollection of a message from Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Hawaiian army commander, notifying the War department only that Hawaii had been put on a sabotage alert. He added that he assumed he must have seen it.

The former chief of staff said he "had no intimation" that Hawaii had not been doing long distance air reconnaisance.

who actually talked Hitler into betraying Norway.

A grim frown creased the stolid visage of Raeder, who had taken the pose of an old sea dog who only did his duty for his country, when the prosecution read from an official German war diary showing Raeder had demanded from the Nazi naval war staff a report on gaining bases in Norway.

The demand was made on October 3, 1939, only a month after Great Britain and France had entered the war.

The prosecution asserted that the groundwork for the betrayal of Norway had been laid well in advance by Rosenberg and his foreign affairs bureau of the Nazi party—a super-sponsor of fifth column activities which had been working quietly for years among the Scandinavians after Hitler came to power.

During the winter of 1938-39 Rosenberg and his organization found the tool they needed—Vidkun Quisling, who later began a series of visits to Berlin.

Elections were completed at Tabriz today for national assembly posts, and a Democrat party announcement said 700 Democrats were elected.

signed to defeat the foreign policy of the United States."

He said that while he did not have intimate knowledge of what had been happening in Washington, "I do recall that career men were arrested on information supplied by the FBI."

He offered to supply the committee confidentially with "a list of winesses they might call from the army services."

Prior to Hurley's reference to Acheson, the former ambassador caused a flurry when he demanded to know whether Connally wanted to testify in his place.

The Texas senator cautioned the hearing that no outbursts would be tolerated and that he would insist on courtesy.

"Who was it?" Connally demanded when Hurley complained of interference by career men.

"All right," Hurley answered, "it was Dean Acheson."

To Connally's question, "What did he do?," Hurley replied:

"I prefer to submit the documents."

Connally observed that Hurley's testimony would be as good as the document.

"I don't want to do this," Hurley said.

"Well don't," Connally snapped. Hurley said:

"I can do it. I'm not bluffing. All right, here she goes. Square yourself!"

Hurley then related that at the request of President Roosevelt he had helped to frame the American-British-Russian declaration at Tehran regarding Iran.

He read the document and emphasized it had said the three powers were "at one with the government of Iran in a desire for the maintenance of independent sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran, in accordance with the terms of the Atlantic Charter."

At no time during the hearing did he explain the connection of this document with his complaint against Acheson, nor was he asked to elaborate on this point.

but could have broken up his onslaught.

If that had happened, the general testified, the Japanese would have been forced to abandon their drive into Malaysia, they would not have broken the Burma road, and their whole campaign of conquest would have been thrown out of gear.

Marshall said he had no recollection of a message from Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Hawaiian army commander, notifying the War department only that Hawaii had been put on a sabotage alert. He added that he assumed he must have seen it.

The former chief of staff said he "had no intimation" that Hawaii had not been doing long distance air reconnaisance.

who actually talked Hitler into betraying Norway.

A grim frown creased the stolid visage of Raeder, who had taken the pose of an old sea dog who only did his duty for his country, when the prosecution read from an official German war diary showing Raeder had demanded from the Nazi naval war staff a report on gaining bases in Norway.

The demand was made on October 3, 1939, only a month after Great Britain and France had entered the war.

The prosecution asserted that the groundwork for the betrayal of Norway had been laid well in advance by Rosenberg and his foreign affairs bureau of the Nazi party—a super-sponsor of fifth column activities which had been working quietly for years among the Scandinavians after Hitler came to power.

During the winter of 1938-39 Rosenberg and his organization found the tool they needed—Vidkun Quisling, who later began a series of visits to Berlin.

commission to Iran to investigate conditions.

Elections were completed at Tabriz today for national assembly posts, and a Democrat party announcement said 700 Democrats were elected.

Earlier, Hakimi charged that "only about 200 genuine rebels" were involved in the Azerbaijan uprising, and declared Iran "wants freedom of movement for the redress of the grievances of the people."

signed to defeat the foreign policy of the United States."

He said that while he did not have intimate knowledge of what had been happening in Washington, "I do recall that career men were arrested on information supplied by the FBI."

He offered to supply the committee confidentially with "a list of winesses they might call from the army services."

Prior to Hurley's reference to Acheson, the former ambassador caused a flurry when he demanded to know whether Connally wanted to testify in his place.

The Texas senator cautioned the hearing that no outbursts would be tolerated and that he would insist on courtesy.

"Who was it?" Connally demanded when Hurley complained of interference by career men.

"All right," Hurley answered, "it was Dean Acheson."

To Connally's question, "What did he do?," Hurley replied:

"I prefer to submit the documents."

Connally observed that Hurley's testimony would be as good as the document.

"I don't want to do this," Hurley said.

"Well don't," Connally snapped. Hurley said:

"I can do it. I'm not bluffing. All right, here she goes. Square yourself!"

Hurley then related that at the request of President Roosevelt he had helped to frame the American-British-Russian declaration at Tehran regarding Iran.

He read the document and emphasized it had said the three powers were "at one with the government of Iran in a desire for the maintenance of independent sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iran, in accordance with the terms of the Atlantic Charter."

At no time during the hearing did he explain the connection of this document with his complaint against Acheson, nor was he asked to elaborate on this point.

How To Hold
FALSE TEETH
More Firmly In Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). # LISTEN WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson

(Registered U S Patent Office)

I like that slang phrase—"I can't be bothered"

First time I heard it, it made me mad. Sounded so flippant and heartless. I'd grown up in the Victorian era, when it was your doleful duty to be bothered by everyone and everything.

Every proper thinking person had a cross to bear. If possible two or three of 'em. If you didn't have a regular cross, you made one of any little splinter. And to see a new generation arise and announce gaily—"I can't be bothered!" was certainly some shock.

But gradually I've come to see that there's philosophy in those four words—perhaps even real religion. And certainly there's the salvation of the human race, if we have the nerve to hang on to them.

"I can't be bothered!"—that does not mean that the speaker has no heart. But it does mean that he has a head, which refuses to bow to every passing demand and disturbance. Henley put it more poetically,

"It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishment scroll,
I am master of my fate;
I am the captain of my soul."

You are the captain of your soul and it's up to you to safeguard that soul's efficiency by keeping it locked against bother. Once let your bother invade you and everything will get your goat. You'll be the victim of every wheeze of humanity and sneeze of destiny. And your usefulness to yourself or the other fellow will be completely destroyed. For bother buys you nothing but red eyes and blood pressure.

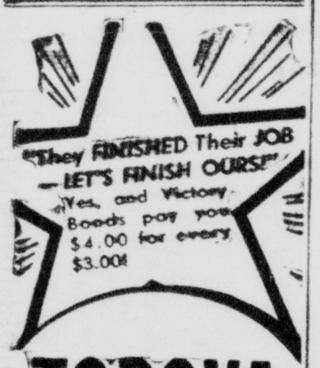

Realize and recognize need . . . keep yourself sensitive to and tolerant toward pain and trouble. But don't let it get you down. Get busy but refuse to be bothered. Don't admit that anything can lick you, for nothing can lick you if you refuse to admit it.

"I can't be bothered" . . there in a slangy capsule, is the marching song of civilization. Bother was all our cave-fathers knew. Danger and disaster, fear and ignorance, time and space bothered them. They were at the mercy of the darkness about them and the greater darkness within themselves.

Slowly they conquered bother. Little by little they proved that man was master of his fate. They learned to kill animals, save food, fight fire and disease. And now they conquer time and space.

Little, weak man standing up and thumbing his nose at Destiny . . . crying out, "I can't be bothered" . . . and triumphing over destiny because he has the courage to make that cry.

Make that your cry! Face this new day with its thousands of tiny, blasting pressures and demands and say: "I can't be bothered." And you won't me!

Demand for Steels, Motors Lifts Market to 15-year Average Peak

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Demand for steels, motors, aviations, amusements and specialties today helped lift the stock market to a fifteen-year average peak although considerable profit cashing accompanied the drive and extreme gains of two or more points were reduced in most cases at the close.

The direction generally was upward from the start. Rails ran into difficulties in the final hour but declines were moderate. Transfers for the full proceedings totalled 1,290,000 shares compared with 1,860,000 Wednesday.

Eastern Air Lines jumped three and one-quarter, Union Pacific seven-eighths and Paramount Pictures two and one-quarter. Ahead fractions to better than a point were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Grumman, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, J. C. Penney, Socony, Warner Brothers and J. I. Case.

An exception was Great Western Sugar which dropped three and three-fourths points on a cut dividend. Lower were Santa Fe, Great Northern, Pacific, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union "A", American Water Works and Deere.

The Curb boiled in the first quarter hour with the ticker falling seven minutes behind floor trades. It soon slowed. Gainers were Aireon, Brown-Forman Distillers, Colonial Airlines, E. W. Bliss and Bellanca Aircraft. Turnover here was 1,190,000 shares versus 1,100,000 yesterday.

Except for favored rails, bond market prices held close to previous levels with trends inclined irregularly lower for the market as a whole.

United States governments held in a narrow range but the undertone was about steady.

Chicago Grain Prices

Demand for Steels, Motors Lifts Market to 15-year Average Peak

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Demand for steels, motors, aviations, amusements and specialties today helped lift the stock market to a fifteen-year average peak although considerable profit cashing accompanied the drive and extreme gains of two or more points were reduced in most cases at the close.

The direction generally was upward from the start. Rails ran into difficulties in the final hour but declines were moderate. Transfers for the full proceedings totalled 1,290,000 shares compared with 1,860,000 Wednesday.

Eastern Air Lines jumped three and one-quarter. Union Pacific seven-eighths and Paramount Pictures two and one-quarter. Ahead fractions to better than a point were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Grumman, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, J. C. Penney, Socony, Warner Brothers and J. I. Case.

An exception was Great Western Sugar which dropped three and three-fourths points on a cut dividend. Lower were Santa Fe, Great Northern Pacific, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union "A", American Water Works and Deere.

The Curb boiled in the first quarter hour with the ticker falling seven minutes behind floor trades. It soon slowed. Gainers were Aireon, Brown-Forman Distillers, Colonial Airlines, E. W. Bliss and Bellanca Aircraft. Turnover here was 1,190,000 shares versus 1,100,000 yesterday.

Except for favored rails, bond market prices held close to previous levels with trends inclined irregularly lower for the market as a whole.

United States governments held in a narrow range but the undertone was about steady.

Scientists Say Cheap Atomic Power May Come In Three to 20 Years

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — Nine leaders in the atomic bomb project estimated variously today that possibly in three and almost certainly in twenty years we could have atomic power capable of competing with $15-a-ton coal.

In an extraordinary symposium, the scientists outlined in detail before the fiftieth annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers the possibilities of harnessing the atom for peacetime use.

Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, director of the entire bomb development, was top man in guessing "how soon." He placed his estimate in "decades."

Immediately, several of his assistants declared flatly he was "too pessimistic." Dr. Charles Thomas, vice president of the Monstanto Chemical Company, estimated ten years would do it. Dr. J. A. Wheeler professor of nuclear physics at Princeton university, declared the goal could be realized in from three to ten years under ideal circumstances.

Veteran Is Named To Compensation Board Staff Here

William H. Harbel, East Main street, Frostburg, who was discharged September 25 with the rank of staff sergeant after five years of military service, began work Wednesday as a junior clerk at the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

A graduate of Beall high school, Harbel enlisted at Baltimore September 17, 1940, and served in Panama and Jamaica, British West Indies. He received the pre-Pearl Harbor service ribbon, the American Defense ribbon, the Victory ribbon and the Good Conduct ribbon.

Cpl. Charles C. Sommerlatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Sommerlatt, 124 Monroe street, and Pfc. William Runion, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Runion, Mapleside, were recently discharged at Fort Meade.

Cpl. John L. Gormer, son of Mrs. Emma Gormer, 813 Columbia avenue, was released at Patterson field, O., after service with a chemical outfit in the Pacific theater.

MM 2-c Patrick E. Zembower, husband of Mrs. Mary Rice Zembower, Baltmorie pike, was discharged at Long Beach, Cal. A brother, Cpl. Eugene Zembower, is in England and another brother, SK 3-c Cletus Zembower, is on Guam.

T-5 Jesse J. Braithwaite, husband of Mrs. Billie Irene Braithwaite, Beryl, W. Va., is a surgical technician at the Two Hundred and Forty-seventh general hospital, Manila. A son of Thomas Braithwaite, Beryl, he was sent overseas in January, 1944. He holds the Good Conduct Medal and Asiatic-Pacific theater ribbon.

GM 3-c James A. Menhorn, 21, son of Hubert C. Menhorn, 412 Clinger street, Meyersdale, Pa., is serving aboard the USS Black which is now returning to the states from the Pacific theater.

Seaman First Class Herrion C. Spiker, Route 1, Westernport, has been honorably discharged from naval service at the separation center, Bainbridge.

CM3c John W. Evans, 881 Patterson avenue, MoMM1c John R. Geddes, 821 Yale street, F2c Dale E. Boyer, 230 Humbird street, and Harold G. Bolinger, 517 Maryland avenue, have been honorably discharged from the navy at the Bainbridge separation center.

T-4 Julian J. Baker and Pfc. Wallace H. Hifflett, both of Cumberland, are aboard the troopship S. S. LeJeune, which was due to dock in New York yesterday.

Body of Missing Woman Is Found in Canyon

ANSTED, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—The body of a frail 49-year-old housewife, missing for four days, was found today in New River canyon, 500 feet below famed Hawk's Nest, scenic view spot known to thousands of tourists.

Fayette County Deputy Sheriff W. C. Cole said the woman, Mrs. Sadie Mauck Keaton, Beckley, apparently had jumped to her death early last Monday morning.

A search was started for her body when Caretaker Jack Nuckols investigated an automobile which had sat untended on the park area since that day. Nuckols found the woman's driving permit and a passerby notified Beckley police of the discovery.

Meanwhile, Charles R. Keaton had told police in Beckley of his wife's disappearance and of finding a note indicating that she intended to commit suicide. Keaton said she had been in ill health.

Child Will Undergo Blalock Operation Today

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP) — The Blalock operation which has been eighty per cent successful in sixty-four previous cases will be tried tomorrow upon Judith Hackman in an effort to save the life of the 2-year-old child from Buckley, Wash., who is suffering from a rare heart condition.

Tomorrow was set as the tentative date for Judith's surgery by Johns Hopkins hospital officials, where the operative technique was discovered by Dr. Alfred Blalock and Dr. Helen B. Taussig.

Scientists Say Cheap Atomic Power May Come In Three to 20 Years

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — Nine leaders in the atomic bomb project estimated variously today that possibly in three and almost certainly in twenty years we could have atomic power capable of competing with $15-a-ton coal.

In an extraordinary symposium, the scientists outlined in detail before the fiftieth annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers the possibilities of harnessing the atom for peacetime use.

Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, director of the entire bomb development, was top man in guessing "how soon." He placed his estimate in "decades."

Immediately, several of his assistants declared flatly he was "too pessimistic." Dr. Charles Thomas, vice president of the Monstanto Chemical Company, estimated ten years would do it. Dr. J. A. Wheeler professor of nuclear physics at Princeton university, declared the goal could be realized in from three to ten years under ideal circumstances.

Veteran Is Named To Compensation Board Staff Here

William H. Harbel, East Main street, Frostburg, who was discharged September 25 with the rank of staff sergeant after five years of military service, began work Wednesday as a junior clerk at the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

A graduate of Beall high school, Harbel enlisted at Baltimore September 17, 1940, and served in Panama and Jamaica, British West Indies. He received the pre-Pearl Harbor service ribbon, the American Defense ribbon, the Victory ribbon and the Good Conduct ribbon.

Recruiter Asks For Souvenirs For Exhibition

Requests Donations for Cumberland Window Display on Dec. 10

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Dec. 6—Sgt. Joseph F. Marino, local recruiting officer stationed at the Frostburg postoffice, has been instructed by the Third service command, to ask veterans and families of servicemen to contribute war souvenirs for a window.

Sgt. Marino is to report to the Cumberland recruiting office by December 10 the number and kind of souvenirs he can get for this display. The souvenirs will be returned to the owners after the display has served its purpose.

Sgt. Marino requests that persons having souvenirs contact him at once at the Frostburg postoffice. A broadcast on the subject of recruiting will be given over station WTBO December 12 at 5:15 p. m.

Special Services Planned

Saturday is the feast of the immaculate conception of the blessed Virgin Mary, a holy day of obligation. Masses will be celebrated at 5:30, 7, 8 and 9 a. m., with benediction of the most blessed sacrament after the 9 o'clock mass.

Confessions will be heard Saturday afternoon and evening and the members of the Holy Name Society will receive holy communion at the 7:30 mass Sunday. The Holy Name choir will sing and the men will occupy pews in the center aisle of the church.

The monthly offering for the school fund will be received at all masses next Sunday.

Members of the parish will donate canned goods for the relief of sufferers in war-torn countries of the world, at the direction of Archbishop Michael J. Curley. The drive for canned foods, preserved foods and dehydrated foos will take place December 9-16. Donations of such foods may be sent to the local parish school or to the rectory. Each parishioner is asked to donate at least three articles of such foods, but those who can, may give more.

Mattesons Present Program in Keyser

KEYSER, Dec. 6 — Prof. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson, Frostburg, were the guest artists at the Christmas meeting of the American Association of University Women last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, State street.

Mrs. Matteson opened the program with a group of folk melodies arranged for piano solo. Prof. Matteson's selections included the American ballad, "William Randall," and folk songs from many places, including one from West Virginia called, "Groundhog." The latter is from Prof. Matteson's, "American Folk Songs for Young Singers," which contains many Maryland and two West Virginia songs.

Following the program a Christmas party was held for members and their guests, and refreshments were served to the forty attending.

Mason Glotfelty Named Oakland City Councilman

Replaces Delbert Davis; E. I. Baumgartner Is Chosen To Head Group

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Dec. 6 — Mason J. Glotfelty was appointed to serve as a member of the city council, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Delbert M. Davis, at the regular council meeting this week.

Glotfelty, member of the garage firm of Reckard and Glotfelty, has been associated in business in Oakland for a number of years. He is a past president of the Oakland Rotary club and has been interested in civic affairs. He will serve as councilman until after the election next March.

Davis left last week to assume his new position in the Salisbury National bank, Salisbury, as cashier, after taking an important part in Oakland's civic affairs for many years.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, council member, was elected president of that body, to take the place held by Davis.

Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, reported receipts for November at a low ebb, only $628.95 being received, while expenses were $1,368.89. There is a balance in the treasury of almost $7,000. Movie tax receipts for the month were $67.90.

To Induct Seven

Seven registrants who have been accepted for general military service have been ordered to report for induction Monday night, December 17, it was announced by H. L. Jones, draft board clerk.

They are Stanley Allen Savage, Oakland; Kenneth Harold Stahl, Grantsville; Leo V. Stottlemeyer, Mt. Lake Park; James E. Baldassare, Kempton, W. Va.; William P. Pennell, Vindex; Dorsey E. Wolfe, Kempton, W. Va., and Charleton D. Sellers. Accident.

To Open Business

Irvin R. Rudy, owner of the Rudy department store in Oakland, has leased a property in Romney, W. Va., from Mrs. Fannie Racey, and will open a clothing store there sometime before the first of March, he announced today.

The storeroom, located on the main business street, will be remodeled and a new front will be constructed. The new business will be managed by Robert Lawton, Oakland, recently discharged from the service.

Rudy began his experience in the clothing business in July, 1915, with the Coffman-Fisher Company, and came to Oakland as manager of one of the company's stores in October, 1924. He purchased the store from the owners on March 4, 1939, and entered business for himself.

Lawton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lawton, was in Rudy's employ while the store still operated under the Coffman-Fisher Company, and was still working with Rudy when he entered the service about four years ago.

To Attend Conference

Foster D. Bittle, principal of Oakland high school, and Merle Frantz, principal of the Oakland elementary school, will participate in a conference for junior high school teachers, to be held at Towson, December 10, 11 and 12.

Each county has been invited to send two people who are working with boys and girls on the junior high school level.

Dr. Prescott, head of the education department of the University of Chicago, and a specialist in this field, who has been working with high school supervisors and the state steering committee of the department of education, will discuss the work of initiating the junior high school program.

Enlist in Army

Everett Dale DeWitt and Maxwell Wade DeWitt, Mt. Lake Park, have made application for enlistment in the regular army. They went to Hagerstown for physical examination Tuesday.

Everett DeWitt served in the CCC and recently served seven months and fourteen days in the merchant marine. He saw service in both the Pacific and Atlantic theaters and holds the Seaman's Cross for heroic action under fire.

Maxwell DeWitt, 17, was formerly employed by the H. Weber and Sons Company, near Oakland.

Both enlisted for a period of three years and asked to be sent to the Pacific area, according to the local recruiting officer.

Exhibit Calves

Thirteen calves raised by Garrett county 4-H club boys were exhibited at the baby beef show in Pittsburgh recently and two of them placed in the prize money, it was announced by Joseph Steger, assistant county agent.

Robert Harvey's beef won fourth in its class and Guy Harvey's won sixth in its class. Classes were divided into heavy, light and medium.

Those making the trip included Earl K. Harvey, Sr., and his sons, Earl K. Jr., Calvin, Ernest, Guy, Robert, and Fred Harvey, North Glade; Hayward Custer and two sons, Melvin and Dale Custer, Swanton; Roland Bernard and his father, Swanton; Dale and Donald Glotfelty, near Accident, and Steger.

Army Surplus Property Sale Policy Is Released

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6. (AP)—Veterans who want army surplus property for use in business may make negotiated purchases through the smaller war plants corporation of items available at the Third service command property disposal depot in Philadelphia.

The retail sale policy was announced by Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding officer, who said he had notified SWPC offices in Washington, Baltimore and eleven Pennsylvania and Virginia cities that, under a War department stipulation, he may determine "that a retail or spot negotiated sale appears to be in the best interests of the government."

Students Buy Bonds Amounting to $1000

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Dec. 6—Victory bonds amounting to $1,000 and stamps totaling $75 were purchased by students and teachers at an auction held this morning at the Bruce high school auditorium.

John E. Grindle, athletic director, was auctioneer. Forty-five prizes donated for the affair were given out.

Principal John W. Fisher said that the results were good. Seventy students who come to school on three buses from Garrett county did not attend because of the icy condition of the roads.

Credit for the high school purchases goes to the Westernport and Luke Lions club which is competing with the Piedmont Rotary club for high bond sales. Credit for the public auction Tuesday, when $3600 in bonds was purchased, was given to the Piedmont Rotary club.

The contest between the two clubs will close Saturday. The losers will entertain the winners later.

Westernport Briefs

Victory Post Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion No. 155 will meet Monday at 8 p. m.

A representative of the navy will be at the Westernport post office Friday. All men 17 years of age must have the consent of their father (if living) to join the navy. Enlistments are for 2, 3, 4 or 6 years.

Delmer Cannon, Miss Sponaugle Of Davis Marry

Double-ring Ceremony Performed by Pastor at Red House

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 6—Announcment is made of the marriage of Miss Norma Lee Sponaugle, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Sponaugle and the late Raymond Sponaugle, Davis, to Delmer Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cannon, Davis.

The marriage vows were exchanged December 1 at Red House, with the Rev. George C. Stratton, pastor of the Davis Methodist church, reading the double-ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride was attired in a two-piece tailored suit with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of red rose buds.

Miss Anna Lee Cannon, sister of the bride-groom, as maid of honor wore a black, street-length dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Willie Cannon, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Cannon attended Davis high school and has been employed at the Kelly plant in Cumberland.

Cannon attended Thomas high school and was recently discharged from the navy after serving several years in the Pacific.

A wedding dinner and reception were held at the home of the bride's mother following the ceremony. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Cannon will reside in Davis.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder, Mackeyville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Muriel, to Earl F. Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simmons, Hambleton.

Simmons received his discharge from the army November 15, after serving three years, two of which were spent in the Pacific theater.

He wears the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with three stars for the battles of New Guinea, Luzon and Leyte, the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star, the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the Good Conduct Medal, the Purple Heart for wounds received in action May 12, 1945 when he was wounded while destroying a Japanese pill box. He also wears the Silver Star for gallantry in the same action.

He also has four overseas service stripes and while in the army held the rating of staff sergeant. Prior to his entrance into the service he was employed by the United States Forest Service in Parsons.

The date for the wedding has not been set.

Sleet Storm Strikes West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—Motorists were advised by the road commission today to stay off highways in Preston, Pendleton, Randolph and Tucker counties as a sleet storm following a heavy snow throughout West Virginia made the pavements extremely icy.

The commission said no additional snow fell in the state, but the sleet reduced visibility in the mountain counties. All southern West Virginia highways were passable.

Street cars resumed their runs between Fairmont, Clarksburg and Riversville during the day after crews replaced trolley wires, snapped by an ice coating. About fifteen minor accidents occurred in Fairmont because of slick pavements, while coal production in the area dropped sharply due to the inability of miners to get to their jobs.

Electricians Find Hooks Corner "Chronicle," in Glass Quart Jar

By MRS. H. V. BENDER

FLINTSTONE, Dec. 6—In installing electrical wires in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Perrin, Electrician John Reed and his helper, Wilson Grass, came upon a glass quart jar which was placed in a partition when the house was built in 1886 by Perrin's father, the late Murry F. Perrin.

The jar contained a document written by the late Hillary F. Willison and three newspapers—The Queen City Courier, dated September 16, 1886; The Cumberland Evening Alleganian, September 16, 1886 and The Weekly Courier Journal, September 13, 1886.

The following excerpts are from the Willison document:

"By the request of the owner and builder of this house, Murry B. Perrin, I here in purpose to give a little account of matters and things in 'Hook's Corner,' and vicinity in this our day of grace, 1886."

Lists Neighbors

"Names of neighbors occupying farms in vicinity are on the East, Abraham Ash, Jerros R. Perrin; North, M. B. Hartsock, Eneas A. Street; West, Fred Hartsock; South, John Hartsock, Hillary F. Willison, Jesse Browning, Amos Ash."

"Farm produce the lowest since before the great War between the States."

"We have lately begun to use machinery in Farming, and Mowers, Horse Rakes, Grain Drills, Reapers, Steam Thrashers are common. The writer of this recollects very well when there was not a solitary one of those machines in use in this community—no riding plow or cultivators in use here. With in a short time we have begain to use Commercial Fertilizer which I consider a mistake from the fact that instead of grain growing we should be a stock raising community and I here venture to predict that, when this paper comes out of its dusty hiding place, if the farmers in this hilly country shall be found to prosper it will be from the fact that they have abandoned Commercial Fertilizers and the growing of grain food for sale and have taken to raising of stock and fruit, and the universal use of lime instead of Commercial Fertilizer. The first Jersey cow seen in this settlement was introduced by Johnithan Wilson. They are not popular; we delight in scrub stock of all kind."

Notes Leaders

To Willison's list of leaders in the community at that time he added: "Oldest man — Ephram Browning for 1800.

"Oldest female — Rebecca Wigfield, 89 years.

"Youngest child in Hooks Corner—Grace Willison.

"Ugliest man — Bruce Hartsock. Ugliest woman — Serena Street."

"The chief topic at present of news is the Earth Quake, the greatest in the history of the United States so far which happened on the last night of August. It was distinctly felt from Florida to Buffalo, New York, and from Washington to California — In Cumberland also, most distinctly felt on Washington Street."

"The Country has lost three great soldiers within a year. 'Grant' — 'McClellan' — and 'Hancock', the 'superb'—"

"The finder of this sheet of Fools Cap will please excuse mistakes and blunders, as it was written among the noise and gables of ten healthy and frolicsome children, said to belong to the writer of these Chronicles of 'Hooks Corner.' "

It was signed "Hillary F. Willison, Fairview Farm, September 20, 1886."

The Perrin home was threatened by fire in October, 1942. The kitchen and porch, which were added several years after the main part of the building was built, were damaged.

Paper Workers Union Rivalries Heard by NLRB

CIO Group Objects to AFL as Bargaining Agent for Field

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP) — Opposition from a rival union, rather than from the company, appeared today at an NLRB hearing involving union representation of approximately 3,000 employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Trial Examiner Earl K. Shaw of the National Labor Relations Board conducted the hearing on the petition of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (AFL) for bargaining rights at the company's plants in Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

The Paper Workers Organizing Committee (CIO) testified that the AFL group had an insufficient showing in membership to ask for the election, while the petitioning union contended that it was NLRB policy to grant elections upon a petition and cited cases where elections were held when membership authorization was only fifteen or eighteen per cent.

The PWOC, now recognized by the company as bargaining agent for its more than 3,000 employes at the three plants, claims ninety per cent of the membership.

Two other AFL groups, the Firemens' and Oilers' Unit and the International Association of Machinists, intervened at the hearing, seeking permission to act as bargaining agents in their particular fields at the three plants.

Both the CIO-PWOC and the AFL-Mill Workers objected to breaking down the workers into craft units for bargaining purposes.

Company officials at the hearing told Trial Examiner Shaw they would have no objection if the NLRB should rule that an election be held in the three plants and would co-operate in making the arrangements.

An agreement covering wages, vacations and holidays for employes of the plants was negotiated in August by the PWOC and the Pulp and Paper Company. A four per cent general increase for both day and shift workers was granted.

The case was referred to the NLRB in Washington for a decision.

Requests Donations for Cumberland Window Display on Dec. 10

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Dec. 6—Sgt. Joseph F. Marino, local recruiting officer stationed at the Frostburg postoffice, has been instructed by the Third service command, to ask veterans and families of servicemen to contribute war souvenirs for a window.

Sgt. Marino is to report to the Cumberland recruiting office by December 10 the number and kind of souvenirs he can get for this display. The souvenirs will be returned to the owners after the display has served its purpose.

Sgt. Marino requests that persons having souvenirs contact him at once at the Frostburg postoffice. A broadcast on the subject of recruiting will be given over station WTBO December 12 at 5:15 p. m.

Special Services Planned

Saturday is the feast of the immaculate conception of the blessed Virgin Mary, a holy day of obligation. Masses will be celebrated at 5:30, 7, 8 and 9 a. m., with benediction of the most blessed sacrament after the 9 o'clock mass.

Confessions will be heard Saturday afternoon and evening and the members of the Holy Name Society will receive holy communion at the 7:30 mass Sunday. The Holy Name choir will sing and the men will occupy pews in the center aisle of the church.

The monthly offering for the school fund will be received at all masses next Sunday.

Members of the parish will donate canned goods for the relief of sufferers in war-torn countries of the world, at the direction of Archbishop Michael J. Curley. The drive for canned foods, preserved foods and dehydrated foos will take place December 9-16. Donations of such foods may be sent to the local parish school or to the rectory. Each parishioner is asked to donate at least three articles of such foods, but those who can, may give more.

KEYSER, Dec. 6 — Prof. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson, Frostburg, were the guest artists at the Christmas meeting of the American Association of University Women last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, State street.

Mrs. Matteson opened the program with a group of folk melodies arranged for piano solo. Prof. Matteson's selections included the American ballad, "William Randall," and folk songs from many places, including one from West Virginia called, "Groundhog." The latter is from Prof. Matteson's, "American Folk Songs for Young Singers," which contains many Maryland and two West Virginia songs.

Following the program a Christmas party was held for members and their guests, and refreshments were served to the forty attending.

Replaces Delbert Davis; E. I. Baumgartner Is Chosen To Head Group

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Dec. 6 — Mason J. Glotfelty was appointed to serve as a member of the city council, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Delbert M. Davis, at the regular council meeting this week.

Glotfelty, member of the garage firm of Reckard and Glotfelty, has been associated in business in Oakland for a number of years. He is a past president of the Oakland Rotary club and has been interested in civic affairs. He will serve as councilman until after the election next March.

Davis left last week to assume his new position in the Salisbury National bank, Salisbury, as cashier, after taking an important part in Oakland's civic affairs for many years.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, council member, was elected president of that body, to take the place held by Davis.

Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, reported receipts for November at a low ebb, only $628.95 being received, while expenses were $1,368.89. There is a balance in the treasury of almost $7,000. Movie tax receipts for the month were $67.90.

To Induct Seven

Seven registrants who have been accepted for general military service have been ordered to report for induction Monday night, December 17, it was announced by H. L. Jones, draft board clerk.

They are Stanley Allen Savage, Oakland; Kenneth Harold Stahl, Grantsville; Leo V. Stottlemeyer, Mt. Lake Park; James E. Baldassare, Kempton, W. Va.; William P. Pennell, Vindex; Dorsey E. Wolfe, Kempton, W. Va., and Charleton D. Sellers, Accident.

To Open Business

Irvin R. Rudy, owner of the Rudy department store in Oakland, has leased a property in Romney, W. Va., from Mrs. Fannie Racey, and will open a clothing store there sometime before the first of March, he announced today.

The storeroom, located on the main business street, will be remodeled and a new front will be constructed. The new business will be managed by Robert Lawton, Oakland, recently discharged from the service.

Rudy began his experience in the clothing business in July, 1915, with the Coffman-Fisher Company, and came to Oakland as manager of one of the company's stores in October, 1924. He purchased the store from the owners on March 4, 1939, and entered business for himself.

Lawton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lawton, was in Rudy's employ while the store still operated under the Coffman-Fisher Company, and was still working with Rudy when he entered the service about four years ago.

To Attend Conference

Foster D. Bittle, principal of Oakland high school, and Merle Frantz, principal of the Oakland elementary school, will participate in a conference for junior high school teachers, to be held at Towson, December 10, 11 and 12.

Each county has been invited to send two people who are working with boys and girls on the junior high school level.

Dr. Prescott, head of the education department of the University of Chicago, and a specialist in this field, who has been working with high school supervisors and the state steering committee of the department of education, will discuss the work of initiating the junior high school program.

Enlist in Army

Everett Dale DeWitt and Maxwell Wade DeWitt, Mt. Lake Park, have made application for enlistment in the regular army. They went to Hagerstown for physical examination Tuesday.

Everett DeWitt served in the CCC and recently served seven months and fourteen days in the merchant marine. He saw service in both the Pacific and Atlantic theaters and holds the Seaman's Cross for heroic action under fire.

Maxwell DeWitt, 17, was formerly employed by the H. Weber and Sons Company, near Oakland.

Exhibit Calves

Thirteen calves raised by Garrett county 4-H club boys were exhibited at the baby beef show in Pittsburgh recently and two of them placed in the prize money, it was announced by Joseph Steger, assistant county agent.

Robert Harvey's beef won fourth in its class and Guy Harvey's won sixth in its class. Classes were divided into heavy, light and medium.

Those making the trip included Earl K. Harvey, Sr., and his sons, Earl K. Jr., Calvin, Ernest, Guy, Robert, and Fred Harvey, North Glade; Hayward Custer and two sons, Melvin and Dale Custer, Swanton; Roland Bernard and his father, Swanton; Dale and Donald Glotfelty, near Accident, and Steger.

Army Surplus Property Sale Policy Is Released

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6. (AP)—Veterans who want army surplus property for use in business may make negotiated purchases through the smaller war plants corporation of items available at the Third service command property disposal depot in Philadelphia.

The retail sale policy was announced by Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding officer, who said he had notified SWPC offices in Washington, Baltimore and eleven Pennsylvania and Virginia cities that under a War department stipulation, he may determine "that a retail or spot negotiated sale appears to be in the best interests of the government."

Students Buy Bonds Amounting to $1000

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Dec. 6—Victory bonds amounting to $1,000 and stamps totaling $75 were purchased by students and teachers at an auction held this morning at the Bruce high school auditorium.

John E. Grindle, athletic director, was auctioneer. Forty-five prizes donated for the affair were given out.

Principal John W. Fisher said that the results were good. Seventy students who come to school on three buses from Garrett county did not attend because of the icy condition of the roads.

Credit for the high school purchases goes to the Westernport and Luke Lions club which is competing with the Piedmont Rotary club for high bond sales. Credit for the public auction Tuesday, when $3600 in bonds was purchased, was given to the Piedmont Rotary club.

The contest between the two clubs will close Saturday. The losers will entertain the winners later.

Westernport Briefs

Victory Post Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion No. 155 will meet Monday at 8 p. m.

A representative of the navy will be at the Westernport post office Friday. All men 17 years of age must have the consent of their father (if living) to join the navy. Enlistments are for 2, 3, 4 or 6 years.

J. Lee Delaney To Speak Today At Central High

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, Dec. 6—J. Lee Delaney, who come to Central high school November 1 to join the staff as mathematics instructor upon his return from the European theater and his release from active duty as a lieutenant colonel, will speak on "Living in Foreign Lands" at the school assembly tomorrow at 9 a. m. in the high school auditorium.

Delaney entered the service May 5, 1941, as a reserve officer with a rating of first lieutenant. He was assigned to the Fourth division and was stationed at Fort Benning Ga., Camp Gordon, Ga., Fort Dix, N. J., and Camp Gordon-Johnson, Carrabelle, Fla.

Delmer Cannon, Miss Sponaugle Of Davis Marry

Double-ring Ceremony Performed by Pastor at Red House

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 6—Announcment is made of the marriage of Miss Norma Lee Sponaugle, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Sponaugle and the late Raymond Sponaugle, Davis, to Delmer Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cannon, Davis.

The marriage vows were exchanged December 1 at Red House, with the Rev. George C. Stratton, pastor of the Davis Methodist church, reading the double-ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride was attired in a two-piece tailored suit with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of red rose buds.

Miss Anna Lee Cannon, sister of the bride-groom, as maid of honor wore a black, street-length dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Willie Cannon, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Cannon attended Davis high school and has been employed at the Kelly plant in Cumberland.

Cannon attended Thomas high school and was recently discharged from the navy after serving several years in the Pacific.

A wedding dinner and reception were held at the home of the bride's mother following the ceremony. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Cannon will reside in Davis.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder, Mackeyville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Muriel, to Earl P. Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simmons, Hambleton.

Simmons received his discharge from the army November 15, after serving three years, two of which were spent in the Pacific theater.

He wears the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with three stars for the battles of New Guinea, Luzon and Leyte, the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star, the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the Good Conduct Medal, the Purple Heart for wounds received in action May 12, 1945 when he was wounded while destroying a Japanese pill box. He also wears the Silver Star for gallantry in the same action.

He also has four overseas service stripes and while in the army held the rating of staff sergeant. Prior to his entrance into the service he was employed by the United States Forest Service in Parsons.

The date for the wedding has not been set.

Report on Kills

Sleet Storm Strikes West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—Motorists were advised by the road commission today to stay off highways in Preston, Pendleton, Randolph and Tucker counties as a sleet storm following a heavy snow throughout West Virginia made the pavements extremely icy.

The commission said no additional snow fell in the state, but the sleet reduced visibility in the mountain counties. All southern West Virginia highways were passable.

Street cars resumed their runs between Fairmont, Clarksburg and Riversville during the day after crews replaced trolley wires, snapped by an ice coating. About fifteen minor accidents occurred in Fairmont because of slick pavements, while coal production in the area dropped sharply due to the inability of miners to get to their jobs.

Electricians Find Hooks Corner "Chronicle," in Glass Quart Jar

By MRS. H. V. BENDER

FLINTSTONE, Dec. 6—In installing electrical wires in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Perrin, Electrician John Reed and his helper, Wilson Grass, came upon a glass quart jar which was placed in a partition when the house was built in 1886 by Perrin's father, the late Murry F. Perrin.

The jar contained a document written by the late Hillary F. Willison and three newspapers—The Queen City Courier, dated September 16, 1886; The Cumberland Evening Alleganian, September 16, 1886 and The Weekly Courier Journal, September 13, 1886.

The following excerpts are from the Willison document:

"By the request of the owner and builder of this house, Murry B. Perrin, I here in purpose to give a little account of matters and things in 'Hook's Corner,' and vicinity in this our day of grace, 1886."

Lists Neighbors

"Names of neighbors occupying farms in vicinity are on the East, Abraham Ash, Jerros R. Perrin; North, M. B. Hartsock, Eneas A Street; West, Fred Hartsock; South, John Hartsock, Hillary F. Willison, Jesse Browning, Amos Ash."

"Farm produce the lowest since before the great War between the States."

"We have lately begun to use machinery in Farming, and Mowers, Horse Rakes, Grain Drills, Reapers. Steam Thrashers are common. The writer of this recollects very well when there was not a solitary one of those machines in use in this community—no riding plow or cultivators in use here. With in a short time we have begain to use Commercial Fertilizer which I consider a mistake from the fact that instead of grain growing we should be a stock raising community and I here venture to predict that, when this paper comes out of its dusty hiding place, if the farmers in this hilly country shall be found to prosper it will be from the fact that they have abandoned Commercial Fertilizers and the growing of grain food for sale and have taken to raising of stock and fruit, and the universal use of lime instead of Commercial Fertilizer. The first Jersey cow seen in this settlement was introduced by Johnithan Wilson. They are not popular; we delight in scrub stock of all kind."

Notes Leaders

To Willison's list of leaders in the community at that time he added:

"Oldest man — Ephram Browning for 1800.

"Oldest female — Rebecca Wigfield, 89 years.

"Youngest child in Hooks Corner—Grace Willison.

"Ugliest man — Bruce Hartsock.

Ugliest woman — Serena Street."

"The chief topic at present of news is the Earth Quake, the greatest in the history of the United States so far which happened on the last night of August. It was distinctly felt from Florida to Buffalo, New York, and from Washington to California — In Cumberland also, most distinctly felt on Washington Street."

"The Country has lost three great soldiers within a year. 'Grant' — 'McClellan' — and 'Hancock', the 'superb'—"

"The finder of this sheet of Fools Cap will please excuse mistakes and blunders, as it was written among the noise and gables of ten healthy and frolicsome children, said to belong to the writer of these Chronicles of 'Hooks Corner.'"

It was signed "Hillary F. Willison, Fairview Farm, September 20, 1886."

The Perrin home was threatened by fire in October, 1942. The kitchen and porch, which were added several years after the main part of the building was built, were damaged.

ECKHART WILL HAVE COMMUNITY TREE FOR CHRISTMAS

ECKHART, Dec. 6—A community Christmas tree will be erected in the business section of Eckhart, according to plans of the Recreational Club of Eckhart, made at a meeting in the new school Tuesday evening. The tree, to be located on a vacant lot owned by Miss Lillian Feldman, will be lighted Christmas eve.

Choirs from the Methodist and Baptist churches, a chorus from the Homemakers, Senior and Junior 4-H clubs and the Square circle will sing Christmas carols at the tree.

A committee of men in charge of the Christmas tree is composed of the Rev. John Wilson, John Watson, Charles Bruner, Charles Eckhart, Reuben Lewis, William Barry and James Carter.

In charge of the program are Mrs. Mollie Dudley, Imogene Caudill, Mrs. Cecil Snyder, Mrs. Clarence Thomas and Mrs. Catherine Catherman.

John Watson is chairman of the program committee.

Planned at School

A circus, with a program and various sideshows, will be held at Eckhart school at 7:30 p. m. December 11.

The circus will be held under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Catherman, Mrs. Lillian Hamilton, Mrs. Ina Watson, Mrs. Margaret Walsh, Mrs. Allen Hendrickson, Mrs. Hugh Watson and Imogene Caudill.

WARNS OF CIVIL WAR

PREMIER Ferruccio Parri, of Italy (above), who was forced to resign when Liberal, Labor-Democrat and Christian Democrat ministers had quit his coalition cabinet, warned his successors that any attempt to swing left or right of his pivotal coalition would "inevitably lead to civil war." City-wide demonstrations in Rome followed the premier's resignation.

Paper Workers Union Rivalries Heard by NLRB

CIO Group Objects to AFL as Bargaining Agent for Field

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP) — Opposition from a rival union, rather than from the company, appeared today at an NLRB hearing involving union representation of approximately 3,000 employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Trial Examiner Earl K. Shaw of the National Labor Relations Board conducted the hearing on the petition of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (AFL) for bargaining rights at the company's plants in Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

The Paper Workers Organizing Committee (CIO) testified that the AFL group had an insufficient showing in membership to ask for the election, while the petitioning union contended that it was NLRB policy to grant elections upon a petition and cited cases where elections were held when membership authorization was only fifteen or eighteen per cent.

The PWOC, now recognized by the company as bargaining agent for its more than 3,000 employes at the three plants, claims ninety per cent of the membership.

Two other AFL groups, the Firemens' and Oilers' Unit and the International Association of Machinists, intervened at the hearing, seeking permission to act as bargaining agents in their particular fields at the three plants.

Both the CIO-PWOC and the AFL-Mill Workers objected to breaking down the workers into craft units for bargaining purposes.

Company officials at the hearing told Trial Examiner Shaw they would have no objection if the NLRB should rule that an election be held in the three plants and would co-operate in making the arrangements.

An agreement covering wages, vacations and holidays for employes of the plants was negotiated in August by the PWOC and the Pulp and Paper Company. A four per cent general increase for both day and shift workers was granted.

The case was referred to the NLRB in Washington for a decision.

Robert Goldfine Relates Experiences Last April when American and Russian Troops Formed Juncture at Elbe River

due to shortage of film, Goldfine quit trying to actually take pictures but would just hold up his camera, go "click" and smile and nod at the Russians.

As the party warmed up, much sentiment was expressed by soldiers of both armies. The Russians tacked up a picture of Stalin in the grove where the celebration was taking place, also a smaller one of Roosevelt. Russian posters appeared showing stalwart Soviet and American soldiers gripping hands as they trod on the Facist swastika. Bottles were in evidence everywhere.

In the midst of the celebration two Russian officrs were summarily shot for some infraction or other, proving that Soviet discipline still existed, celebration or no celebration. Other Russians fired off captured pieces of German ordinance much to their own delight.

Russians Liked Wristwatches

One burly Russian, who had a smattering of English, went about calling everybody "my dear." It was reported and one American who asked to purchase an insignia from another Russian was given a thundering tirade on the evils of capitalism.

Goldfine noted that the Russian soldiers showed an almost childish interest in American ordnance and in American personal effects—especially wristwatches.

"They thought wristwatches were something special," Goldfine said. "Their own equipment certainly had variety. I never saw so many different uniforms. They wore most anything. They were much impressed by the fact that we all wore identical outfits."

Once the initial get-to-gether was over and zones of occupation were set up, fraternization between the enlisted men ceased but officers of both armies continued to fete each other and express the warmest friendship."

Asked what he thought of the Russians after getting to know them, Goldfine said "Well, when we met them we admired them tremendously and we were ready to like them. Later, we actually didn't get along so good".

Goldfine hastened to add that one of the troubles was the fact that zones of occupation were so closely drawn with Americans unable to go where they wanted to. In some cases Americans had to take long detours simply because a short cut happened to go through a Soviet zone.

"Then too, the language barrier was a big one," Goldfine said. "Somebody in the crowd generally knew a little French or German but practically nobody knew Russian and Russian was all the Russians knew."

Impressed by Officers

Goldfine was impressed by the young officers of the Soviet army that he saw.

"Every one of them came up through the ranks," he said. "And all of them were very young — even the big brass."

To say that they are rugged would be putting it mildly, the photographer said. They all seem to have great gusto and are essentially men of action, he added.

Another experience during his tour of duty that greatly impressed Goldfine, was his encounter with a young Pole who had been miraculously saved from the gas chamber in a concentration camp after actually entering it.

The Pole was fourteen years old when imprisoned and seventeen when liberated. Shortly before the liberation, he was conducted, with a large group of other prisoners, to what purported to be a shower room.

Each prisoner was given soap and they were told by the guards that they were to have a nice, clean bath. Then they were herded into the so-called shower room which was actually the gas chamber although the young man was not aware of it at the time. Older prisoners who did know about it behaved in a casual manner.

The group was inside the "shower" and the doors closed when a guard appeared and summoned part of the group from the chamber.

Snatched from Death's Door

It was announced that 200 able-bodied men were needed immediately to repair a stretch of railroad that had been bombed by American bombers.

Later, the young Pole learned that he had been literally snatched from death's door.

The curious shower room, a classic example of Nazi devilish ingenuity and efficiency, first showered the naked prisoners to open up their pores thus making them more receptive to the poisonous fumes released almost immediately after the water was turned off.

After the gas had accomplished its mission, the floor of the shower room yawned open and the bodies dropped into cars directly beneath which took the remains to the crematorium by rail.

Goldfine defined Europe's war devastated areas, which includes most of Germany and part of France, as "stagnant."

"Everything is destroyed and nothing new is being made," is the way he expressed it. "The people have nothing."

Goldfine did not attempt to say what this condition will eventually lead to if not corrected soon.

Palestine Should

abolish this White Paper as soon as it came to power and would establish a Jewish state in Palestine...

"Due to Jewish effort, sacrifices and hard labor, Palestine is booming and all other religions, Mohammedans and Christians, are benefitting from Jewish contributions. . .

"The doors of Palestine are closed tight. Fifty thousand troops, special police and parts of the British navy are guarding the shores of the Mediterranean so the Jews cannot smuggle into the Holy Land.

"The Palestine Jews have declared that the saving of Jewish lives from the concentration camps of Europe is dearer to them than their own lives. Their brothers, sisters, parents and relatives in Europe have been exterminated by the Nazis in gas chambers and death camps, so they are embittered and would like to save the remnants, who are sick, hungry, cold and living under unbelievable conditions in camps. Thirty thousand died in the last two or three months and thousands more will meet the same end if they cannot be saved."

TWO FLINTSTONE WOMEN ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Flintstone women were admitted to Allegany hospital and two others were treated early last evening for injuries suffered when the car in which they were riding ran off the road on Route 40 at the West end of Flintstone and cashed against a telephone pole.

Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Marion Naill, 20, for treatment of a compound fracture of the nose. Attaches reported her condition was "good." She also suffered minor lacerations, attaches said.

Treated in the hospital was Thomas W. Naill, 54, Flintstone, who told attaches he was driving when the car struck the pole. He was treated for small lacerations on the third and fourth fingers of the right hand and cuts above the eye and under the chin.

Trooper Blair J. Buckel, who investigated, said Naill's son, James, 21, was treated for a cut above the left eye while a daughter, Virginia, about 13, escaped injury.

Trooper Buckle said the road was slippery when the car left the road and ran against the pole as the five persons were riding toward Flintstone in a 1934 Plymouth coupe.

Fertilizer Control To Be Discussed At Farm Meeting

Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Pennsylvania farmers, leaders in agronomy, research and fertilizer control, will meet for their first post war discussion of fertilizer problems at a regional conference sponsored by the American Plant Food Council at the Lord Baltimore hotel, Baltimore, Tuesday, December 11, Harry B. Caldwell, secretary-treasurer, announced today.

W. T. Wright, vice president of the F. S. Royster Guano Company, Norfolk, Va., will preside. Rep. Stephen Pace (D-Ga.), a member of the House Agriculture Committee, will speak on "Security for the Farmers."

"Fertilizer needs, economical usage and the need for uniformity in fertilizer recommendations and control laws will be discussed," Caldwell said. "Farmers and their leaders are vitally concerned with these problems, solutions of which are paramount in our post-war agriculture."

Three Births Reported

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Clark, Route 2, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial hospital early yesterday morning.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Slough, Paw Paw, W. Va., in Memorial hospital last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, 604 Quebec avenue, announce the birth of a son in Allegany hospital last evening at 9:57 o'clock.

Actress Plans Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6 (AP)—Rita Hayworth said today she would divorce Orson Welles after two years of married life. The actress added they would make a joint statement as soon as Welles arrived here.

Great Air-Sea

Mills, which reported seeing an explosion in the air and what appeared to be an airplane spin downward into the sea. The time was 7:50 p. m. yesterday, and the location at sea off New Smyrna beach, the passing ship reported. Dozens of planes and surface craft combed the area today but found no wreckage.

How all five planes could vanish in one swoop, with none able to send out a last-second SOS event in the event of a five-way crash, was an enigma still to be solved.

HISTORIC PARTY—According to Photographer Robert Goldfine the party given by the Russians and Americans following their historic meeting on the Elbe river would have made the wildest American Legion convention look like a quilting party in comparison. As the top picture above reveals, hard drinking was the order of the day. The banner proclaims "our greetings to the brave troops of the First Amerikan army." The large picture is of Stalin, the small one of Roosevelt. The next picture shows American and Russian officers dancing with Russian female military police who were with the various Russian front line units when the meeting took place. The bottom picture shows an American officer, who could speak Russian, answering some of the hundreds of questions of the Soviet soldiers asked. While the party was boisterous, Soviet discipline did not relax a second, Goldfine said. Two Soviet officers were summarily shot during the celebration of an infraction of regulations.

Baltimore Firm Names Walsh To Help Adjust Taxation Schedules

The Baltimore Transit Company has named Wiliam C. Walsh, former attorney general, to work with its staff of lawyers in the adjustment of the utility's taxation schedules under the proposed switch from trolleys to buses on part of its system.

Walsh is a member of the firm of Miles, Walsh, O'Brien and Morris. The transit company also named to work with its law staff Harry N. Baetjer, of the law firm of Venable, Baetjer and Howard.

B'nai B'rith Lodge Will Hold Sabbath Services Tonight

Sabbath services of Western Maryland Lodge, No. 1507, B'nai B'rith, will be held at 7:15 o'clock tonight at Beth Jacob synagogue.

Moe Sacks will give the service, Morris Ceitlin will recite the Kaddish and Alex Green will deliver the sermon. His subject will be the "Significance of Chunacah," the Jewish "Feast of Candles."

Patterson Is Named To State Committee

J. Milton Patterson, state director of public welfare with headquarters in Baltimore, has been named to head the statewide committee on youth services by Gov. O'Conor. A former resident of Cumberland, Patterson succeeds Joseph Rogan, former director of the department of correction and now chairman of the state tax commission.

The committee on youth services was created as a co-ordinating body for work in the field of juvenile delinquency.

Three Persons Are Treated in Hospitals After Accidents

Mrs. Mildred Furlow, 26, Route 1, this city, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for a fracture of the left arm. Attaches said Mrs. Furlow reported she was injured when she slipped and fell on a concrete walk.

Eugene Birmingham, 43, 217 Paca street, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday at 11 a. m. after his right thumb nail was torn off. The Queen City Brewing Company employe said his thumb was caught in some machinery.

Mrs. Pauline Frost, 53, wife of Charles Frost, Route 2, was treated in Allegany hospital Wednesday evening for a possible fracture of the left arm. Attaches said Mrs. Frost told them she was injured when she fell at her home.

William Hunt, 12, 21 Fifth street, was released from Memorial hospital yesterday. The local boy was admitted Wednesday evening after he fell at a local drug store.

Educational Certificate Exams To Be Given Here

Examinations for a Maryland certificate which is the legal equivalent to a high school diploma will be held the second Friday and Saturday of January in the Allegany county education building, according to Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, director of instruction in the state department of education.

The certificate will be accepted as meeting state requirements of a high school education for admission to professional and vocational studies. Applications should be submitted by December 15.

These examinations are offered to servicemen and veterans the second Friday and Saturday of each month.

Sentenced to Death

LAUREL, Miss., Dec. 6 (AP)—A 30-year-old negro, Willie McGee, was convicted tonight on a charge of raping a white woman. He was sentenced to die in Mississippi's electric chair January 7.

Field Executive To Be Employed By Scout Council

The executive board of Potomac council, Boy Scouts of America, decided at a meeting last night to hire a second paid executive on the council staff to act as a field executive, according to Kenneth E. Jackson, executive director.

The meeting was held at 8 p. m. at the home of Dr. Frank U. Davis, 24 Washington street, president of the council.

A committee was named to select the field executive, whose duties will include helping to promote "Cubbing" and to assist in field service in the Cumberland district of the council. The selection committee includes Dr. Arthur Hawkins, Floyd Davis, Dr. Davis and Jackson.

It was also decided to hold the annual meeting in the form of a Scouters' conference or institute, with afternoon and evening sessions and a dinner. The affair, tentatively scheduled for the middle of January, will be in charge of the camping and activities committee, headed by Floyd Davis.

Victory D. Heisey was named chairman of a nominating committee to select council officers for the coming year. Heisey will be assisted by Julian Patrick and Arthur Weber. The election will be held at the annual meeting in January.

Those named to the Silver Beaver committee, which will select one or two Scouters for the national award given to Scouters for outstanding service to boyhood, includes Dr. E. E. Church, chairman, assisted by Henry Price, Dr. Davis and Jackson. The awards will be made at the annual meeting.

It was also decided to resume publication January 1 of monthly bulletins of the council, which were suspended during the war because of the paper shortage.

Two 17-Year-Old Youths Enlist in Navy

The navy recruiting office Wednesday reported that two 17-year-old youths of the Cumberland area have been accepted for naval service. They are:

Russell Stanley Ashenfelter, son of Mrs. Ethel M. Ashenfelter, Wiley Ford, W. Va., whose enlistment was announced in Baltimore yesterday and Paul Edward Lynch, Route 1, Frostburg, son of Mrs. Mary S. Lynch, who was accepted Tuesday. Both enlisted for two years.

HARTELL IS NAMED HEAD OF B. AND O. MACHINISTS LODGE

Frank W. Hartell was re-elected president of Lodge No. 212, International Association of Machinists, AFL, at a meeting of the lodge held Monday at 7:30 o'clock in Odd Fellows hall, Virginia avenue.

Also elected to serve during 1946 in the lodge representing some 475 Baltimore and Ohio Railroad machinists here are:

Alex Shaner, re-elected vice president; C. W. Koser, re-elected recording secretary; J. R. Baker, re-elected financial secretary, and Carl H. Koerner, re-elected treasurer.

Koser will begin his fourteenth year as recording secretary in January.

Other officers selected were John Barkman, conductor; L. L. Reynolds, inside sentinel, and C. E. Hardy, trustee.

Robert Goldfine Relates Experiences Last April when American and Russian Troops Formed Juncture at Elbe River

due to shortage of film, Goldfine quit trying to actually take pictures but would just hold up his camera, go "click" and smile and nod at the Russians.

As the party warmed up, much sentiment was expressed by soldiers of both armies. The Russians tacked up a picture of Stalin in the grove where the celebration was taking place, also a smaller one of Roosevelt. Russian posters appeared showing stalwart Soviet and American soldiers gripping hands as they trod on the Facist swastika. Bottles were in evidence everywhere.

In the midst of the celebration two Russian officrs were summarily shot for some infraction or other, proving that Soviet discipline still existed, celebration or no celebration. Other Russians fired off captured pieces of German ordinance much to their own delight.

Russians Liked Wristwatches

One burly Russian, who had a smattering of English, went about calling everybody "my dear." It was reported and one American who asked to purchase an insignia from another Russian was given a thundering tirade on the evils of capitalism.

Goldfine noted that the Russian soldiers showed an almost childish interest in American ordnance and in American personal effects—especially wristwatches.

"They thought wristwatches were something special," Goldfine said. "Their own equipment certainly had variety. I never saw so many different uniforms. They wore most anything. They were much impressed by the fact that we all wore identical outfits."

Once the initial get-to-gether was over and zones of occupation were set up, fraternization between the enlisted men ceased but officers of both armies continued to fete each other and express the "warmest friendship."

Asked what he thought of the Russians after getting to know them, Goldfine said "Well, when we met them we admired them tremendously and we were ready to like them. Later we actually didn't get along so good".

Goldfine hastened to add that one of the troubles was the fact that zones of occupation were so closely drawn with Americans unable to go where they wanted to. In some cases Americans had to take long detours simply because a short cut happened to go through a Soviet zone.

"Then too, the language barrier was a big one," Goldfine said. "Somebody in the crowd generally knew a little French or German but practically nobody knew Russian and Russian was all the Russians knew."

Impressed by Officers

Goldfine was impressed by the young officers of the Soviet army that he saw.

"Every one of them came up through the ranks," he said. "And all of them were very young — even the big brass."

To say that they are rugged would be putting it mildly, the photographer said. They all seem to have great gusto and are essentially men of action, he added.

Another experience during his tour of duty that greatly impressed Goldfine, was his encounter with a young Pole who had been miraculously saved from the gas chamber in a concentration camp after actually entering it.

The Pole was fourteen years old when imprisoned and seventeen when liberated. Shortly before the liberation, he was conducted, with a large group of other prisoners, to what purported to be a shower room.

Each prisoner was given soap and they were told by the guards that they were to have a nice, clean bath. Then they were herded into the so-called shower room which was actually the gas chamber although the young man was not aware of it at the time. Older prisoners who did know about it behaved in a casual manner.

The group was inside the "shower" and the doors closed when a guard appeared and summoned part of the group from the chamber.

Snatched from Death's Door

It was announced that 200 able-bodied men were needed immediately to repair a stretch of railroad that had been bombed by American bombers.

Later, the young Pole learned that he had been literally snatched from death's door.

The curious shower room, a classic example of Nazi devilish ingenuity and efficiency, first showered the naked prisoners to open up their pores thus making them more receptive to the poisonous fumes released almost immediately after the water was turned off.

After the gas had accomplished its mission, the floor of the shower room yawned open and the bodies dropped into cars directly beneath which took the remains to the crematorium by rail.

Goldfine defined Europe's war devastated areas, which includes most of Germany and part of France, as "stagnant."

"Everything is destroyed and nothing new is being made," is the way he expressed it. "The people have nothing."

Goldfine did not attempt to say what this condition will eventually lead to if not corrected soon.

—Photos by Robert Goldfine

HISTORIC PARTY—According to Photographer Robert Goldfine the party given by the Russians and Americans following their historic meeting on the Elbe river would have made the wildest American Legion convention look like a quilting party in comparison. As the top picture above reveals, hard drinking was the order of the day. The banner proclaims "our greetings to the brave troops of the First Amerikan army." The large picture is of Stalin, the small one of Roosevelt. The next picture shows American and Russian officers dancing with Russian female military police who were with the various Russian front line units when the meeting took place. The bottom picture shows an American officer, who could speak Russian, answering some of the hundreds of questions of the Soviet soldiers asked. While the party was boisterous, Soviet discipline did not relax a second, Goldfine said. Two Soviet officers were summarily shot during the celebration of an infraction of regulations.

TWO FLINTSTONE WOMEN ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Flintstone women were admitted to Allegany hospital and two others were treated early last evening for injuries suffered when the car in which they were riding ran off the road on Route 40 at the West end of Flintstone and cashed against a telephone pole.

Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Marion Naill, 20, for treatment of a compound fracture of the nose. Attaches reported her condition was "good." She also suffered minor lacerations, attaches said.

Treated in the hospital was Thomas W. Naill, 54, Flintstone, who told attaches he was driving when the car struck the pole. He was treated for small lacerations on the third and fourth fingers of the right hand and cuts above the eye and under the chin.

Trooper Blair J. Buckel, who investigated, said Naill's son, James, 21, was treated for a cut above the left eye while a daughter, Virginia, about 13, escaped injury.

Trooper Buckle said the road was slippery when the car left the road and ran against the pole as the five persons were riding toward Flintstone in a 1934 Plymouth coupe.

Fertilizer Control To Be Discussed At Farm Meeting

Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Pennsylvania farmers, leaders in agronomy, research and fertilizer control, will meet for their first post war discussion of fertilizer problems at a regional conference sponsored by the American Plant Food Council at the Lord Baltimore hotel, Baltimore, Tuesday, December 11, Harry B. Caldwell, secretary-treasurer, announced today.

W. T. Wright, vice president of the P. S. Royster Guano Company, Norfolk, Va., will preside. Rep. Stephen Pace (D-Ga.), a member of the House Agriculture Committee, will speak on "Security for the Farmers."

"Fertilizer needs, economical usage and the need for uniformity in fertilizer recommendations and control laws will be discussed," Caldwell said. "Farmers and their leaders are vitally concerned with these problems, solutions of which are paramount in our post-war agriculture."

Three Births Reported

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Clark, Route 2, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial hospital early yesterday morning.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Slough, Paw Paw, W. Va., in Memorial hospital last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, 604 Quebec avenue, announce the birth of a son in Allegany hospital last evening at 9:57 o'clock.

Actress Plans Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6 (AP)—Rita Hayworth said today she would divorce Orson Welles after two years of married life. The actress added they would make a joint statement as soon as Welles arrived here.

Great Air-Sea

Mills, which reported seeing an explosion in the air and what appeared to be an airplane spin downward into the sea. The time was 7:50 p. m. yesterday, and the location at sea off New Smyrna beach, the passing ship reported. Dozens of planes and surface craft combed the area today but found no wreckage.

How all five planes could vanish in one swoop, with none able to send out a last-second SOS event in the event of a five-way crash, was an enigma still to be solved.

DEATHS

A. F. and A. M., with John B. Dodd, worshipful master; Burland Deboit, senior warden; Herman J. Miller, junior warden; Harry B. Simpson, chaplain, and Samuel G. Meyers, senior deacon.

Pallbearers, members of Potomac lodge, were D. G. Hanarote, John F. Ehrbar, Robert Ehrbar, Samuel G. Meyers and Herman J. Miller.

MRS. ANDREWS RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Daisy Mae Andrews, 63, widow of Matthew Andrews, who died Monday afternoon at her home, 467 Baltimore avenue, were conducted yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Hafer funeral home.

The Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of First Methodist church, officiated and interment was in Rose Hill cmetery.

Pallbearers were Elmer Groves, Ersal Shewbridge, Allan VanMeter, Jr., Buddy Myers, Harry Reiber and H. A. Smith.

NORMAN YODER RITES

Funeral services for Norman S. Yoder, 70, Pinto, one of the founders of Pinto Mennonite church, who died Monday evening in Allegany hospital, were conducted yesterday morning.

The Rev. C. M. Helmick, pastor of Pinto Mennonite church, officiated at services at the home.

Bishop A. J. Metzler, Scottdale, Pa., officiated at the rites in Pinto Mennonite church at 11 o'clock, and was assisted by Bishop Roy Otto, Springs, Pa.

Pallbearers, grandsons of Mr. Yoder, were Paul Livengood, Calvin Dayton, David Dayton, John Barton, John Yoder and Robert Johnson.

Palestine Should

abolish this White Paper as soon as it came to power and would establish a Jewish state in Palestine.

"Due to Jewish effort, sacrifices and hard labor, Palestine is booming and all other religions, Mohammedans and Christians, are benefitting from Jewish contributions.

"The doors of Palestine are closed tight. Fifty thousand troops, special police and parts of the British navy are guarding the shores of the Mediterranean so the Jews cannot smuggle into the Holy Land.

"The Palestine Jews have declared that the saving of Jewish lives from the concentration camps of Europe is dearer to them than their own lives. Their brothers, sisters, parents and relatives in Europe have been exterminated by the Nazis in gas chambers and death camps, so they are embittered and would like to save the remnants, who are sick, hungry, cold and living under unbelievable conditions in camps. Thirty thousand died in the last two or three months and thousands more will meet the same end if they cannot be saved."

Baltimore Firm Names Walsh To Help Adjust Taxation Schedules

The Baltimore Transit Company has named William C. Walsh, former attorney general, to work with its staff of lawyers in the adjustment of the utility's taxation schedules under the proposed switch from trolleys to buses on part of its system.

Walsh is a member of the firm of Miles, Walsh, O'Brien and Morris. The transit company also named to work with its law staff Harry N. Baetjer, of the law firm of Venable, Baetjer and Howard.

B'nai B'rith Lodge Will Hold Sabbath Services Tonight

Sabbath services of Western Maryland Lodge, No. 1507, B'nai B'rith, will be held at 7:15 o'clock tonight at Beth Jacob synagogue.

Moe Sacks will give the service, Morris Ceitlin will recite the Kaddish and Alex Green will deliver the sermon. His subject will be the "Significance of Chunacah," the Jewish "Feast of Candles."

Patterson Is Named To State Committee

J. Milton Patterson, state director of public welfare with headquarters in Baltimore, has been named to head the statewide committee on youth services by Gov. O'Conor. A former resident of Cumberland, Patterson succeeds Joseph Regan, former director of the department of correction and now chairman of the state tax commission.

The committee on youth services was created as a co-ordinating body for work in the field of juvenile delinquency.

Three Persons Are Treated in Hospitals After Accidents

Mrs. Mildred Furlow, 26, Route 1, this city, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for a fracture of the left arm. Attaches said Mrs. Furlow reported she was injured when she slipped and fell on a concrete walk.

Eugene Birmingham, 43, 217 Paca street, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday at 11 a. m. after his right thumb nail was torn off. The Queen City Brewing Company employe said his thumb was caught in some machinery.

Mrs. Pauline Frost, 53, wife of Charles Frost, Route 2, was treated in Allegany hospital Wednesday evening for a possible fracture of the left arm. Attaches said Mrs. Frost told them she was injured when she fell at her home.

William Hunt, 12, 21 Fifth street, was released from Memorial hospital yesterday. The local boy was admitted Wednesday evening after he fell at a local drug store.

Educational Certificate Exams To Be Given Here

Examinations for a Maryland certificate which is the legal equivalent to a high school diploma will be held the second Friday and Saturday of January in the Allegany county education building, according to Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, director of instruction in the state department of education.

The certificate will be accepted as meeting state requirements of a high school education for admission to professional and vocational studies. Applications should be submitted by December 15.

These examinations are offered to servicemen and veterans the second Friday and Saturday of each month.

Sentenced to Death

LAUREL, Miss., Dec. 6 (AP)—A 30-year-old negro, Willie McGee, was convicted tonight on a charge of raping a white woman. He was sentenced to die in Mississippi's electric chair January 7.

Field Executive To Be Employed By Scout Council

The executive board of Potomac council, Boy Scouts of America, decided at a meeting last night to hire a second paid executive on the council staff to act as a field executive, according to Kenneth E. Jackson, executive director.

The meeting was held at 8 p. m. at the home of Dr. Frank U. Davis, 24 Washington street, president of the council.

A committee was named to select the field executive, whose duties will include helping to promote "Cubbing" and to assist in field service in the Cumberland district of the council. The selection committee includes Dr. Arthur Hawkins, Floyd Davis, Dr. Davis and Jackson.

It was alos decided to hold the annual meeting in the form of a Scouters' conference or institute, with afternoon and evening sessions and a dinner. The affair, tentatively scheduled for the middle of January, will be in charge of the camping and activities committee, headed by Floyd Davis.

Victory D. Heisey was named chairman of a nominating committee to select council officers for the coming year. Heisey will be assisted by Julian Patrick and Arthur Weber. The election will be held at the annual meeting in January.

Those named to the Silver Beaver committee, which will select one or two Scouters for the national award given to Scouters for outstanding service to boyhood, includes Dr. E. E. Church, chairman, assisted by Henry Price, Dr. Davis and Jackson. The awards will be made at the annual meeting.

It was also decided to resume publication January 1 of monthly bulletins of the council, which were suspended during the war because of the paper shortage.

William Meanyhan Is Discharged

By CATHERINE O'ROURKE

MT. SAVAGE, Dec. 6—Pfc. William Meanyhan, son of Mrs. John Meanyhan, received his honorable discharge from the army, November 30, at Camp Meade, after thirty-seven months of service.

He entered the armed forces October 10, 1942, and was sent overseas in June of the following year. He has never received a furlough.

Pfc. Meanyhan received his basic training at McClellan field, Cal. In the twenty-nine months he spent overseas he participated in the campaigns of Naples, Foggia, Rome and Arno. He visited the Isle of Capri and made a trip through the Vatican where he received the apostolic blessing from the Pope.

He wears the Good Conduct Medal, European, African-Middle Eastern service ribbons, the American service ribbon and the Victory ribbon.

Serves at Manila

T-5 Elwood R. Kirby, son of Mrs. Bertha Kirby, is serving with the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth quartermasters laundry company, Manila, as a laundry machine operator.

Cpl. Kirby arrived overseas in May, 1943, at Liverpool, England, and served in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany with the Thirtieth division. In the battle of the Bulge, his division was withdrawn to defend Leige, Belgium, where the fighting was especially intense and he was wounded by machine-gun fire.

He wears the Purple Heart, Combat Infantryman's Badge, Good Conduct ribbon, European theater ribbon with three campaign stars, and the Asiatic-Pacific theater ribbon.

Prior to his entrance into the armed forces, Cpl. Kirby was employed by the Maryland foundry. He is a graduate of Mt. Savage high school.

Ringler on Way Home

Cpl. James W. Ringler, husband of Mrs. Betty E. Ringler, Mt. Savage, is on his way home according to a news release received from the office of commander service force, United States Pacific Fleet.

Cpl. Ringler is one of over 2,000 high-point army veterans whom the "Magic Carpet" is bringing back to the states aboard the U.S.S. Crockett.

The U.S.S. Crockett — one of more than 250 carriers, battleships, cruisers, and attack transports in the navy's famed "Magic Carpet" fleet — left Okinawa, Nov. 23 and is scheduled to arrive in Seattle, Wash., about Saturday of this week.

Troops will go directly to the separation centers nearest their homes to complete the formalities of obtaining their discharges before returning to civilian life.

Mt. Savage Briefs

A meeting of the Mt. Savage Parent-Teacher Association will be held tomorrow (Thursday) at 7:30 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

A party for the benefit of St. Patrick's Catholic church will be held Friday at 8:30 p. m. in the parish hall.

FORTY-FIVE COUNTY CHILDREN ATTEND LOCAL EAR CLINIC

Forty-five Allegany county children, mostly of pre-school or elementary school age, attended an ear clinic held Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. at headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Bedford street.

Health officials reported that sixteen new cases were handled and that radium treatments were given to nine children.

The clinic was in charge of Dr. M. L. Breitstein, a member of the staff of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, who has been conducting ear clinics here for the past four years.

Dr. Breitstein was assisted by his wife, who gave audiometer tests for degree of deafness, and by city public health nurses, including Miss Marion Weber, supervisor of public health nurses of the county health department; Miss Grace Hardman and Miss Anna Hardy.

The clinic was sponsored by the county health repartment, the county board of education, and the American Legion.

Dr. and Mrs. Breitstein conducted an ear clinic for Garrett county children in Oakland Tuesday, attended by approximately twenty-seven children.

Fire Destroys Two Hagerstown Stores

HAGESTOWN, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—A four-hour fire destroyed two stores on West Washington street today at an estimated damage of $250,000 to $300,000.

The blaze, which Fire Chief Max Hoover said started in the Glick Brothers shoe store, spread to the adjoining McCrory's five and ten cent store, where an unusually large amount of Christmas merchandise had been stored.

Flames spread to the roof of the Grant department store and water damaged some stock in the basement. Three establishments of the upper floors of the McCrory building also were burned. They were the Friendly Insurance Company office, Gale beauty salon and Washington county Boy Scout headquarters.

Five fire companies from Hagerstown and companies from Funkstown and Williamsport fought the stubborn blaze, which was brought under control soon after 4 a. m.

Hoover said an unidentified person saw smoke seeping under the front door of the shoe store and turned in an alarm. Dense smoke hindered the firemen.

Concrete Progress

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Argentaina's consumption of cement, which averaged 700,000 tons annually in the 10 prewar years, will set a new record this year. Preliminary reports show 1,254,000 tons, despite a shortage of fuel for cement factories and a shortage of transport for taking it to market.

Sugar Rations Will Be Unchanged but OPA Is Expecting Shortage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Individual sugar rations will continue to be five pounds in four months from January through April but housewives may find it harder to get sugar in January and February, OPA announced today.

With validation of a new sugar stamp, Number 39, on January 1, OPA expects a shortage which will be most noticeable on the east coast.

Sugar allotments to industrial users generally will be at the same levels for the first quarter of 1946 as at present, the OPA statement said.

The only exception will be for such products as jams, jellies, marmalades and fruit butters. OPA said an adjustment applicable to some producers of these products now is being prepared and will be announced shortly.

Fire Destroys Two Hagerstown Stores

HAGESTOWN, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—A four-hour fire destroyed two stores on West Washington street today at an estimated damage of $250,000 to $300,000.

The blaze, which Fire Chief Max Hoover said started in the Glick Brothers shoe store, spread to the adjoining McCrory's five and ten cent store, where an unusually large amount of Christmas merchandise had been stored.

Flames spread to the roof of the Grant department store and water damaged some stock in the basement. Three establishments of the upper floors of the McCrory building also were burned. They were the Friendly Insurance Company office, Gale beauty salon and Washington county Boy Scout headquarters.

Five fire companies from Hagerstown and companies from Funkstown and Williamsport fought the stubborn blaze, which was brought under control soon after 4 a. m.

Hoover said an unidentified person saw smoke seeping under the front door of the shoe store and turned in an alarm. Dense smoke hindered the firemen.

Concrete Progress

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Argentaina's consumption of cement, which averaged 700,000 tons annually in the 10 prewar years, will set a new record this year. Preliminary reports show 1,254,000 tons, despite a shortage of fuel for cement factories and a shortage of transport for taking it to market.

Sugar Rations Will Be Unchanged but OPA Is Expecting Shortage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Individual sugar rations will continue to be five pounds in four months from January through April but housewives may find it harder to get sugar in January and February, OPA announced today.

With validation of a new sugar stamp, Number 39, on January 1, OPA expects a shortage which will be most noticeable on the east coast.

Sugar allotments to industrial users generally will be at the same levels for the first quarter of 1946 as at present, the OPA statement said.

The only exception will be for such products as jams, jellies, marmalades and fruit butters. OPA said an adjustment applicable to some producers of these products now is being prepared and will be announced shortly.

Navy Deserter's Disguise Fails

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—The arrest of a navy deserter who had dyed his hair, grown a mustache and so changed his appearance that not even neighbors or friends recognized him was reported today by Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the Baltimore Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The man, Marion Paris Sutphin, was apprehended at a farm house near Harwood, Anne Arundel county, by an FBI agent and a county police officer, Hallford said.

When drafted April 10, 1943, Sutphin was 18, single, and a blonde weighing about 140 pounds. Hallford said he deserted his ship at Norfolk, Va., July 20, 1945, and returned to Harwood in civilian clothes as a married man with jet black hair and a newly-acquired mustache. He had gained twenty-six pounds and was four inches taller.

The FBI agent noticed a blondish tinge near Sutphin's scalp, and the man admitted dying his hair. He said he had been married for a year. Sutphin was turned over to navy officials at Annapolis.

Maryland and Virginia Governors Will Confer On Plan To Tax Truckers

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—A conference between Gov. Colgate W. Darden Jr., of Virginia, and Gov. O'Conor on the Virginia proposal to tax interstate truck operators' gross receipts will be held in Washington, December 15, the Maryland chief executive announced today.

He said a meeting of Maryland, Virginia and Delaware state officials would precede the governors' conference on that day.

The fact that Virginia officials agreed to discuss the tax measure before it became effective may point the way to a compromise between the states, Gov. O'Conor said adding that Maryland truckers operating in Virginia were strenuously objecting to the tax which, the governor said, would run into "sizable sums."

Where's That Fish?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Repetition of a strange five-year cycle of decline in red salmon in the Bering Sea area and a smaller run of pink salmon in the Southern Alaska area are given as reasons for the decreased pack this year, which is 232,800,000 pounds as against 246,655,000 in 1944, according to E. H. Bell, vice president of the American Can Company.

—The Hawaiian Islands are more than 2,000 miles from the American mainland.

Navy Abandons Plan To Anchor Flattops In Patuxent River

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—navy, after receiving protests from Maryland agencies and Gov. O'Conor, has abandoned its plan to anchor thirty-three of its flattops in the Patuxent river near Broomes island.

Governor O'Conor, in announcing receipt of the navy decision today said he had assurances from the Fifth naval district command that the project anchorage had been abandoned after O'Conor wrote to Navy Secretary Forrestal and other navy and army officials.

A letter from the Maryland Department of Tidewater Fisheries released today, summed up the state's objections to the navy plan, Gov. O'Conor said.

The department recited cases of damage to natural resources in the Patuxent due to the proximity, it said, of large navy bases already established to wartime measures.

Aviation Meeting Will Be Held Dec. 17

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—Edward R. Fenimore, director of the state aviation commission, said today the commission had invited Maryland and county officials to attend an airport discussion meeting scheduled for December 17 in Baltimore.

Letters of invitation mailed to county commissioners and mayors of towns of more than 1,000 population explained the meeting was called "for the purpose of disseminating the latest authentic information regarding the present status of airports and aviation facilities in Maryland."

State and federal legislation on airport development and the engineering aspects of airfield location and construction also will be considered, the commission's letter stated.

Fenimore said the state has less than thirty airports and described the majority as small, privately owned fields with a deficiency in proper facilities.

"Millions of dollars in federal funds will be made available to Maryland communities under the national airport plan in the next few years, and some matching state funds will be available also," he added.

MPs Capture Escaped German Prisoner of War

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—A German prisoner of war, Helmuth Eichhorn, who escaped today from Fort George G. Meade, was re-captured by two military policemen about 1 p. m. approximately two miles from the fort.

Fred Hallford, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the prisoner was wearing a stolen GI uniform pulled over his blue pajamas and red medical robe, both of which were marked plainly with "PW" on the back. Eichhorn had been released from an army psychiatric ward only last Tuesday, the agent added.

License with Liquor

Fire Destroys Three Buildings of Howard County Co-operative

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—A fire last night destroyed three buildings of the Howard county farmers co-operative and a $60,000 stock of seed while three Ellicott City fire companies were helpless to combat the flames because of a lack of water.

General Manager William S. Ledbetter, of the co-operative, estimated the loss at $90,000, adding that if it hadn't been for the heavy rain which extinguished sparks on other buildings, the entire plant would have been lost.

Be Not Judged

DARLINGTON, S. C., (AP)—State Circuit Judge Woodrow Lewis was tossed out of his own court. A visiting circuit judge, presiding during a slaying trial, ordered the room cleared of law officers, news men and spectators. Out went Lewis from his spectators' bench seat along with the rest of the crowd.

—Amber rubbed with silk is one of the simplest of laboratory experiments to produce electricity.

Officers Are Elected By Maryland Grange

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—Edward F. Holter, Middletown, was elected master of the Maryland State Grange today when the farm group concluded its seventy-third annual convention which had been in progress since Tuesday.

Holter, former grange secretary, succeeds T. Roy Brookes, Belair. Guy S. Meloy, Lanham, was re-elected treasurer and Herbert Snyder, Union Bridge, was chosen secretary.

Several hours before its adjournment, the convention adopted a number of resolutions, two of them calling for the extension of the emergency farm labor program through 1946 and opposing any government subsidies to agriculture.

Navy Abandons Plan To Anchor Flattops In Patuxent River

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—navy, after receiving protests from Maryland agencies and Gov. O'Conor, has abandoned its plan to anchor thirty-three of its flattops in the Patuxent river near Broomes island.

Governor O'Conor, in announcing receipt of the navy decision today said he had assurances from the Fifth naval district command that the project anchorage had been abandoned after O'Conor wrote to Navy Secretary Forrestal and other navy and army officials.

A letter from the Maryland Department of Tidewater Fisheries, released today, summed up the state's objections to the navy plan, Gov. O'Conor said.

The department recited cases of damage to natural resources in the Patuxent due to the proximity, it said, of large navy bases already established to wartime measures.

Aviation Meeting Will Be Held Dec. 17

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—Edward R. Fenimore, director of the state aviation commission, said today the commission had invited Maryland and county officials to attend an airport discussion meeting scheduled for December 17 in Baltimore.

Letters of invitation mailed to county commissioners and mayors of towns of more than 1,000 population explained the meeting was called "for the purpose of disseminating the latest authentic information regarding the present status of airports and aviation facilities in Maryland."

State and federal legislation on airport development and the engineering aspects of airfield location and construction also will be considered, the commission's letter stated.

Fenimore said the state has less than thirty airports and described the majority as small, privately owned fields with a deficiency in proper facilities.

"Millions of dollars in federal funds will be made available to Maryland communities under the national airport plan in the next few years, and some matching state funds will be available also," he added.

MPs Capture Escaped German Prisoner of War

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—A German prisoner of war, Helmuth Eichhorn, who escaped today from Fort George G. Meade, was re-captured by two military policemen about 1 p. m. approximately two miles from the fort.

Fred Hallford, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the prisoner was wearing a stolen GI uniform pulled over his blue pajamas and red medical robe, both of which were marked plainly with "PW" on the back. Eichhorn had been released from an army psychiatric ward only last Tuesday, the agent added.

License with Liquor

Fire Destroys Three Buildings of Howard County Co-operative

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—A fire last night destroyed three buildings of the Howard county farmers co-operative and a $60,000 stock of seed while three Ellicott City fire companies were helpless to combat the flames because of a lack of water.

General Manager William S. Ledbetter, of the co-operative, estimated the loss at $90,000, adding that if it hadn't been for the heavy rain which extinguished sparks on other buildings, the entire plant would have been lost.

Be Not Judged

DARLINGTON, S. C., (AP)—State Circuit Judge Woodrow Lewis was tossed out of his own court. A visiting circuit judge, presiding during a slaying trial, ordered the room cleared of law officers, news men and spectators. Out went Lewis from his spectators' bench seat along with the rest of the crowd.

Officers Are Elected By Maryland Grange

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 6 (AP)—Edward F. Holter, Middletown, was elected master of the Maryland State Grange today when the farm group concluded its seventy-third annual convention which had been in progress since Tuesday.

Holter, former grange secretary, succeeds T. Roy Brookes, Belair. Guy S. Meloy, Lanham, was re-elected treasurer and Herbert Snyder, Union Bridge, was chosen secretary.

Several hours before its adjournment, the convention adopted a number of resolutions, two of them calling for the extension of the emergency farm labor program through 1946 and opposing any government subsidies to agriculture.

Indian Speaks Her Piece about GI's Foreign Brides

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There's been a good deal of piece-speaking in your column by American girls who are peeved over our GIs marrying foreign brides, and the foreign brides replying in kind.

I'd like to speak my piece, and feel no one has a better right, as I'm just about as American as they come, my great grandfather being a full-blooded Shoshone chief. My mother's family had a great deal of Arapahoe blood. We kids used to argue whether we were three-fourths full-blooded Indians or perhaps only one-eighth American. We look like Indians and are proud of it.

We were all sent to an American school, and I have had two years in an eastern college. The principle argument on the part of the foreign girl is that if European woman had not migrated to this country with their husbands, it would still be in possession of the Indians.

Well, so what? Considering the mess the entire world is in, at present, maybe it would have been a better arrangement if my ancestors still continued to hunt the buffalo, the antelope, the elk, and smoked the peace pipe after they'd done a little fighting with the neighboring tribe. At least, it's safe to say, they would not have thought up anything as menacing to civilization as the atomic bomb, and other murderous little gadgets with which we've wiped out whole cities.

If there's anything in the old saw that turn-about is fair play, Europeans who poured in from across the Atlantic and took this fair land from the Indians, may now be faced with the same procedure. War casualties have greatly reduced the male population of these United states. As an Indian girl I'm just sitting on the sidelines and waiting to see what's going to happen. Let me say, as an Indian chief's great-granddaughter I'm enjoying the fight going on in your column immensely.

LONE STAR.

This Indian maid—thank goodness, she doesn't sign herself "Winona," name beloved of fortune-tellers and trance mediums—is probably "spoofing," as our English sisters call joshing.

Foreign women crossing the ocean, and contributing to this country their skills and thrift of their homelands, don't alarm me as much as the mortality of our native-born men, owing to the two wars they've had to fight in one generation. As President Truman has said, another war would end civilization.

Get complete protection without red tape ... from a stock insurance company. Low rates with no assessments! No membership fees!

Under the new Maryland Auto Safety Responsibility Law, effective January 1, 1946, you must be prepared to pay for any injury you cause or risk losing your right to drive.

This new automobile law was enacted to protect the public from irresponsible drivers. Practically speaking, it requires every uninsured driver to be able to pay for damages he causes or lose his right to drive. Security can be demanded up to $11,000 in case of injury, death and property damage. If you do not carry adequate insurance and are unable to give security, your right to drive will be cancelled. Your future may be "mortgaged."

Allstate Insurance protects you against the poor judgment of other drivers and pedestrians. It guards your rights. Thousands of motorists in all states can tell you how promptly and fairly Allstate settles claims. Allstate Insurance Company, organized by Sears, Roebuck and Co., operates under strict regulations and constant supervision by insurance authorities—protection you can depend on.

Mr. Motorist:
CAN YOU SATISFY THE LAW?

INSURE TODAY... THE ALLSTATE WAY

Under the new Maryland Auto Safety Responsibility Law, effective January 1, 1946, you must be prepared to pay for any injury you cause or risk losing your right to drive.

This new automobile law was enacted to protect the public from irresponsible drivers. Practically speaking, it requires every uninsured driver to be able to pay for damages he causes or lose his right to drive. Security can be demanded up to $11,000 in case of injury, death and property damage. If you do not carry adequate insurance and are unable to give security, your right to drive will be cancelled. Your future may be "mortgaged."

Allstate Insurance protects you against the poor judgment of other drivers and pedestrians. It guards your rights. Thousands of motorists in all states can tell you how promptly and fairly Allstate settles claims. Allstate Insurance Company, organized by Sears, Roebuck and Co., operates under strict regulations and constant supervision by insurance authorities—protection you can depend on.

Allstate Insurance is sold without red tape and needless costs. This is one reason why you save money with Allstate. Select the coverage you need—pay in cash or on easy payments as you like—that's all.

Visit the Allstate Agent at your local Sears Store. If no Sears Store is near you, use coupon below. See how economically Allstate protects you.

Two Damage Suits Reach Settlement Without Hearing

A $500 damage suit brought in circuit court by Mrs. Rose McMahon, Cumberland, whose son, Robert, was injured in a traffic accident, against Kenneth G. Morgan, Klondyke, a member of the house of delegates, was settled out of court for $350 and interest, it was announced Wednesday.

William H. Geppert filed suit for Mrs. McMahon, charging negligence after the child was struck July 22 by a car operated by Morgan on North Centre street.

Settlement was made out of court of a $1500 damage suit of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Davis, parents of James David Davis, against Edgar A. Alt. The parents, represented by Morgan C. Harris, will receive $108.30 with cost and interest amounting to $12.50.

The boy was struck October 9 by Alt's car at Cecelia street and Maryland avenue. An another suit filed by the parents against Alt, in which $1,000 damages were asked, was settled for $50 and interest and costs amounting to $12.50.

Mrs. Virginia Smith Schmutz, city, filed suit for partial divorce from Paul Schmutz.

Chief Judge William A. Huster granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Martha V. Shearer, 22, Springdale street, from Frederick C. Shearer. She was given the custody of their children, 4, 3 and 2. Shearer was ordered to pay $18 a week for their support.

Curtis B. Haines filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Gladys L. Haines. He asks custody of their two children, both 12.

Allen Green filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Juanita Virginia Green.

Joseph Martinal, Baltimore, who was sentenced last month in Baltimore city court to seven years in prison on a charge of robbery with a deadly weapon, petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus against Dr. J. LeRoy Wright, warden of the house of correction, to gain his release.

Martinal will plead his own case December 11 before Judge Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Couple Face Prosecution Here on Theft Charge

A couple who were arrested in Fairmont, W. Va., Wednesday afternoon on a charge of stealing approximately $80 worth of clothing and household goods from a Cumberland home November 12, will be returned here by Sheriff David M. Steele within a day or two for prosecution, according to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

Harris said Sheriff Steele will not go to Fairmont until the roads are safe for travel.

The couple, Philip Patrick and his wife, Elaine, were boarding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morehead, 233 North Mechanic street for some time prior to November 12, Harris said. On that day they left and took with them fourteen shirts, a pair of shoes, a pair of oxfords, a bedspread, quilt, blankets, sheets and towels, hose, underwear and ties, the state's attorney added.

Thompson Is Re-elected District Scout Head

Miles G. Thompson was re-elected chairman of Cumberland district, Potomac council, Boy Scouts of America, at a Scouter's smoker held Tuesday at St. Mary's parish hall, Oldtown road, according to Kenneth E. Jackson, executive director.

Victor D. Heisey was named district vice chairman and James S. Thayer was elected district commissioner at the smoker, held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the district.

Lewyn C. Davis, principal of Central high school, Lonaconing, was the guest speaker. Thompson presided at the business meeting, and Jackson acted as master of ceremonies during an entertainment program, which included group singing led by A. Florian Wilson, with Arthur Bright at the piano. Stunts and games were directed by Thayer, while George Sellers was in charge of refreshments.

A meeting of the executive board of Potomac council will be held at 8 p. m. today at the home of Dr Frank U. Davis, 22 Washington street.

OPA Announces Boost In Newsprint Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—The OPA today announced an increase of $6 a ton in newsprint ceiling prices.

While the increase is effective December 11, OPA said the industry generally would not apply it until January 1, since most newsprint is sold on a yearly contract basis, with quarterly adjustments.

The agency said that while the purpose of the increase is to assure prices that are "generally fair and equitable," it also "should operate to check further decreases in United States newsprint production, which has been gradually declining for some years."

The higher prices apply to all newsprint sold in this county, including imports, which represent three-fourths of total consumption.

Canadian Celanese Declares Dividend

Directors of Canadian Celanese Ltd. (Tuesday) declared a dividend of twenty-five cents per share on the common stock in respect of the fourth quarter of 1945, and in addition an extra dividend of twenty-five cents per share, both payable December 31, 1945, to stockholders of record December 14.

Directors also declared a dividend on the preferred stock $1.75 series of 43¾ cents per share which shall be deemed to be for the three months period October 1, 1945, to December 31, 1945. This dividend is payable December 31, 1945, to stockholders of record December 14.

The company announced that March 15, 1946, has been fixed as the date on which interest in respect of the year 1945 will be paid to the holders of the income funding rights of record at the close of business on December 31, 1945.

Man Escapes Injury When Gasoline Ignites

David Langley, 13 Laing avenue, escaped injury early Wednesday evening when fumes from the gasoline he was using to clean paint brushes ignited in the kitchen of his home.

South Cumberland firemen, who were called to the home at 7:04 p. m. in answer to a call from Box 65, reported the fumes were ignited by a flame from the gas stove in the room. The room was slightly damaged, firemen said.

Wisconsin Quint Seeks Services Of Gus Frizzell

"Dutch" Dehnert Appeals to Caseys To Contact Lonaconing Player

Gustave "Gus" Frizzell, former basketball star of Central high school, Lonaconing, is being sought by the Sheboygan, Wis., Redskins, of the National Professional Basketball League, according to a postcard received yesterday by Stanley Freiwell, grand knight of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

The card, signed by Henry "Dutch" Dehnert, coach of the Wisconsin professional team, was worded as follows:

"I am trying to get in touch with Gregory Frizzell, who lives in Cumberland and before joining the United States Navy, he was a basketball player. I saw him play for Floyd Bennett Field Air Base while he was stationed there but lost all track of him. My name is Henry "Dutch" Dehnert and I used to play for the Original Celtics. At present I am coaching the Sheboygan Redskins and would appreciate having Gregory get in touch with me—to play for me."

Starred at Central in 1940

Checking the records it was found that a Gustave Frizzell played center for Central high school, Lonaconing, in 1939-1940, under coach Mel Henry, and it was assumed that he is the player Dehnert referred to. "Gus" is in the navy and played basketball with Floyd Bennett Field.

When contacted by telephone last evening, a sister of "Gus" Frizzell said that her brother landed in San Diego, Cal., last week and had advised his parents he was on his way to the Bainbridge, Md., Separation Center prior to getting his discharge from the navy. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Frizzell, 29 Jackson street, Lonaconing.

Coach Mel Henry, of Fort Hill high school, last night recalled that Frizzell played for Central when he was coach there in 1940. "He's about 6 feet 2 inches tall and he was a clever ball handler," Henry declared.

Henry also stated that he recommended Frizzell to Coach Cassell at American university, Washington, D. C. where the Central star played after being graduated with the 1940 class at the Lonaconing school. "Gus" was employed in Washington, D. C., and later played independent ball at the capital.

Remembers Good Times

Coach Dehnert's card to the K. of C., showed that the inventor of the "pivot play" in basketball had not forgotten his many visits to Cumberland as a member of the Celtics and Cleveland Rosenblums to play against Casey teams. "Dutch" and his mates were always royally entertained by the Knights during their visits to Cumberland.

Frizzell's parents promised to break the good news to "Gus" upon his arrival home.

Devore Will Accept Another Coaching Job Next Season

McKEESPORT, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Hugh Devore, coach of Notre Dame's football team this year, said tonight he plans to accept another head coaching assignment next year.

Here to address a banquet of the McKeesport Tiger Boosters Club, Devore said he had not yet decided which one of several "very good" offers to accept.

Frank W. Leahy, Irish prewar coach was recently discharged from the navy and is slated to return to South Bend soon to assume his former post, Devore explained.

"Notre Dame officials want me to stay and help Frank," the present mentor said, "but I don't see how I can turn down all these other offers."

Devore said he may leave Notre Dame at the end of this month or stay until spring.

A native of New Jersey, the 35-year-old coach was a star end for the Irish in 1931, 1932 and 1933. He returned to Notre Dame three years ago and became head coach this year. His team lost only to Army and Great Lakes this season.

Four Army Players Named on Collier's All-America Eleven

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—The 1945 All-America football team selected from Collier's magazine includes four players from the all-victorious Army squad and two from Alabama's Rose Bowl eleven, it was announced today.

It is the fifty-fifth annual compilation of a mythical eleven by the magazine which printed Walter Camp's selections from 1889 until his death in 1925. Grantland Rice has made Collier's selections since then, aided in recent years by an advisory board of football writers.

The team:

Vaughan Mancha, Alabama, center.

Warren Amling, Ohio State, guard.

John Green, Army, guard.

George Savitsky, Pennsylvania, tackle.

DeWitt Coulter, Army, tackle.

Richard Duden, Navy, end.

Hubert Bechtol, Texas, end.

Herman Wedemeyer, St. Mary's, quarterback.

Glenn Davis, Army, halfback.

Harry Gilmer, Alabama, halfback.

Felix Blanchard, Army, fullback.

Rutan Sets Pace In Miami Open

Michigan Honeymooner Posts 68 in Opening Round of Tourney

By WILBUR JENNINGS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Stocky Chick Rutan of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., who came to Miami on a honeymoon, tonight led the field of the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament with a two-under par 68.

The 34-year-old Rutan, who has never won a major tournament, paced the field of 220 golfers, largest number ever to participate in the event with his sub-par opening round.

Watched by his red-haired bride of six weeks, Rutan sank four birdies during the round which included eight one-put greens. He went out in 34 and came back in the same number of strokes.

Seven were bunched at 69. Back another stroke at 70 was little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the pre-tournament favorite.

Harold "Jug" McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., who hasn't won an open since the Salt Lake City event in 1944, blasted his ball into the wooden bleachers back of the eighteenth green to take a five on the hole. A par four would have given him a 68 to tie Rutan.

Others at 69 were Henry Picard, of Cleveland, O.; K. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of Little Rock, Ark., winner of the event in 1944; Toney Penna, of Dayton, O.; George Payton, of Newport News, Va., Fred Annon of Old Greenwich, Conn.; and Ben Yasko, of West Orange, N. J.

Tied with Hogan at 70 were Jim Ferrier of Chicago; Charles Sheperd, of Philadelphia, Pa.; and Steve Warga, of Mian.

Horse Loses Shoe, Catches in Tail, Finishes Sixth

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Don Chance, favored race horse in a featured handicap at Gulfstream Park, lost a shoe immediately after the start of the six-furlong event.

The steel plate spun backwards and caught in the horse's tail. With the novel tail-dressing slapping against him, Don Chance ran on—and finished sixth.

Detroit Club Releases Three Second Stringers

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today disposed of three second-string players from their 1945 world championship baseball club.

Zeb Eaton, pinch-hitting pitcher, was sent to Buffalo of the International league. Catcher Bob Gillespie and Hank Oana, the Hawaiian who was converted from an outfielder into a pitcher, went to Dallas of the Texas league. All three were outright sales.

Dallas also obtained Jim Hresko, who switched from the pitcher's mound to third base last season, from Buffalo.

17 Hunters Fined, Carried Loaded Weapons in Cars

29 Deer Killed on Fourth Day in Garrett; None Bagged in Allegany

Seventeen hunters have paid fines of $10 and costs each for having loaded guns in their cars since the deer season opened in Western Maryland on Monday morning, Joseph A. Minke, regional warden, reported last evening.

Two hunters were given suspended fines of $50 and instead fines of $10 and costs were imposed after they had admitted shooting illegal deer by mistake.

Minke stated that two other hunters posted bond for trial after they were charged with killing doe-deer, two were fined $20 and costs for hunting without proper licenses and another was fined $10 and costs for having his gun loaded with steel jackets.

29 Killed in Garrett

Twenty-nine deer were checked in at the Garrett county stations yesterday, boosting the kill to 234 for the first four days of the six-day season, which ends tomorrow at sundown.

"Hunting conditions were at their worst Wednesday and Thursday, Minke declared. "All Garrett hunting areas were covered with a heavy coat of sleet and only about one half of the hunters were out."

The regional warden said that many hunters staying at farms in the back woods still have their bucks in the barns and have not yet brought them out to be checked. Some of them may be subjected to a fine for failing to have their deer checked within twenty-four hours after they were killed, he added.

"Should the weather conditions improve over the weekend the kill for Garrett county will exceed by far any previous year," Minke predicted.

Allegany Draws Blank

Allegany county's three checking stations and Battie Mixon, district game warden, reported that no deer kills in Allegany county were checked yesterday. This is probably the worst record in the history of deer seasons in Allegany county. There were not many hunters out due to the inclement weather.

During the first three days of the season thirty-eight deer were reported killed in Allegany county—one less than 1944's six-day total.

Johnny Brown Wins Over Ossie Harris

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—Displaying a bare shade of superiority, Johnny (Deacon) Brown, 167, of Baltimore, won a split decision over Ossie (Bulldog) Harris, 165½, of Pittsburgh, in a 10-round middleweight main event tonight.

In the eight-round semi-final, Georgie Williams, 148, Baltimore, defeated Eddie Kane, 148, Washington, by an unanimous decision.

Charlie Chaney, 163, Baltimore, knocked out Earl Lumpkin, 158, Harrisburg, Pa., in the second stanza of their six-round affair.

Also by a technical knockout in the second of a six-round event, Jackie Williams, 157, Baltimore, scored over Charlie Marshall, 159, Baltimore.

Drake To Play Fresno In Raisin Bowl Game

FRESNO, Calif., Dec. 6. (AP)—It will be Drake university of Des Moines, Iowa, against the Fresno State college in the first annual Raisin Bowl football game in Fresno, January 1, Fresno announced today.

The announcement said Drake late yesterday gave approval for a squad of thirty-three Bulldogs to come to Fresno for the New Year's day tiff with the FSC Bulldogs. Drake's squad will arrive December 27.

Lefty Reitz Returns To Loyola College

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6. (AP)—Emil G. (Lefty) Reitz, who returned from the navy to his old position as director of athletics at Loyola college, said today he also would take over his prewar assignment as Greyhound basketball coach.

He succeeds Rudolph A. Doering, who has coached the Loyola quintet since Reitz left at the end of the 1943-44 season.

The Greyhounds play Gallaudet college in Washington tomorrow night.

Plan Bowl Game

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 6. (AP)—George Bugbee, sports editor of the Press-Scimitar, reported today efforts were being made to arrange for a New Year's day football game here in what would be called the Dixie bowl.

KELLY MAY LEAVE NAVY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Rep. Edward A. Kelly (D-Ill) disclosed today that his son, Bob, former football star at Notre Dame, is seeking to resign from the Naval Academy.

Rep. Kelly told a reporter that young Kelly will return to Notre Dame "right away" if the Academy releases him.

"Happy" Chandler's Powers Curbed by Minor Leagues

Chisox Sell Humphries; Pirates Seek St. Louis Stars; Leagues Seeking Higher Classification

By SID FEDER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues, which up to now have stayed out of Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler's fight with some of the major leaguers, rolled up their sleeves at their convention today and jumped into it with fists swinging.

Chandler appeared before the minor leaguers and pleaded against proposed legislation "offensive and obnoxious to me personally." His words had hardly ten minutes to cool off before the moguls voted legislation sharply curbing his powers over minor league ball, and from there they went on to an additional rebuff by refusing to amend their player bonus laws which Chandler has ruled "unfair and illegal."

Chisox Sell Humphries

By all odds, the minors' actions, coming on top of Chandler's speech and the rebuff he received yesterday when the postwar promotion program was taken away from direction by any office now in baseball, provided the explosives for a diamond day which also saw the Chicago White Sox sell right-hander Johnny Humphries to the Philadelphia Phillies in the first major league player deal of the week, and the approval of the International League, American Association and Pacific Coast League to climb from double-A to the new triple-A classification. The coast circuit's bid to jump all the way to major league status was tabled until tomorrow.

Along with these developments was the revival of a rumor that the Cleveland Indians may be sold, with Bing Crosby crooning his way in as owner. Developments on this angle may be heard at the joint major league meetings in Chicago next week.

Braves May Get Cooper

There were reports that the Boston Braves have the inside track for Catcher Walker Cooper if the St. Louis Cardinals decide to trade him; a whispered Jeff Heath-for-Sam Chapman outfielder swap between the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics, and a "pitch" by the Pittsburgh Pirates for either Infielder Jimmy Brown or Pitcher Harry Brecheen—or another left-hander—from the Cards.

The Heath-to-White Sox deal, reported so close an announcement was expected momentarily last night, hit a snag when the Tribe turned down Wally Moses or Guy Curtright in exchange.

In his speech Chandler pointed out that he has a seven-year contract as commissioner "and for seven years I intend to make decisions in baseball which you are not able to make yourself."

"I've found out you talk behind a fellow's back," he accused the minor league presidents and club owners. "I did not seek the position of commissioner of baseball. It was offered to me.

"You have resolutions before you that are offensive and obnoxious to me personally. If you don't pass them, that will be okay."

Approve Amendments

He stepped out and the minor leaguers went to work. One of the first things they did was to approve amendments to both the major-minor league agreement and the minor league law that no legislation or rule in either baseball category can be construed as "detrimental to baseball."

It was this clause in the law of baseball that enabled the late Commissioner K. M. Landis to wield the big stick of authority over the entire game.

The approval was by a 21 to 3 vote, with only the Texas League, Southern Association and South Atlantic (Sally) League voting against it. The Texas and Sally, incidentally, were advanced from Class A-1 and "B" to double-A and A status, respectively, during the session.

Bramham Favors Bonuses

The minor league bonus rules on the books now permit bonuses to players and managers in certain classifications only. After Chandler's claim that they were "illegal," amendments were drawn up to permit a bonus to a player in any classification. These were voted down today. Afterward, however, minor league czar, Judge W. G. Bramham said he would approve any bonus contract from Class AAA down to "D," but he would not amplify that statement.

The convention also approved the proposed new major-minor league agreement as drawn up by the minor league revision committee. It now goes to the majors next week. Its contents are still secret, but reports are it, too, contains stipulations that will take more power from the commissioner.

Grid Conference Will Be Formed

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — The News in a copyrighted story said tonight that athletic directors of a dozen or more prominent eastern universities and colleges will meet in New York next week to organize a second major eastern football conference.

The paper said "Every major football power in the east, excepting Army and Navy and the eight colleges linked in the Ivy circuit, will be welcomed into the new conference."

It added that the possible members totalled twenty-two, New York University, Fordham, Manhattan, Lafayette, Lehigh, Rutgers, Colgate, Syracuse, Penn State, Pittsburgh, West Virginia Carnegie Tech, Bucknell, Georgetown, Duquesne, Boston College, Holy Cross, Boston University, Temple, Villanova, Coast Guard, Academy and Kings Point.

Ray Morrison, Temple coach, advocated formation of a second eastern conference in a talk at Philadelphia last week. He declared tonight, that a meeting was "news to me."

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

Apparently only a minor portion of football followers, addicts, old grads and others understand just what a football schedule means.

For example, playing Army in these days means you haven't a chance to be even close. Playing Navy means you are likely to be beaten. Not always. But nearly always. That is as of today—and 1946. Arm and Navy had the two best teams in 1945 and they will have the two best teams in 1946.

But so far as any national ranking goes we've drawn a flock of complaints, especially from the Midwest, about the quality of many southern schedules.

"I recall some years back," one Midwestern writes, "when Bob Neyland at Tennessee took no chances of defeat. Neyland was a great coach and he had great teams. But he rarely played over three hard games a year, with many soft spots planted in between.

"In my opinion this has been true of Alabama this season. Everyone knows Frank Thomas is an exceptionally good coach and that Alabama is one of the best teams in the country. But there was no way to prove this by playing only three hard games—L.S.U., Tennessee and Georgia. I would like to have seen Alabama tested by Army, Navy, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma A. and M. or Michigan. That's why I don't think Alabama should have been rated over Navy and Indiana, or Oklahoma A. and M. After all a national ranking gets you nowhere while a Bowl game gets you from $30,000 to $100,000."

Stresses Bowl Complex

Alabama will tell you the Crimson Tide could get no stronger outside schedule. This is true. But many of their opponents, East and West, will also tell you they are not interested in southern teams that have so many football scholarships, and Bowl-developed teams.

I have the feeling that the Bowl complex has set southern football back in a schedule way. For example, two of my favorite southern teams are Clemson and Auburn, whose eleven go back 40 or 45 years. Once they begin winning, they are too often dropped from southern schedules. The reason—"too tough." Tennessee dropped Auburn after a close 7-0 margin in 1938 that almost kept Tennessee out of an Orange Bowl meeting with Oklahoma. Georgia Tech, I understand, has dropped Clemson after Clemson's late mop-up. The South has given Clemson and Auburn all the worst of it, and yet, traditionally they belong high up.

The various Bowls, apparently, are here to stay. But they have built up two armed, hostile camps. The Midwest, including the Big Ten plus Notre Dame, have no Bowl aspirations. Neither has the Ivy League, plus Army and Navy.

This leaves Bowl selections to the West Coast, the Southwest, the South and one or two stray eastern or northern teams, such as Boston College and Holy Cross.

From the South the teams willing to play a tough schedule and take a chance are Duke and Georgia Tech. Duke has been willing to face Army and Navy. Duke was unbeaten, outside of these two games. Georgia Tech has been willing to meet Navy and Notre Dame, always tough customers. And Duke and Georgia Tech also meet. The last time a strong Alabama team played Georgia and Georgia Tech, Alabama lost both games.

Duke and Georgia Tech play by all odds the hardest schedules in the South. Tulane is also willing to take a bigger gamble. The Southwest also sticks with its own, from Oklahoma to Texas, although Tulsa is willing to move away from its own home area. Tulsa played Indiana this last season.

But outside of Duke and Georgia Tech, no other southern team, including Alabama, played a schedule even close to Indiana's test with a menu that included Michigan, Northwestern, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, Tulsa, Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Purdue.

Bowl Games Unimportant

The South has turned out too many great football teams, too many leading football coaches and too many football stars, to permit the various Bowl collections to dominate its schedules and its play. The Bowls, taken in their stride, are all right as postseason fill-ins but completely unimportant contributions to any national ranking. The Bowls are the interludes between the end of a football season and the year on beyond.

But the Bowl games should not be used in making schedules to insure Bowl invitations, especially in the South which has contributed too much to football to give so much of its attention to any Bowls in its schedule arrangements. After all Duke and Georgia Tech are not the only good football teams in the South. The North and the Midwest will never get to see Gilmer and Mancha, two of the country's best. This is a problem the South and the Southwest had better think about.

Herber's Passes Loom as Awesome As Ruthian Homer

Redskins Regard Giants' Ace as "Dangerous Character"

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — Arnie Herber, 34-year-old passing master of New York's Giants, today loomed as almost as awesome a figure to Washington's Redskins as Babe Ruth once was to baseball rivals.

Herber and his pass-catching end Frank Liebel, were set out as the Giants' most dangerous characters in Sunday's game on which the Redskins' National League championship hopes will ride.

All week the Redskins have been forced to practice indoors because of bad weather. They haven't been able to work on a special defense for Herber's home run passes.

Herber throws the type of pass, high and far, that has been most effective against the Redskins for years.

He demonstrated last Sunday that his passing arm had lost none of its accuracy by pitching the Giants to a 28-21 victory over Philadelphia's Eagles in perhaps the most astounding upset of the season.

Clark Shaughnessy, Pittsburgh university coach and high on Washington's board of strategy, joined the Redskins today to help in final preparations for Sunday's show.

"Herber's touchdown passes can be as demoralizing as a Ruthian home run," he said.

The stopping job will be principally up to Les Dye, an end converted into a defensive halfback, and Bob Seymour.

But that may turn out to be qutie an afternoon's work for Liebel has caught ten touchdown passes, more than any other man in the league, including Green Bay's canny veteran, Don Hutson, with nine and Cleveland's rangy Jim Benton, with eight.

Terra Alta High Defeats Oakland

OAKLAND, Dec. 6—Terra Alta high school nosed out Oakland high school's floormen tonight in a low scoring contest at Terra Alta, W. Va., by the score of 18 to 15.

The West Virginians scored most of their points in the first period when they jumped away to a 12-4 lead. Oakland trailed at the half, 14-8, and at the close of the third quarter, 15-10. The Highlanders pulled up one point in the rear at 15-14 in the final stanza but was unable to catch the home team.

Kelly and Berchorf accounted for thirteen of the Terra Alta tallies while Bosley marked up eight points to pace the Oakland offensive. The lineups:

Bruce Is Victor Over Paw Paw's Quintet, 27-25

Westernport's Late Rally Decides Game; Price Tops Scorers

WESTERNPORT, Dec. 6—Bruce high school's basketball team came from behind tonight to eke out a 27 to 25 decision over the cagers of Paw Paw high school.

On the short end of a 21-17 count going into the final period, Coach Grindle's quintet hit the hoops for ten points while limiting the visitors to four to put the game on ice.

Bruce led at quarter time 6-5 but at the halfway mark the West Virginians held a 15 to 14 edge.

Richard Price paced the locals to victory with a total of fifteen points on five field goals and five free throws while Bob Robertson was Paw Paw's high scorer with five double-deckers and three foul goals for thirteen points.

Army Will Not Play Indiana's Hoosiers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today advised Senator Capehart (R-Ind) that it would be impossible for Army's football team to meet Indiana university in a proposed post-season victory loan game.

An aide in Capehart's office said the chief of staff explained that the Cadets could not engage in such a contest because of the rigorous season just completed and the need of time to prepare for mid-term examinations.

"He thought it was a good idea, though," said the aide, who added that "we might try to schedule Army and Indiana next season since both teams will have most of their star players back."

West Virginia Will Play Army Next Year On West Point Field

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley officially announced tonight that West Virginia University's Mountaineers would meet Army's great football team in 1946.

Other opponents include Virginia, Washington and Lee, Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio University, Pitt and Syracuse, Hawley said, with Temple another possibility.

The National champions will be played October 2 at West Point, Hawley said. When West Virginia last met Army in 1941, the Mountaineers were nosed out 7-6 on a long pass in the closing minutes.

The Washington and Lee game will be a resumption of a long series which suspended after 1942 when the Lexington, Va., school dropped football and Virginia replaced it as West Virginia's opponent at Charleston. The Cavaliers will make the trip to the state's capital city again next year.

The announced schedule includes only two home games—Washington and Lee and Syracuse.

"Dutch" Dehnert Appeals to Caseys To Contact Lonaconing Player

Gustave "Gus" Frizzell, former basketball star of Central high school, Lonaconing, is being sought by the Sheboygan, Wis., Redskins, of the National Professional Basketball League, according to a postcard received yesterday by Stanley Freiwell, grand knight of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

The card, signed by Henry "Dutch" Dehnert, coach of the Wisconsin professional team, was worded as follows:

"I am trying to get in touch with Gregory Frizzell, who lives in Cumberland and before joining the United States Navy, he was a basketball player. I saw him play for Floyd Bennett Field Air Base while he was stationed there but lost all track of him. My name is Henry "Dutch" Dehnert and I used to play for the Original Celtics. At present I am coaching the Sheboygan Redskins and would appreciate having Gregory get in touch with me—to play for me."

Starred at Central in 1940

Checking the records it was found that a Gustave Frizzell played center for Central high school, Lonaconing, in 1939-1940, under coach Mel Henry, and it was assumed that he is the player Dehnert referred to. "Gus" is in the navy and played basketball with Floyd Bennett Field.

When contacted by telephone last evening, a sister of "Gus" Frizzell said that her brother landed in San Diego, Cal., last week and had advised his parents he was on his way to the Bainbridge, Md., Separation Center prior to getting his discharge from the navy. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Frizzell, 29 Jackson street, Lonaconing.

Coach Mel Henry, of Fort Hill high school, last night recalled that Frizzell played for Central when he was coach there in 1940. "He's about 6 feet 2 inches tall and he was a clever ball handler," Henry declared.

Henry also stated that he recommended Frizzell to Coach Cassell at American university, Washington, D. C., where the Central star played after being graduated with the 1940 class at the Lonaconing school. "Gus" was employed in Washington, D. C., and later played independent ball at the capital.

Remembers Good Times

Coach Dehnert's card to the K. of C., showed that the inventor of the "pivot play" in basketball had not forgotten his many visits to Cumberland as a member of the Celtics and Cleveland Rosenbiums to play against Casey teams. "Dutch" and his mates were always royally entertained by the Knights during their visits to Cumberland.

Frizzell's parents promised to break the good news to "Gus" upon his arrival home.

Devore Will Accept Another Coaching Job Next Season

McKEESPORT, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Hugh Devore, coach of Notre Dame's football team this year, said tonight he plans to accept another head coaching assignment next year.

Here to address a banquet of the McKeesport Tiger Boosters Club, Devore said he had not yet decided which one of several "very good" offers to accept.

Frank W. Leahy, Irish prewar coach was recently discharged from the navy and is slated to return to South Bend soon to assume his former post, Devore explained.

"Notre Dame officials want me to stay and help Frank," the present mentor said, "but I don't see how I can turn down all these other offers."

Devore said he may leave Notre Dame at the end of this month or stay until spring.

A native of New Jersey, the 35-year-old coach was a star end for the Irish in 1931, 1932 and 1933. He returned to Notre Dame three years ago and became head coach this year. His team lost only to Army and Great Lakes this season.

Four Army Players Named on Collier's All-America Eleven

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—The 1945 All-America football team selected from Collier's magazine includes four players from the all-victorious Army squad and two from Alabama's Rose Bowl eleven, it was announced today.

It is the fifty-fifth annual compilation of a mythical eleven by the magazine which printed Walter Camp's selections from 1889 until his death in 1925. Grantland Rice has made Collier's selections since then, aided in recent years by an advisory board of football writers.

The team:

Vaughan Mancha, Alabama, center.

Warren Amling, Ohio State, guard.

John Green, Army, guard.

George Savitsky, Pennsylvania, tackle.

DeWitt Coulter, Army, tackle.

Richard Duden, Navy, end.

Herman Wedemeyer, St. Mary's, quarterback.

Glenn Davis, Army, halfback.

Harry Gilmer, Alabama, halfback.

Felix Blanchard, Army, fullback.

Rutan Sets Pace In Miami Open

Michigan Honeymooner Posts 68 in Opening Round of Tourney

By WILBUR JENNINGS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Stocky Chick Rutan of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., who came to Miami on a honeymoon, tonight led the field of the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament with a two-under par 68.

The 34-year-old Rutan, who has never won a major tournament, paced the field of 220 golfers, largest number ever to participate in the event with his sub-par opening round.

Watched by his red-haired bride of six weeks, Rutan sank four birdies during the round which included eight one-put greens. He went out in 34 and came back in the same number of strokes.

Seven were bunched at 69. Back another stroke at 70 was little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the pre-tournament favorite.

Harold "Jug" McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., who hasn't won an open since the Salt Lake City event in 1944, blasted his ball into the wooden bleachers back of the eighteenth green to take a five on the hole. A par four would have given him a 68 to tie Rutan.

Others at 69 were Henry Picard, of Cleveland, O.; K. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of Little Rock, Ark., winner of the event in 1944; Toney Penna, of Dayton, O.; George Payton, of Newport News, Va., Fred Annon of Old Greenwich, Conn.; and Ben Yasko, of West Orange, N. J.

Tied with Hogan at 70 were Jim Ferrier of Chicago; Charles Sheperd, of Philadelphia, Pa.; and Steve Warga, of Mian.

Horse Loses Shoe, Catches in Tail, Finishes Sixth

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Don Chance, favored race horse in a featured handicap at Gulfstream Park, lost a shoe immediately after the start of the six-furlong event.

The steel plate spun backwards and caught in the horse's tail. With the novel tail-dressing slapping against him, Don Chance ran on—and finished sixth.

Detroit Club Releases Three Second Stringers

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today disposed of three second-string players from their 1945 world championship baseball club.

Zeb Eaton, pinch-hitting pitcher, was sent to Buffalo of the International league. Catcher Bob Gillespie and Hank Oana, the Hawaiian who was converted from an outfielder into a pitcher, went to Dallas of the Texas league. All three were outright sales.

Dallas also obtained Jim Hresko, who switched from the pitcher's mound to third base last season, from Buffalo.

29 Deer Killed on Fourth Day in Garrett; None Bagged in Allegany

Seventeen hunters have paid fines of $10 and costs each for having loaded guns in their cars since the deer season opened in Western Maryland on Monday morning, Joseph A. Minke, regional warden, reported last evening.

Two hunters were given suspended fines of $50 and instead fines of $10 and costs were imposed after they had admitted shooting illegal deer by mistake.

Minke stated that two other hunters posted bond for trial after they were charged with killing doe-deer, two were fined $20 and costs for hunting without proper licenses and another was fined $10 and costs for having his gun loaded with steel jackets.

29 Killed in Garrett

Twenty-nine deer were checked in at the Garrett county stations yesterday, boosting the kill to 234 for the first four days of the six-day season, which ends tomorrow at sundown.

"Hunting conditions were at their worst Wednesday and Thursday, Minke declared. "All Garrett hunting areas were covered with a heavy coat of sleet and only about one half of the hunters were out."

The regional warden said that many hunters staying at farms in the back woods still have their bucks in the barns and have not yet brought them out to be checked. Some of them may be subjected to a fine for failing to have their deer checked within twenty-four hours after they were killed, he added.

"Should the weather conditions improve over the weekend the kill for Garrett county will exceed by far any previous year," Minke predicted.

Allegany Draws Blank

Allegany county's three checking stations and Battie Mixon, district game warden, reported that no deer kills in Allegany county were checked yesterday. This is probably the worst record in the history of deer seasons in Allegany county. There were not many hunters out due to the inclement weather.

During the first three days of the season thirty-eight deer were reported killed in Allegany county—one less than 1944's six-day total.

Johnny Brown Wins Over Ossie Harris

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—Displaying a bare shade of superiority, Johnny (Deacon) Brown, 167, of Baltimore, won a split decision over Ossie (Bulldog) Harris, 165½, of Pittsburgh, in a 10-round middleweight main event tonight.

In the eight-round semi-final, Georgie Williams, 148, Baltimore, defeated Eddie Kane, 148, Washington, by an unanimous decision.

Charlie Chaney, 163, Baltimore, knocked out Earl Lumpkin, 158, Harrisburg, Pa., in the second stanza of their six-round affair.

Also by a technical knockout in the second of a six-round event, Jackie Williams, 157, Baltimore, scored over Charlie Marshall, 159, Baltimore.

Chisox Sell Humphries; Pirates Seek St. Louis Stars; Leagues Seeking Higher Classification

By SID FEDER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6. (AP)—Baseball's minor leagues, which up to now have stayed out of Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler's fight with some of the major leaguers, rolled up their sleeves at their convention today and jumped into it with fists swinging.

Chandler appeared before the minor leaguers and pleaded against proposed legislation "offensive and obnoxious to me personally." His words had hardly ten minutes to cool off before the moguls voted legislation sharply curbing his powers over minor league ball, and from there they went on to an additional rebuff by refusing to amend their player bonus laws which Chandler has ruled "unfair and illegal."

Chisox Sell Humphries

By all odds, the minors' actions, coming on top of Chandler's speech and the rebuff he received yesterday when the postwar promotion program was taken away from direction by any office now in baseball, provided the explosives for a diamond day which also saw the Chicago White Sox sell right-hander Johnny Humphries to the Philadelphia Phillies in the first major league player deal of the week, and the approval of the International League, American Association and Pacific Coast League to climb from double-A to the new triple-A classification. The coast circuit's bid to jump all the way to major league status was tabled until tomorrow.

Along with these developments was the revival of a rumor that the Cleveland Indians may be sold, with Bing Crosby crooning his way in as owner. Developments on this angle may be heard at the joint major league meetings in Chicago next week.

Braves May Get Cooper

There were reports that the Boston Braves have the inside track for Catcher Walker Cooper if the St. Louis Cardinals decide to trade him; a whispered Jeff Heath-for-Sam Chapman outfielder swap between the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics, and a "pitch" by the Pittsburgh Pirates for either Infielder Jimmy Brown or Pitcher Harry Brecheen—or another left-hander—from the Cards.

The Heath-to-White Sox deal, reported so close an announcement was expected momentarily last night, hit a snag when the Tribe turned down Wally Moses or Guy Curtright in exchange.

In his speech Chandler pointed out that he has a seven-year contract as commissioner "and for seven years I intend to make decisions in baseball which you are not able to make yourself."

"I've found out you talk behind a fellow's back," he accused the minor league presidents and club owners. "I did not seek the position of commissioner of baseball. It was offered to me.

"You have resolutions before you that are offensive and obnoxious to me personally. If you don't pass them, that will be okay."

Approve Amendments

He stepped out and the minor leaguers went to work. One of the first things they did was to approve amendments to both the major-minor league agreement and the minor league law that no legislation or rule in either baseball category can be construed as "detrimental to baseball."

It was this clause in the law of baseball that enabled the late Commissioner K. M. Landis to wield the big stick of authority over the entire game.

The approval was by a 21 to 3 vote, with only the Texas League, Southern Association and South Atlantic (Sally) League voting against it. The Texas and Sally, incidentally, were advanced from Class A-1 and "B" to double-A and A status, respectively, during the session.

Bramham Favors Bonuses

The minor league bonus rules on the books now permit bonuses to players and managers in certain classifications only. After Chandler's claim that they were "illegal," amendments were drawn up to permit a bonus to a player in any classification. These were voted down today. Afterward, however, minor league czar, Judge W. G. Bramham said he would approve any bonus contract from Class AAA down to "D," but he would not amplify that statement.

The convention also approved the proposed new major-minor league agreement as drawn up by the minor league revision committee. It now goes to the majors next week. Its contents are still secret, but reports are it, too, contains stipulations that will take more power from the commissioner.

Grid Conference Will Be Formed

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — The News in a copyrighted story said tonight that athletic directors of a dozen or more prominent eastern universities and colleges will meet in New York next week to organize a second major eastern football conference.

The paper said "Every major football power in the east, excepting Army and Navy and the eight colleges linked in the Ivy circuit, will be welcomed into the new conference."

It added that the possible members totalled twenty-two, New York University, Fordham, Manhattan, Lafayette, Lehigh, Rutgers, Colgate, Syracuse, Penn State, Pittsburgh, West Virginia Carnegie Tech, Bucknell, Georgetown, Duquesne, Boston College, Holy Cross, Boston University, Temple, Villanova, Coast Guard, Academy and Kings Point.

Ray Morrison, Temple coach, advocated formation of a second eastern conference in a talk at Philadelphia last week. He declared tonight, that a meeting was "news to me."

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

Apparently only a minor portion of football followers, addicts, old grads and others understand just what a football schedule means.

For example, playing Army in these days means you haven't a chance to be even close. Playing Navy means you are likely to be beaten. Not always. But nearly always. That is as of today—and 1946. Arm and Navy had the two best teams in 1945 and they will have the two best teams in 1946.

But so far as any national ranking goes we've drawn a flock of complaints, especially from the Midwest, about the quality of many southern schedules.

"I recall some years back," one Midwestern writes, "when Bob Neyland at Tennessee took no chances of defeat, Neyland was a great coach and he had great teams. But he rarely played over three hard games a year, with many soft spots planted in between.

"In my opinion this has been true of Alabama this season. Everyone knows Frank Thomas is an exceptionally good coach and that Alabama is one of the best teams in the country. But there was no way to prove this by playing only three hard games—L.S.U., Tennessee and Georgia. I would like to have seen Alabama tested by Army, Navy, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma A. and M. or Michigan. That's why I don't think Alabama should have been rated over Navy and Indiana, or Oklahoma A. and M. After all a national ranking gets you nowhere while a Bowl game gets you from $30,000 to $100,000."

Stresses Bowl Complex

Alabama will tell you the Crimson Tide could get no stronger outside schedule. This is true. But many of their opponents, East and West, will also tell you they are not interested in southern teams that have so many football scholarships, and Bowl-developed teams.

I have the feeling that the Bowl complex has set southern football back in a schedule way. For example, two of my favorite southern teams are Clemson and Auburn, whose eleven go back 40 or 45 years. Once they begin winning, they are too often dropped from southern schedules. The reason—"too tough." Tennessee dropped Auburn after a close 7-0 margin in 1938 that almost kept Tennessee out of an Orange Bowl meeting with Oklahoma. Georgia Tech, I understand, has dropped Clemson after Clemson's late mop-up. The South has given Clemson and Auburn all the worst of it, and yet, traditionally they belong high up.

The various Bowls, apparently, are here to stay. But they have built up two armed, hostile camps. The Midwest, including the Big Ten plus Notre Dame, have no Bowl aspirations. Neither has the Ivy League, plus Army and Navy.

This leaves Bowl selections to the West Coast, the Southwest, the South and one or two stray eastern or northern teams, such as Boston College and Holy Cross.

From the South the teams willing to play a tough schedule and take a chance are Duke and Georgia Tech. Duke has been willing to face Army and Navy. Duke was unbeaten, outside of these two games. Georgia Tech has been willing to meet Navy and Notre Dame, always tough customers. And Duke and Georgia Tech also meet. The last time a strong Alabama team played Georgia and Georgia Tech, Alabama lost both games.

Duke and Georgia Tech play by all odds the hardest schedules in the South. Tulane is also willing to take a bigger gamble. The Southwest also sticks with its own, from Oklahoma to Texas, although Tulsa is willing to move away from its own home area. Tulsa played Indiana this last season.

But outside of Duke and Georgia Tech, no other southern team, including Alabama, played a schedule even close to Indiana's test with a menu that included Michigan, Northwestern, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, Tulsa, Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Purdue.

Bowl Games Unimportant

The South has turned out too many great football teams, too many leading football coaches and too many football stars, to permit the various Bowl collections to dominate its schedules and its play. The Bowls, taken in their stride, are all right as postseason fill-ins but completely unimportant contributions to any national ranking. The Bowls are the interludes between the end of a football season and the year on beyond.

But the Bowl games should not be used in making schedules to insure Bowl invitations, especially in the South which has contributed too much to football to give so much of its attention to any Bowls in its schedule arrangements. After all Duke and Georgia Tech are not the only good football teams in the South. The North and the Midwest will never get to see Gilmer and Mancha, two of the country's best. This is a problem the South and the Southwest had better think about.

Herber's Passes Loom as Awesome As Ruthian Homer

Redskins Regard Giants' Ace as "Dangerous Character"

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — Arnie Herber, 34-year-old passing master of New York's Giants, today loomed as almost as awesome a figure to Washington's Redskins as Babe Ruth once was to baseball rivals.

Herber and his pass-catching end Frank Liebel, were set out as the Giants' most dangerous characters in Sunday's game on which the Redskins' National League championship hopes will ride.

All week the Redskins have been forced to practice indoors because of bad weather. They haven't been able to work on a special defense for Herber's home run passes.

Herber throws the type of pass, high and far, that has been most effective against the Redskins for years.

He demonstrated last Sunday that his passing arm had lost none of its accuracy by pitching the Giants to a 28-21 victory over Philadelphia's Eagles in perhaps the most astounding upset of the season.

Clark Shaughnessy, Pittsburgh university coach and high on Washington's board of strategy, joined the Redskins today to help in final preparations for Sunday's show.

"Herber's touchdown passes can be as demoralizing as a Ruthian home run," he said.

The stopping job will be principally up to Les Dye, an end converted into a defensive halfback, and Bob Seymour.

But that may turn out to be qutie an afternoon's work for Liebel has caught ten touchdown passes, more than any other man in the league, including Green Bay's canny veteran, Don Hutson, with nine and Cleveland's rangy Jim Benton, with eight.

Terra Alta High Defeats Oakland

OAKLAND, Dec. 6—Terra Alta high school nosed out Oakland high school's floormen tonight in a low scoring contest at Terra Alta, W. Va., by the score of 18 to 15.

The West Virginians scored most of their points in the first period when they jumped away to a 12-4 lead. Oakland trailed at the half, 14-8, and at the close of the third quarter, 15-10. The Highlanders pulled up one point in the rear at 15-14 in the final stanza but was unable to catch the home team.

Kelly and Berchorf accounted for thirteen of the Terra Alta tallies while Bosley marked up eight points to pace the Oakland offensive. The lineups:

Westernport's Late Rally Decides Game; Price Tops Scorers

WESTERNPORT, Dec. 6—Bruce high school's basketball team came from behind tonight to eke out a 27 to 25 decision over the cagers of Paw Paw high school.

On the short end of a 21-17 count going into the final period, Coach Grindle's quintet hit the hoops for ten points while limiting the visitors to four to put the game on ice.

Bruce led at quarter time 6-5 but at the halfway mark the West Virginians held a 15 to 14 edge.

Richard Price paced the locals to victory with a total of fifteen points on five field goals and five free throws while Bob Robertson was Paw Paw's high scorer with five double-deckers and three foul goals for thirteen points.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today advised Senator Capehart (R-Ind) that it would be impossible for Army's football team to meet Indiana university in a proposed post-season victory loan game.

An aide in Capehart's office said the chief of staff explained that the Cadets could not engage in such a contest because of the rigorous season just completed and the need of time to prepare for mid-term examinations.

"He thought it was a good idea, though," said the aide, who added that "we might try to schedule Army and Indiana next season since both teams will have most of their star players back."

West Virginia Will Play Army Next Year On West Point Field

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley officially announced tonight that West Virginia University's Mountaineers would meet Army's great football team in 1946.

Other opponents include Virginia, Washington and Lee, Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio University, Pitt and Syracuse, Hawley said, with Temple another possibility.

The National champions will be played October 2 at West Point, Hawley said. When West Virginia last met Army in 1941, the Mountaineers were nosed out 7-6 on a long pass in the closing minutes.

The Washington and Lee game will be a resumption of a long series which suspended after 1942 when the Lexington, Va., school dropped football and Virginia replaced it as West Virginia's opponent at Charleston. The Cavaliers will make the trip to the state's capital city again next year.

The announced schedule includes only two home games—Washington and Lee and Syracuse.

BRAVES GET FLOWERS

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced tonight the release of Coach D'Arcy (Jake) Flowers at his own request to join the Boston Braves.

Flowers has been with the Pirates since 1940, with the exception of 1943 and part of 1944 when he was in the armed services. Manager Frankie Frisch will announce a replacement later.

Jessop Sets Pace

Through November 26, J. D. Jessop led the jockeys in this country, having won 271 races out of a total of 974 mounts, for an average of .28. The veteran, Johnny Longden, who rode Busher in all of her races during 1945, is one of the veterans who compiled a fine record during the season. Also through November 26, Longden had 772 mounts, on which he rode 179 winners for an average of .23. Doug Dodson has an average of .20 and Ted Atkinson an average of .19, the latter having won 179 races from a total of 984 mounts.

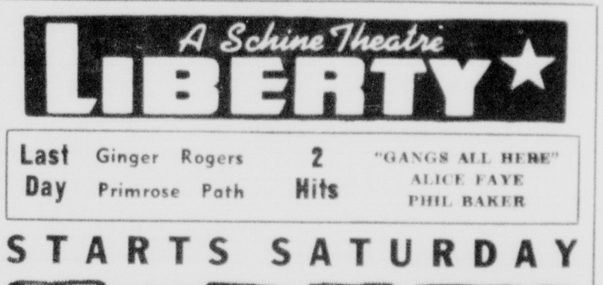

—Robins, now usually half tame and preferring suburben to forest life, have become stupid and lazy in many cases.

—The Ojibway Indian name for the red squirrel is Adjidaumo, meaning "tail-in-the-air."

BRAVES GET FLOWERS

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced tonight the release of Coach D'Arcy (Jake) Flowers at his own request to join the Boston Braves.

Flowers has been with the Pirates since 1940, with the exception of 1943 and part of 1944 when he was in the armed services. Manager Frankie Frisch will announce a replacement later.

Jessop Sets Pace

Through November 26, J. D. Jessop led the jockeys in this country, having won 271 races out of a total of 974 mounts, for an average of .28. The veteran, Johnny Longden, who rode Busher in all of her races during 1945, is one of the veterans who compiled a fine record during the season. Also through November 26, Longden had 772 mounts, on which he rode 179 winners for an average of .23. Doug Dodson has an average of .20 and Ted Atkinson an average of .19, the latter having won 179 races from a total of 984 mounts.

—Robins, now usually half tame and preferring suburban to forest life, have become stupid and lazy in many cases.

—The Ojibway Indian name for the red squirrel is Adjidaumo, meaning "tail-in-the-air."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, James V. Centofanti, who passed away a year ago today, December 7, 1944.

God needed him, our loved one so dear,
And took him from us today a year,
He's resting now, way up there,
And we offer to him this day a prayer.

May you be happy where'er you roam,
Tho you are many miles from home,
We know you're contented in God's hand
And in Heaven, your new homeland.

MR. AND MRS. PETE CENTOFANTI
AND FAMILY
MR. AND MRS. NICK CENTOFANTI
12-7-1t-NT

In loving memory of my mother, Louise L. Sidaway, who died three years ago today, December 7, 1942.

In life I loved you dearly,
In death I do the same,
More and more each day I miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That is in my heart concealed.

Sleep on, dear Mother, take your rest,
God called you home, He knows best,
He knew you were suffering
And could not get well
So He called you home to Heaven to dwell.

Daughter,
GERALDINE.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, James V. Centofanti, who passed away a year ago today, December 7, 1944.

God needed him, our loved one so dear,
And took him from us today a year,
He's resting now, way up there,
And we offer to him this day a prayer.

May you be happy where'er you roam,
Tho you are many miles from home,
We know you're contented in God's hand
And in Heaven, your new homeland.

MR. AND MRS. PETE CENTOFANTI
AND FAMILY
MR. AND MRS. NICK CENTOFANTI
12-7-1t-NT

In loving memory of my mother, Louise L. Sidaway, who died three years ago today, December 7, 1942.

In life I loved you dearly,
In death I do the same,
More and more each day I miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That is in my heart concealed.

Sleep on, dear Mother, take your rest,
God called you home, He knows best,
He knew you were suffering
And could not get well
So He called you home to Heaven to dwell.

Daughter,
GERALDINE.

Palestine Should Be Open to Jews, Dr. Haklai Says

Jewish Leader Criticises British Policy and White Paper of 1939

By A. TRAGO BRUST

Criticising the British government for its policy in Palestine, Dr. Michael Haklai, one of the early pioneers who participated in the rebirth of Palestine, last night called on the American government and the American people to voice their opinions and see to it that Britain does justice to the Jewish people and that the gates of Palestine are opened to unlimited Jewish immigration.

Dr. Haklai, who spoke at a meeting of local Jewish residents in the vestry rooms of B'er Chayim temple, pointed out that the British in 1917 favored Palestine as a national home for the Jews but in 1939 passed the "infamous White Paper" that put an end to the Jewish homeland, precluded Jewish immigration into Palestine and prohibited the purchase of land by Jews in Palestine.

The speaker likewise recalled that Britain's Labor party before the election of Prime Minister Attlee, pledged that it would abolish this "White Paper," but since the election, reversed and retracted its pledge and now recognizes the "White Paper as the law for Palestine."

Refused Truman's Request

Dr. Haklai said Prime Minister Attlee refused to adhere to a request by President Truman for immediate removal of 100,000 Jews from European camps to Palestine.

He added that President Truman, on the basis of a report by Earl Harrison on the condition of 100,000 Jews in camps in Europe and in response to requests from Jewish agencies, requested Attlee for the immediate admission of 100,000 Jews into Palestine. He said that Truman based his appeal to Attlee on a "humanitarian basis," and pointed out that both the Democratic and Republican parties have pledged that a Jewish commonwealth should be established.

Under the Fish-Lodge resolution government put itself behind this in Congress in 1924, the American Palestine mandate, namely, the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine, according to Dr. Haklai.

On November 2, 1917, Dr. Haklai said in turning to a discussion of the British policy, Lord Balfour issued a declaration which states in brief "that his majesty's government looks with favor on establishment of a national home for the Jewish people in Palestine."

"The San Remo peace conference gave the mandate of Palestine to Britain, that is, that Britain should facilitate the establishment of the national home and should co-operate with the Jewish Agency for Palestine in this matter," Dr. Haklai said.

Guaranteed by League

"This mandate has been signed and guaranteed by the League of Nations for fifty-two sovereign governments. On the strength of the declaration and mandate of this national and international law, the Jewish people proceeded with the upbuilding of their homeland, Palestine.

"Scores of thousands of pioneers have given their blood, sweat and tears to build the land, dry the swamps, build cities and roads, develop commerce and industry, and more than half a million Jews went to Palestine and settled in their homeland.

"All the other people have benefitted from Jewish integration and enterprise, for the Jewish people did not come as conquerors but as a peaceful, enterprising and democratic people, offering high prices for each acre of land that they have bought.

"The British government began a policy of whittling down this national home of the Jewish people by various investigating commissions, each time issuing new policies until the Chamberlain appeasement government passed the hurried resolution or the infamous White Paper of 1939...

Condemned by Churchill

"Responsible British statesmen such as Winston Churchill, who was leader of the opposition party at that time, condemned the White Paper as a 'dark blot' on British policy. The League of Nations which is the sovereign authority of the Palestine mandate, condemned this White Paper as illegal and a breach of the mandatory rule.

"The British Labor party before the elections pledged that it would

Former Conductor Dies in Hospital

Stanton L. Cheshire Services Will Be Conducted Sunday

Funeral services for Stanton Lewis Cheshire, 54, 501 Columbia avenue, former Baltimore and Ohio Railroad conductor, who died yesterday morning at 1:30 o'clock in Memorial hospital, will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home.

The Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of First Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be in Rose Hill cemetery.

Mr. Cheshire, who had been in ill health for about a year, was admitted to the hospital Monday.

A native of Westernport, he was a son of the late Perry J. and Annie M. Cheshire. He stopped work October 10, 1944, after thirty-five years of service with the B. and O. Railroad.

Mr. Cheshire was a member of First Methodist church and of Lodge No. 440, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Myrtle B. Shoemaker Cheshire; two daughters, Mrs. George Plummer and Miss Verta May Cheshire, both of this city; one brother, William I. Cheshire, Keyser, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. William H. Rogers, Sebring, Fla., and Mrs. J. O. Buckalew, Keyser, and two grandsons, John and Douglas Plummer, this city.

HELEN GROVES RITES

Funeral services for Helen Evelyn Groves, 4-year-old daughter of Charles H. T. and Eva Ingram Groves, 130 Humbird street, who died Wednesday evening in Memorial hospital, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home.

The Rev. Charles V. Elliott, pastor of Assembly of God church, will officiate and interment will be in Mt. Hermon cemetery.

MRS. RICKARD RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Agnes Rickard, who died here Wednesday evening, will be conducted this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic church. Interment will be in the church cemetery. The body is at the Stein funeral home.

JOHN G. WATT RITES

Funeral services for John G. "Scottie" Watt, a former resident of this city, who died Sunday at his home in Catonsville, were conducted yesterday morning in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic church.

The Rev. Irenaeus Reinl, O. F. M. Cap., pastor of the church, was the celebrant of the requiem mass. Interment was in St. Michael's cemetery, Frostburg.

Pallbearers were Charles Eberly Joseph Coleman, Robert Neat Charles Brode, George Sellers and Alfred Hott.

MRS. MacFARLANE RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Elizabeth MacFarlane, 35, wife of H. King MacFarlane and sister of William G. Barkdoll, this city, who died Monday in Washington, D. C., were conducted Wednesday in Grawler's funeral home, Washington. Interment was in Alta Rest cemetery Altoona, Pa.

Born in Green Castle, Pa., Mrs. MacFarlane was the daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Barkdoll, this city, and the late Dr. Frank L. Barkdoll. She had been living in Washington for the past few years.

Twin daughters born October 22 to Mrs. MacFarlane died recently in Doctors hospital, Washington.

MRS. ZINK RITES

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Zink, 73, widow of John Zink, who died Monday morning at her home, 503 North Mechanic street, after an illness of two months, were conducted yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Hafer funeral home.

The Rev. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, officiated and interment was in St. Luke's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Myron Lehr, Philip Lehr, Marshall Hill, Homer Plummer, E. Lee Fresh and Anthony Kaefer.

CHARLES FRIES RITES

Funeral services for Charles William Fries, 73, Windsor hotel, who died Monday afternoon in Memorial hospital, were conducted yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the George funeral home.

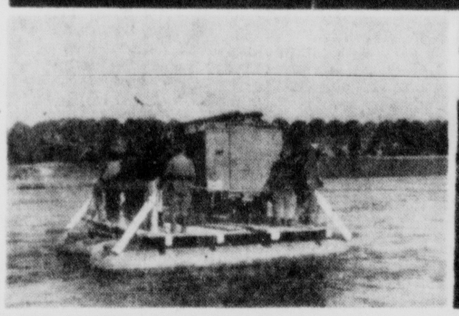

The Rev. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, officiated and interment was in Rose Hill cemetery.

Services at the grave were in charge of Potomac Lodge No. 100.

Old Log House, Built in 1815, Is Torn Down

Built about 130 years ago of rough-hewn logs on a part of one of the land grants of the Revolutionary war period, the old log house of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Vandegrift on Piney Ridge road has been torn down to make way for a new and modern dwelling.

The history of the land goes back to George Washington's time when men who fought against the British received land grants as a reward for their efforts. The log house, according to all indications was built sometime around 1815.

Since buying the property about eleven years ago, the Vandegrifts have been told that their log house was one of three or four built in conjunction with the old Bottle Run distillery, located on Bottle Run road, about half a mile away. The distillery, which later became a tannery, is now in pretty much of a dilapidated condition.

Pegs made of native wood, oak, pine and cypress, held the old log house together although handmade nails were used in the floors on both the first and second floors. Some of the original clay that was used to cement the cracks between the logs remained when the house was razed about two weeks ago.

Beams in the house were rough-hewn from trees with a girth of from eight to ten inches, and Mrs. Vandegrift said the razing disclosed that one of the beams had been burned and some of the floor scorched as a result of an apparently minor fire years ago.

After the Vandegrifts bought the property, the four-room house—three rooms downstairs and a loft bedroom upstairs—was remodeled and improved for year around living inasmuch as the previous owner had occupied it only as a summer residence.

While their new home is under construction, Mr. and Mrs. Vandegrift are living in the Albert Smouse home, a remodeled school, on Union Grove road. Mr. and Mrs. Smouse presently are in Florida.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH FEDERATION WILL MEET

The second meeting of the Christian Youth Federation, sponsored by Central YMCA, will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. at the "Y," with young people of the Living Stone Church of the Brethren in charge of the special Christmas program, according to Robert L. Sisson, general YMCA secretary.

The program will include a piano prelude by Miss Lorraine Burke; call to worship, Jack C. Buckle; Scripture reading by Miss Marian Buckle; a prayer offered by Miss Anna Marie Raley; a Christmas reading, titled "A Christmas Present for a Lady," by Miss Betty May; and a piano postlude by Miss Burke.

Traditional Christmas carols and hymns will also be sung. At the close of the program Sisson will explain some of the aims of the federation for the benefit of new young people's groups which have joined it since the first meeting November 11.

Groups representing nine churches are now members of the federation, Sisson said. The churches represented are Emmanuel Episcopal, First Christian, First Presbyterian, Southminster Presbyterian, the Salvation Army; Grace Baptist, Central Methodist, First Baptist, and the Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Mrs. George T. Woodworth, advisor to the federation, will serve refreshments after the meeting Sunday.

Local Soldier Took Pictures of Meeting; Celebration Lasted 3 Days

By JAMES B. CRAIG

Up until the time his commander learned he could take pictures, Robert Goldfine, Cumberland studio photographer, who just returned after a year overseas, had been engaged in the business of laying wire in the communications section of his artillery unit attached to the Sixty-ninth division. After that, the Cumberland man traveled extensively in his commander's jeep for the purpose of recording historic moments.

For a number of months there were few historic moments—just the grim business of war. Then April came with a flood of showers and a flood of rumors with Goldfine's outfit deployed on a line along the Elbe river near Torgau. The Germans had cracked according to the latrine rumors. The Russians were just across the river.

Excitement mounted. Everybody wanted to be there first to meet the fabulous Russians. It was rumored that the unit directly opposite the Americans was the hard-fighting Fifty-eighth Russian division commanded by Major General Rusakov, which defended Stalingrad. Another report was heard that another American unit was coming forward to elbow the Sixty-ninth out of the honor of meeting the Russians.

Robertson Finds Russians

The Sixty-ninth immediately took measures to counter this new threat. Goldfine, with his photographic equipment loaded and ready to go sat by a phone for three days, alerted to move. An American lieutenant, William D. Robertson, conveniently got lost and wandered out of the sector he was supposed to cover.

His wanderings led him, quite by accident, to the bombed out bridge near Torgau, which he started to cross. While crawling on all fours over the wreckage, the Russians on the opposite bank opened up on him with enthusiastic bursts of small arms fire. Robertson kept crawling forward, pausing every few feet to lift up his head and shout "Americanski." First puzzled and finally convinced, the Russians came to meet him howling with pleasure. Heading the group was Lt. Alexander Sylvashko, of the First Ukrainian Army.

Having found the Russians, Robertson saw no point in going back to his outfit empty handed where his comrades would probably call him a liar so he took three Russians with him for proof.

It was at this point that Goldfine, still at his telephone, got his call and went into action on April 25.

The Cumberland man will always remember the next three days where American and Russian friendship was supposedly cemented. If it wasn't cemented, it was through no fault of the individual Russians and Americans involved, Goldfine is convinced.

Took First Pictures

Frankly, the affair was one big drunk. The Russians, all sizes and ages, both male and female, came pouring across the river to make whoopee with the "brave Americans." The women proved to be Russian military police (see picture) who were with their masculine comrades in the front lines.

After taking his first pictures including the one of Robertson and Sylvashko which was the "picture of the week" in Life's May 7 edition, Goldfine was besieged by eager beaver Russians who wanted their pictures taken.

Goldfine said the difficulty was that each picture the Russians plied him with drink. Vodka was described by the photographer as a scorching thirst quencher which feels like hot fumes in your stomach, if it gets that far. Finally,

Moose Expect 400 Members To Come Here for Meeting

The vanguard of four hundred members from fifteen Moose lodges over a wide area were scheduled to start arriving in Cumberland today for the first "all out" get-to-gether of the Maryland Border States Moose Association since the war.

Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of the Moose, will be host to the guests congregating from Wilmington, Washington, Alexandria, Arlington, Martinsburg, Baltimore, Sparrows Point, Brunswick, Hagerstown, Annapolis, Romney, Keyser, Frostburg and other towns and cities.

The regular "jam session" that precedes the various business meetings will be held today at the Moose home where members will get acquainted.

A business meeting is scheduled for Saturday at 3 p. m.

Approximately sixty-five persons will attend a testimonial dinner tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in honor of Frank J. Davis, governor of Cumberland Lodge.

The dinner will be the highlight of the three day session. Davis, who is deputy supreme commander of the Moose and deputy grand governor of the Legion in this district, last August received the Pilgrim degree, highest award of the Moose.

Court Awards Decree To Richard M. Keffer

Chief Judge William A. Huster has awarded an absolute divorce to Richard M. Keffer from Ruby Nelson Keffer.

Keffer, 41, 553 North Mechanic street, was awarded the decree with a son, Richard Noel, four, being awarded to the mother along with forty dollars a month for the child's support.

According to his attorney, Robert MacDonald Bruce, Keffer and his wife were married in 1938 and separated in 1943 while they were living at 555 North Mechanic street.

Noel Speir Cook yesterday docketed a petition for Nancy Lee Jolley, Cumberland, in which she asks for an absolute divorce from Joseph E. Jolley, Cumberland, now serving in the armed services. They were married in 1941 and separated November 27, 1945. Mrs. Jolley also asks the court that her maiden name of Nancy Lee Goebel, be restored to her.

National Highway West of Frostburg Reported "Slick"

The National highway west of Frostburg was reported "slick" again last night as ice that melted during the day froze again when temperatures dropped below the freezing point.

While roads were slick west of Frostburg, state police said they were "in pretty good shape" in the rest of the county.

Two snowplows of the state roads commission scraped Route 40 west yesterday but some slush remained on the road. It was the slush and melted ice that froze late last night.

The temperature on Big Savage mountain was thirty degrees at 6:30 p. m. and dropping slowly. In Cumberland at midnight the temperature was thirty-two degrees.

Carroll Reports 1,625 Countians Are Unemployed

Manager of Local USES Office Says One-third of Total Are Women

Stating that there is a surplus in the labor market in the Cumberland area at the present time, Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local United States Employment Service office, said yesterday that 1,625 persons, one- third of whom are women, are now unemployed in Allegany county.

Recalling that nine women began training last week as employes of the new Cumberland Undergarment Company, which will occupy the former General Textile Mills plant here, Carroll said that ten more women will enter the employ of the company next week as trainees.

Training Groups Cited

He pointed out that although the firm hopes to employ 500 women eventually, employes will not be hired at one time but will be employed in similar training groups. Members of one group who complete their training will assist new employees in learning the work, he explained.

The labor surplus in the county is reflected in a report by Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Cumberland office of the Maryland Unemployment Board.

Kenney stated yesterday that the number of claims filed at his office in October totalled 1,761, while last month's total was 3,168, nearly double the October figure.

Veterans File Claims

Nearly one-half of the November total represented claims for unemployment pay filed by ex-servicemen under the Servicemn's Readjustment act of 1944, Kenney said, adding that the remainder represented claims filed by industrial employes furloughed to make room for returning veterans, or by persons who lost their jobs in the contraction of war industries.

The November figure includes 457 veterans who filed claims for the first time, Kenney said. In October approximately seventy-nine veterans filed their first claims at the local office.

J. WALTER BYER IS RE-ELECTED HEAD OF MOTOR CLUB

J. Walter Byer was re-elected president of the Western Maryland Motor Club for the fourth term at the dinner-meeting last evening at the Queen City hotel.

Other officers to serve with him are George Erling, vice president; Kinsey A. Wolf, treasurer and Mrs. Irene Reuschel, secretary. The latter will take charge Monday.

Directors for the ensuing year were also elected. They are Jack Towler, Harold Bloom, Mrs. Mary Brewer, George Carney, Daniel D'Amico, Mr. Erling, Clifton E. Gainor, Charles Grosh, Mrs. Thomas Koon, Mayor Thomas Post, Mrs. Mary Simons, Gale Townsend, B. B. Welsh, Mr. Wolfe, O. J. Brady, Hugo Keller, Arthur Walsh, Ewald Reuhl, J. E. Keech, Carl Storm and R. H. Yokum.

Mayor Post talked about the number of good streets in Cumberland and the assistance the club has been to the city in offering helpful suggestions on civic improvements.

Sgt. John H. Doud, Maryland State Police, discussed the changes in the state motor laws and outlined the new procedure for securing licenses.

Postmaster Urges Early Mailing for Christmas

Postmaster James C. Shriver yesterday asked the public to buy Christmas card stamps now and mail cards by December 15. Parcels should be mailed earlier.

Postal rates as usual are one and a half cents for unsealed matter; three cents for sealed letters or cards. Sealed cards may be sent to servicemen and women overseas for three cents.

Stamps should be bought early so that more stamps can be ordered if the supplies are depleted.

Early mailing will insure delivery by Christmas, Shriver said. Because Christmas falls on Tuesday this year, he said, the post office employes will attempt to clear the office of Christmas mail by Saturday.

John R. Kelly Heads Dairy Workers' Local

Drivers and Dairy Workers' Local No. 924 elected officers for 1946 at a meeting last evening at Allegany Trades Council Hall, Frederick street.

The officers are: John R. Kelly, president; J. T. Fisher, vice president; George E. Eversole, secretary-treasurer; Aubrey Beatley, recording secretary; trustees, Philip Walker, three years; Arthur Turley, two years, and John Matthews, one year.

A conductor and warden will be appointed at the next meeting on Thursday, January 3, at which time the new officers will be installed.

DIRECTS GLEE CLUB—Joseph L. Derry, head of the music department of Central high school, Lonaconing, has been appointed director of the glee club of LaSalle high school. The glee club, with about fifty-two voices, now is preparing for a Christmas musicale to be held Monday, December 17, for parents of students. Derry conducts practices one night weekly. Other rehearsals are conducted after school hours by Brother Clement, principal. William Burns is pianist for the glee club.

Sales Must Spurt To Reach E Bond Goal of $800,000

Lashley Says Present Total Is Less than Half of Quota

With E bond sales still less than half of the $800,000 quota in Allegany county, Lynn C. Lashley, chairman, said yesterday that if the county is to reach its goal in the Victory Loan drive there must be a vast improvement in the rate of purchase.

Sales through December 3 total $377,292, according to Lashley, who pointed out that the campaign ends in a little more than three weeks.

"We must not let up in our efforts" to sell more bonds as "we enter the home stretch of the Victory drive," Lashley stated.

State's Success Expected

He added that "there is every likelihood that Maryland officially will go over the top on its overall quota within the next few days, and we want to do everything humanly possible to reach our E bond quota in Allegany county before too many days have passed."

Lashley pointed out that in Baltimore all of the large department stores and many others are going to carry in their windows during the Christmas season exhibits appealing to persons to give bonds as Christmas gifts. "We have been advised," he said, "that some stores here are planning the same thing."

Yesterday Lashley was advised by Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, that the company has allocated $300,000 of its Victory Loan purchases to Allegany county. White said the railroad's purchases to date total $12,500,000, which has been allocated in varying amounts to some 115 counties and communities on the B. and O. system.

Celanese Allocates $700,000

Lashley said other allocations to the county of Victory bond purchases include $700,000 from the Celanese Corporation of America; $50,000, Western Maryland Railway Company; $10,000, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The Melville Shoe Corporation also has allocated part of its purchases to Allegany county.

Twenty-four Veterans Attend Welcome Home Meeting of Jaycees

Twenty-four veterans of World War II were welcomed back at a get-together meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Thirty-four members of the association attended the meeting which got underway with a dinner at 6 p. m. Each of the returned veterans gave a brief talk on his experiences, according to S. Russ Minter, president.

Textile Workers Plan To Build Or Buy New Home

W. E. Meagher Announces Appointment of Building Committee

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, last evening announced the appointment of a building committee and disclosed that the Celanese local plans to build or buy a modern union hall in the near future.

Members of the committee are William E. Meagher, president; Howard "Red" Bush, vice president; John G. Thomas, business manager; Playford Aldridge, recording secretary; George Zeigler, chairman of warp knit department; Carl Hinkle, textile engineering committeeman, and James Martin, chairman of the union's legislative committee.

The committee was appointed by Meagher who was authorized by the membership of the 8,500 member local to proceed with plans for a building.

Have Building Fund

The union president said the local has been planning the action for the past two years and that a building fund has been established to secure a modern headquarters.

Meagher added the proposed hall will include not only a place for the union to transact business but will, it is hoped, provide facilities for a full recreational program.

The union has been at its present location at 34 North Mechanic street since 1938, union officials said. From 1936 to 1938, the textile union had its headquarters in the Ruehl building on Bedford street.

Feel "Time Is Ripe"

The union official declared the officers of the Celanese local feel the "time is ripe" to secure a postwar home for the local.

Meagher added it was his desire and the wishes of other officers and the membership of the union that "we begin in the direction of building or securing a home of our own."

Sale of Residence Is Asked in Suit

A petition docketed in circuit court by Charles Z. Heskett for Mrs. Sophia Rosenbaum asks the court to authorize the public or private sale of the Ira Rosenbaum residence at 726 Washington street and rule regarding the distribution of the proceeds from the sale.

The residence, described in the petition as "one of the finest private dwellings in Cumberland" was bequeathed to Mrs. Sophia Rosenbaum by her husband. The petition states that Mrs. Rosenbaum elected not to live in the house after her husband's death due to sentimental reasons and it was vacant for six years due to inability to find a suitable tenant.

The property has been rented for the past five years but at a greatly inadequate rent, the petition states. Nevertheless, the rent paid by the present tenant is "about the maximum now obtainable in the City of Cumberland", the petition adds.

The petitioners charge that maintenance, obsolecence, and depreciation charges against the property have in each year exceeded the gross income and that as the situation now stands the residence is "a wasting asset and liability."

Candidates for Local Office Non-committal; Mayor Post Will Run

Commissioner William E. McDonald said that he had no definite statement to make when questioned about his intentions to run for mayor next spring. He said that he had been approached by friends and supporters to run for mayor.

Mayor Thomas S. Post will be a candidate. He issued no statement but said that he would run for re-election.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric lights, said that he would definitely run for re-election next spring.

Commissioner of Police and Fire James Orr, made no comment when asked about his intentions. Hunter B. Helfrich, commissioner of streets and public property, said that he would wait to see how the situation developed before committing himself.

Orr, Edwards and McDonald have served several two-year terms.

Dr. Frantz Explains Public Health Activities in Allegany County

Public health activities in Allegany county were explained by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer, to his fellow Kiwanians at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Public health has to do with prevention of disease, Dr. Frantz said, and listed four basic functions of the health department. They are:

2—Sanitation, (which is concerned with pure water, pure food, disposal of sewage and garbage and proper housing.)

3—Public health education.

4—Research.

Employes of the health departments of the city, county and state work as a unit, Dr. Frantz declared. The Allegany county department is staffed by a full-time health officer, an assistant health officer, ten nurses with a supervisor, five sanitarians, a laboratory head, with two assistants, and a full-time dentist.

The cost of operating the health department in Allegany county was placed at approximately $65,000 by Dr. Frantz, and of this sum, he said that the city pays one fourth, the county one fourth and the state one half.

Activities of the department have to do with the control and treatment of communicable diseases. The department conducts a number of clinics, namely—venereal, tuberculosis, crippled children, and ear. The department also records vital statistics, keeping records of births and deaths, and communicable disease.

Dr. Frantz outlined the work of sanitarians, who inspect milk, test water, and inspect restaurants. The speaker explained that the new program for restaurants is expected to work wonders, and added that the department is receiving fine cooperation from restaurant owners.

The dentist of the health department takes care of first and second grade school children, Dr. Frantz said, explaining that ninety per cent of children who enter public school have defective teeth.

Other activities of the department described by Dr. Frantz was prenatal clinic, well-baby clinic and the pre-school roundup. He also touched on the new medical care program which was authorized in Maryland by the last session of the regular general assembly. This applies to persons on relief and to the medical indigent. Allegany county was allotted $18,000 per year for the medical care program.

Dr. Frantz said there are ten health centers in the county, some of them located in schools and others in separate buildings.

Youth, 18, Is Held in Jail Pending Completion of Probe in Accident

Lawrence E. Shipley, 18, Corriganville, is being held in the county jail pending the completion of the investigation by the state's attorney's office in connection with the critical injury of a 7-year-old Corriganville girl and the serious injury of her 14-year-old cousin, according to Trooper Harry Holsinger of the Maryland State Police.

Trooper Holsinger said Shipley was the driver of the car which struck Kathleen Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Bennett, and Jack R. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Miller, as the children were walking home from school Wednesday about 4:15 p. m.

The Bennett girl was admitted to the hospital in a critical condition suffering from a fractured skull, possible internal injuries, fractures of both arms and the left leg, while the Miller boy was suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg and other possible wounds when he was admitted in a fair condition.

Driving Toward Corriganville

The state trooper explained that Shipley was driving toward the Corriganville post office and had left the first curve west of the town when he plowed into the group of six or seven children who were walking along the left side of the road facing traffic.

As Shipley rounded the curve, Trooper Holsinger said, he came face to face with a car approaching in the opposite direction and lost control in the attempt to avoid the oncoming vehicle.

The car, the trooper added, struck two of the children and ran about seventy-five feet off the road before coming to a stop in the bed of a small stream.

State police are seeking the driver of the other car as a witness in the case and Trooper Holsinger added the unknown driver was entirely within his rights.

Authorities believe the motorist may be a Celanese worker since a number of workers were returning from the local textile plant at the time of the accident, the trooper added.

No Change in Condition

Hospital attaches reported no change late last evening in the condition of either child.

Trooper Holsinger disclosed that the Miller boy, reported in a fair condition, would not have been struck had he not been attempting to pull his cousin out of the way of the oncoming car.

Trooper Holsinger added that Shipley, a B. and O. machinist's helper, was driving on a thirty-day permit which expired in October and said that the youth has been refused a license because of poor eyesight.

The trooper added that Shipley was sober when the accident occurred.

Palestine Should Be Open to Jews, Dr. Haklai Says

Jewish Leader Criticises British Policy and White Paper of 1939

By A. TRAGO BRUST

Criticising the British government for its policy in Palestine, Dr. Michael Haklai, one of the early pioneers who participated in the rebirth of Palestine, last night called on the American government and the American people to voice their opinions and see to it that Britain does justice to the Jewish people and that the gates of Palestine are opened to unlimited Jewish immigration.

Dr. Haklai, who spoke at a meeting of local Jewish residents in the vestry rooms of B'er Chayim temple, pointed out that the British in 1917 favored Palestine as a national home for the Jews but in 1939 passed the "infamous White Paper" that put an end to the Jewish homeland, precluded Jewish immigration into Palestine and prohibited the purchase of land by Jews in Palestine.

The speaker likewise recalled that Britain's Labor party before the election of Prime Minister Attlee, pledged that it would abolish this "White Paper," but since the election, reversed and retracted its pledge and now recognizes the "White Paper as the law for Palestine."

Refused Truman's Request

Dr. Haklai said Prime Minister Attlee refused to adhere to a request by President Truman for immediate removal of 100,000 Jews from European camps to Palestine.

He added that President Truman, on the basis of a report by Earl Harrison on the condition of 100,000 Jews in camps in Europe and in response to requests from Jewish agencies, requested Attlee for the immediate admission of 100,000 Jews into Palestine. He said that Truman based his appeal to Attlee on a "humanitarian basis," and pointed out that both the Democratic and Republican parties have pledged that a Jewish commonwealth should be established.

Under the Fish-Lodge resolution government put itself behind this in Congress in 1924, the American Palestine mandate, namely, the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine, according to Dr. Haklai.

On November 2, 1917, Dr. Haklai said in turning to a discussion of the British policy, Lord Balfour issued a declaration which states in brief "that his majesty's government looks with favor on establishment of a national home for the Jewish people in Palestine."

"The San Remo peace conference gave the mandate of Palestine to Britain, that is, that Britain should facilitate the establishment of the national home and should co-operate with the Jewish Agency for Palestine in this matter," Dr. Haklai said.

Guaranteed by League

"This mandate has been signed and guaranteed by the League of Nations for fifty-two sovereign governments. On the strength of the declaration and mandate of this national and international law, the Jewish people proceeded with the upbuilding of their homeland, Palestine.

"Scores of thousands of pioneers have given their blood, sweat and tears to build the land, dry the swamps, build cities and roads, develop commerce and industry, and more than half a million Jews went to Palestine and settled in their homgland.

"All the other people have benefitted from Jewish integration and enterprise, for the Jewish people did not come as conquerors but as a peaceful, enterprising and democratic people, offering high prices for each acre of land that they have bought.

"The British government began a policy of whittling down this national home of the Jewish people by various investigating commissions, each time issuing new policies until the Chamberlain appeasement government passed the hurried resolution or the infamous White Paper of 1939.

Condemned by Churchill

"Responsible British statesmen such as Winston Churchill, who was leader of the opposition party at that time, condemned the White Paper as a 'dark blot' on British policy. The League of Nations which is the sovereign authority of the Palestine mandate, condemned this White Paper as illegal and a breach of the mandatory rule.

"The British Labor party before the elections pledged that it would

Old Log House, Built in 1815, Is Torn Down

Built about 130 years ago of rough-hewn logs on a part of one of the land grants of the Revolutionary war period, the old log house of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Vandegrift on Piney Ridge road has been torn down to make way for a new and modern dwelling.

The history of the land goes back to George Washington's time when men who fought against the British received land grants as a reward for their efforts. The log house, according to all indications was built sometime around 1815.

Since buying the property about eleven years ago, the Vandegrifts have been told that their log house was one of three or four built in conjunction with the old Bottle Run distillery, located on Bottle Run road, about half a mile away. The distillery, which later became a tannery, is now in pretty much of a dilapidated condition.

Pegs made of native wood, oak, pine and cypress, held the old log house together although handmade nails were used in the floors on both the first and second floors. Some of the original clay that was used to cement the cracks between the logs remained when the house was razed about two weeks ago.

Beams in the house were rough-hewn from trees with a girth of from eight to ten inches, and Mrs. Vandegrift said the razing disclosed that one of the beams had been burned and some of the floor scorched as a result of an apparently minor fire years ago.

After the Vandegrifts bought the property, the four-room house—three rooms downstairs and a loft bedroom upstairs—was remodeled and improved for year around living inasmuch as the previous owner had occupied it only as a summer residence.

While their new home is under construction, Mr. and Mrs. Vandegrift are living in the Albert Smouse home, a remodeled school, on Union Grove road. Mr. and Mrs. Smouse presently are in Florida.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH FEDERATION WILL MEET

The second meeting of the Christian Youth Federation, sponsored by Central YMCA, will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. at the "Y," with young people of the Living Stone Church of the Brethren in charge of the special Christmas program, according to Robert L. Sisson, general YMCA secretary.

The program will include a piano prelude by Miss Lorraine Burke; call to worship, Jack C. Buckle; Scripture reading by Miss Marian Buckle; a prayer offered by Miss Anna Marie Raley; a Christmas reading, titled "A Christmas Present for a Lady," by Miss Betty May; and a piano postlude by Miss Burke.

Traditional Christmas carols and hymns will also be sung. At the close of the program Sisson will explain some of the aims of the federation for the benefit of new young people's groups which have joined it since the first meeting November 11.

Groups representing nine churches are now members of the federation, Sisson said. The churches represented are Emmanuel Episcopal, First Christian, First Presbyterian, Southminster Presbyterian, the Salvation Army; Grace Baptist, Central Methodist, First Baptist, and the Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Mrs. George T. Woodworth, advisor to the federation, will serve refreshments after the meeting Sunday.

Local Soldier Took Pictures of Meeting; Celebration Lasted 3 Days

An American lieutenant, William D. Robertson, conveniently got lost and wandered out of the sector he was supposed to cover.

His wanderings led him, quite by accident, to the bombed out bridge near Torgau, which he started to cross. While crawling on all fours over the wreckage, the Russians on the opposite bank opened up on him with enthusiastic bursts of small arms fire. Robertson kept crawling forward, pausing every few feet to lift up his head and shout "Americanski." First puzzled and finally convinced, the Russians came to meet him howling with pleasure. Heading the group was Lt. Alexander Sylvashko, of the First Ukrainian Army.

Having found the Russians, Robertson saw no point in going back to his outfit empty handed where his comrades would probably call him a liar so he took three Russians with him for proof.

It was at this point that Goldfine, still at his telephone, got his call and went into action on April 25.

The Cumberland man will always remember the next three days where American and Russian friendship was supposedly cemented. If it wasn't cemented, it was through no fault of the individual Russians and Americans involved, Goldfine is convinced.

Took First Pictures

Frankly, the affair was one big drunk. The Russians, all sizes and ages, both male and female, came pouring across the river to make whoopee with the "brave Amerikans." The women proved to be Russian military police (see picture) who were with their masculine comrades in the front lines.

After taking his first pictures including the one of Robertson and Sylvashko which was the "picture of the week" in Life's May 7 edition, Goldfine was besieged by eager beaver Russians who wanted their pictures taken.

Goldfine said the difficulty was that each picture the Russians plied him with drink. Vodka was described by the photographer as a scorching thirst quencher which feels like hot fumes in your stomach, if it gets that far. Finally,

Moose Expect 400 Members To Come Here for Meeting

The vanguard of four hundred members from fifteen Moose lodges over a wide area were scheduled to start arriving in Cumberland today for the first "all out" get-to-gether of the Maryland Border States Moose Association since the war.

Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of the Moose, will be host to the guests congregating from Wilmington, Washingto , Alexandria, Arlington, Martinsburg, Baltimore, Sparrows Point, Brunswick, Hagerstown, Annapolis, Romney, Keyser, Frostburg and other towns and cities.

The regular "jam session" that precedes the various business meetings will be held today at the Moose home where members will get acquainted.

A business meeting is scheduled for Saturday at 3 p. m.

Approximately sixt,-five persons will attend a testimonial dinner tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in honor of Frank J. Davis, governor of Cumberland Lodge.

The dinner will be the highlight of the three day session. Davis, who is deputy supreme commander of the Moose and deputy grand governor of the Legion in this district, last August received the Pilgrim degree, highest award of the Moose.

Court Awards Decree To Richard M. Keffer

Chief Judge William A. Huster has awarded an absolute divorce to Richard M. Keffer from Ruby Nelson Keffer.

Keffer, 41, 553 North Mechanic street, was awarded the decree with a son, Richard Noel, four, being awarded to the mother along with forty dollars a month for the child's support.

According to his attorney, Robert MacDonald Bruce, Keffer and his wife were married in 1938 and separated in 1943 while they were living at 555 North Mechanic street.

Noel Speir Cook yesterday docketed a petition for Nancy Lee Jolley, Cumberland, in which she asks for an absolute divorce from Joseph E. Jolley, Cumberland, now serving in the armed services. They were married in 1941 and separated November 27, 1945. Mrs. Jolley also asks the court that her maiden name of Nancy Lee Goebel, be restored to her.

National Highway West of Frostburg Reported "Slick"

The National highway west of Frostburg was reported "slick" again last night as ice that melted during the day froze again when temperatures dropped below the freezing point.

While roads were slick west of Frostburg, state police said they were "in pretty good shape" in the rest of the county.

Two snowplows of the state roads commission scraped Route 40 west yesterday but some slush remained on the road. It was the slush and melted ice that froze late last night.

The temperature on Big Savage mountain was thirty degrees at 6:30 p. m. and dropping slowly. In Cumberland at midnight the temperature was thirty-two degrees.

Carroll Reports 1,625 Countians Are Unemployed

Manager of Local USES Office Says One-third of Total Are Women

Stating that there is a surplus in the labor market in the Cumberland area at the present time, Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local United States Employment Service office, said yesterday that 1,625 persons, one- third of whom are women, are now unemployed in Allegany county.

Recalling that nine women began training last week as employes of the new Cumberland Undergarment Company, which will occupy the former General Textile Mills plant here, Carroll said that ten more women will enter the employ of the company next week as trainees.

Training Groups Cited

He pointed out that although the firm hopes to employ 500 women eventually, employes will not be hired at one time but will be employed in similar training groups. Members of one group who complete their training will assist new employees in learning the work, he explained.

The labor surplus in the county is reflected in a report by Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Cumberland office of the Maryland Unemployment Board.

Kenney stated yesterday that the number of claims filed at his office in October totalled 1,761, while last month's total was 3,168, nearly double the October figure.

Veterans File Claims

Nearly one-half of the November total represented claims for unemployment pay filed by ex-servicemen under the Servicemn's Readjustment act of 1944, Kenney said, adding that the remainder represented claims filed by industrial employes furloughed to make room for returning veterans, or by persons who lost their jobs in the contraction of war industries.

The November figure includes 457 veterans who filed claims for the first time, Kenney said. In October approximately seventy-nine veterans filed their first claims at the local office.

J. WALTER BYER IS RE-ELECTED HEAD OF MOTOR CLUB

J. Walter Byer was re-elected president of the Western Maryland Motor Club for the fourth term at the dinner-meeting last evening at the Queen City hotel.

Other officers to serve with him are George Erling, vice president; Kinsey A. Wolf, treasurer and Mrs. Irene Reuschel, secretary. The latter will take charge Monday.

Directors for the ensuing year were also elected. They are Jack Towler, Harold Bloom, Mrs. Mary Brewer, George Carney, Daniel D'Amico, Mr. Erling, Clifton E. Gainor, Charles Grosh, Mrs. Thomas Koon, Mayor Thomas Post, Mrs. Mary Simons, Gale Townsend, B. B. Welsh, Mr. Wolfe, O. J. Brady, Hugo Keller, Arthur Walsh, Ewald Reuhl, J. E. Keech, Carl Storm and R. H. Yokum.

Mayor Post talked about the number of good streets in Cumberland and the assistance the club has been to the city in offering helpful suggestions on civic improvements.

Sgt. John H. Doud, Maryland State Police, discussed the changes in the state motor laws and outlined the new procedure for securing licenses.

Postmaster Urges Early Mailing for Christmas

Postmaster James C. Shriver yesterday asked the public to buy Christmas card stamps now and mail cards by December 15. Parcels should be mailed earlier.

Postal rates as usual are one and a half cents for unsealed matter; three cents for sealed letters or cards. Sealed cards may be sent to servicemen and women overseas for three cents.

Stamps should be bought early so that more stamps can be ordered if the supplies are depleted.

Early mailing will insure delivery by Christmas, Shriver said. Because Christmas falls on Tuesday this year, he said, the post office employes will attempt to clear the office of Christmas mail by Saturday.

John R. Kelly Heads Dairy Workers' Local

Drivers and Dairy Workers' Local No. 924 elected officers for 1946 at a meeting last evening at Allegany Trades Council Hall, Frederick street.

The officers are: John R. Kelly, president; J. T. Fisher, vice president; George E. Eversole, secretary-treasurer; Aubrey Beatley, recording secretary; trustees, Philip Walker, three years; Arthur Turley, two years, and John Matthews, one year.

A conductor and warden will be appointed at the next meeting on Thursday, January 3, at which time the new officers will be installed.

DIRECTS GLEE CLUB—Joseph L. Derry, head of the music department of Central high school, Lonaconing, has been appointed director of the glee club of LaSalle high school. The glee club, with about fifty-two voices, now is preparing for a Christmas musicale to be held Monday, December 17, for parents of students. Derry conducts practices one night weekly. Other rehearsals are conducted after school hours by Brother Clement, principal. William Burns is pianist for the glee club.

Sales Must Spurt To Reach E Bond Goal of $800,000

Lashley Says Present Total Is Less than Half of Quota

With E bond sales still less than half of the $800,000 quota in Allegany county, Lynn C. Lashley, chairman, said yesterday that if the county is to reach its goal in the Victory Loan drive there must be a vast improvement in the rate of purchase.

Sales through December 3 total $377,292, according to Lashley, who pointed out that the campaign ends in a little more than three weeks.

"We must not let up in our efforts" to sell more bonds as "we enter the home stretch of the Victory drive," Lashley stated.

State's Success Expected

He added that "there is every likelihood that Maryland officially will go over the top on its overall quota within the next few days, and we want to do everything humanly possible to reach our E bond quota in Allegany county before too many days have passed."

Lashley pointed out that in Baltimore all of the large department stores and many others are going to carry in their windows during the Christmas season exhibits appealing to persons to give bonds as Christmas gifts. "We have been advised," he said, "that some stores here are planning the same thing."

Yesterday Lashley was advised by Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, that the company has allocated $300,000 of its Victory Loan purchases to Allegany county. White said the railroad's purchases to date total $12,500,000, which has been allocated in varying amounts to some 115 counties and communities on the B. and O. system.

Celanese Allocates $700,000

Lashley said other allocations to the county of Victory bond purchases include $700,000 from the Celanese Corporation of America; $50,000, Western Maryland Railway Company; $10,000, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The Melville Shoe Corporation also has allocated part of its purchases to Allegany county.

Twenty-four Veterans Attend Welcome Home Meeting of Jaycees

Twenty-four veterans of World War II were welcomed back at a get-together meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Thirty-four members of the association attended the meeting which got underway with a dinner at 6 p. m. Each of the returned veterans gave a brief talk on his experiences, according to S. Russ Minter, president.

Textile Workers Plan To Build Or Buy New Home

W. E. Meagher Announces Appointment of Building Committee

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, last evening announced the appointment of a building committee and disclosed that the Celanese local plans to build or buy a modern union hall in the near future.

Members of the committee are William E. Meagher, president; Howard "Red" Bush, vice president; John G. Thomas, business manager; Playford Aldridge, recording secretary; George Zeigler, chairman of warp knit department; Carl Hinkle, textile engineering committeeman, and James Martin, chairman of the union's legislative committee.

The committee was appointed by Meagher who was authorized by the membership of the 8,500 member local to proceed with plans for a building.

Have Building Fund

The union president said the local has been planning the action for the past two years and that a building fund has been established to secure a modern headquarters.

Meagher added the proposed hall will include not only a place for the union to transact business but will, it is hoped, provide facilities for a full recreational program.

The union has been at its present location at 34 North Mechanic street since 1938, union officials said. From 1936 to 1938, the textile union had its headquarters in the Ruehl building on Bedford street.

Feel "Time Is Ripe"

The union official declared the officers of the Celanese local feel the "time is ripe" to secure a postwar home for the local.

Meagher added it was his desire and the wishes of other officers and the membership of the union that "we begin in the direction of building or securing a home of our own."

Sale of Residence Is Asked in Suit

A petition docketed in circuit court by Charles Z. Heskett for Mrs. Sophia Rosenbaum asks the court to authorize the public or private sale of the Ira Rosenbaum residence at 726 Washington street and rule regarding the distribution of the proceeds from the sale.

The residence, described in the petition as "one of the finest private dwellings in Cumberland" was bequeathed to Mrs. Sophia Rosenbaum by her husband. The petition states that Mrs. Rosenbaum elected not to live in the house after her husband's death due to sentimental reasons and it was vacant for six years due to inability to find a suitable tenant.

The property has been rented for the past five years but at a greatly inadequate rent, the petition states. Nevertheless, the rent paid by the present tenant is "about the maximum now obtainable in the City of Cumberland", the petition adds.

The petitioners charge that maintenance, obsolecence, and depreciation charges against the property have in each year exceeded the gross income and that as the situation now stands the residence is "a wasting asset and liability."

Candidates for Local Office Non-committal; Mayor Post Will Run

Commissioner William E. McDonald said that he had no definite statement to make when questioned about his intentions to run for mayor next spring. He said that he had been approached by friends and supporters to run for mayor.

Mayor Thomas S. Post will be a candidate. He issued no statement but said that he would run for re-election.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric lights, said that he would definitely run for re-election next spring.

Commissioner of Police and Fire James Orr, made no comment when asked about his intentions. Hunter B. Helfrich, commissioner of streets and public property, said that he would wait to see how the situation developed before committing himself.

Orr, Edwards and McDonald have served several two-year terms.

Dr. Frantz Explains Public Health Activities in Allegany County

Public health activities in Allegany county were explained by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer, to his fellow Kiwanians at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Public health has to do with prevention of disease, Dr. Frantz said, and listed four basic functions of the health department. They are:

1—Control of communicable disease.

2—Sanitation, (which is concerned with pure water, pure food, disposal of sewage and garbage and proper housing.)

3—Public health education.

4—Research.

Employes of the health departments of the city, county and state work as a unit, Dr. Frantz declared. The Allegany county department is staffed by a full-time health officer, an assistant health officer, ten nurses with a supervisor, five sanitarians, a laboratory head, with two assistants, and a full-time dentist.

The cost of operating the health department in Allegany county was placed at approximately $65,000 by Dr. Frantz, and of this sum, he said that the city pays one fourth, the county one fourth and the state one half.

Activities of the department have to do with the control and treatment of communicable diseases. The department conducts a number of clinics, namely—venereal, tuberculosis, crippled children, and ear. The department also records vital statistics, keeping records of births and deaths, and communicable disease.

Dr. Frantz outlined the work of sanitarians, who inspect milk, test water, and inspect restaurants. The speaker explained that the new program for restaurants is expected to work wonders, and added that the department is receiving fine cooperation from restaurant owners.

The dentist of the health department takes care of first and second grade school children, Dr. Frantz said, explaining that ninety per cent of children who enter public school have defective teeth.

Other activities of the department described by Dr. Frantz was prenatal clinic, well-baby clinic and the pre-school roundup. He also touched on the new medical care program which was authorized in Maryland by the last session of the regular general assembly. This applies to persons on relief and to the medical indigent. Allegany county was allotted $18,000 per year for the medical care program.

Dr. Frantz said there are ten health centers in the county, some of them located in schools and others in separate buildings.

Youth, 18, Is Held in Jail Pending Completion of Probe in Accident

Lawrence E. Shipley, 18, Corriganville, is being held in the county jail pending the completion of the investigation by the state's attorney's office in connection with the critical injury of a 7-year-old Corriganville girl and the serious injury of her 14-year-old cousin, according to Trooper Harry Holsinger of the Maryland State Police.

Trooper Holsinger said Shipley was the driver of the car which struck Kathleen Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Bennett, and Jack R. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Miller, as the children were walking home from school Wednesday about 4:15 p. m.

The Bennett girl was admitted to the hospital in a critical condition suffering from a fractured skull, possible internal injuries, fractures of both arms and the left leg, while the Miller boy was suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg and other possible wounds when he was admitted in a fair condition.

Driving Toward Corriganville

The state trooper explained that Shipley was driving toward the Corriganville post office and had left the first curve west of the town when he plowed into the group of six or seven children who were walking along the left side of the road facing traffic.

As Shipley rounded the curve, Trooper Holsinger said, he came face to face with a car approaching in the opposite direction and lost control in the attempt to avoid the oncoming vehicle.

The car, the trooper added, struck two of the children and ran about seventy-five feet off the road before coming to a stop in the bed of a small stream.

State police are seeking the driver of the other car as a witness in the case and Trooper Holsinger added the unknown driver was entirely within his rights.

Authorities believe the motorist may be a Celanese worker since a number of workers were returning from the local textile plant at the time of the accident, the trooper added.

No Change in Condition

Hospital attaches reported no change late last evening in the condition of either child.

Trooper Holsinger disclosed that the Miller boy, reported in a fair condition, would not have been struck had he not been attempting to pull his cousin out of the way of the oncoming car.

Trooper Holsinger added that Shipley, a B. and O. machinist's helper, was driving on a thirty-day permit which expired in October and said that the youth has been refused a license because of poor eyesight.

The trooper added that Shipley was sober when the accident occurred.
